

A FEW FACTS ABOUT GENERAL JOSEPH A. MOWER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., DECEMBER, 1892.

To the Survivors of the Army of the Tennessee and others:

COMRADES: Many who never met General Mower know his fame; but they who served personally near him know, as no others can, the completeness and charm of his character as an officer, patriot, and gentleman. In well-directed dash and cool intrepidity he had no superior; in zeal and self-sacrifice to duty he had few equals; in efficiency he had the entire confidence of his official superiors. Although without academic preparation he held a commission in the Regular Army, and had a native military instinct that was broadened by painstaking private study of the military art and science. This, united to a passionate love of country, a kindly heart, a splendid personal bearing, and never asking officers or men to go where he did not lead, made him a commander of uncommon efficiency and genius.

But sudden death cut short a young life filled with exploit and promise. A longer continuance of active operations would have led him to a most distinguished place in the world's military history, for he had chosen the profession of arms and to that he was by nature adapted, and in it he was wrapped up, soul and body. From the time he entered the engineers, as a young man from Vermont to serve through the Mexican war, to his death, his career was one continuous succession of brilliant deeds and promotions. He was brevetted through every grade for "distinguished service." This address could not give all of the circumstances of such a military history; but in general it may be said that he was appointed as second lieutenant in the First U. S. Infantry in 1855, by President Pierce, and served in that regiment in Texas where he attained to the rank of captain at the beginning of the war for the Union. Then, resisting the surrounding blandishments of treason by other sons of the flag, he proved to be loyal and also grateful for the commission he held. He was soon ordered to command the fortifications of New Madrid under General Pope, and shortly after the fall of Island Number Ten he was commissioned as colonel of the Eleventh Missouri Infantry. Here he commenced to look for opportunities to deal useful blows, and his purpose never flagged. His mind took in the whole field of war, and the duty of his profession was spurred on by his intense hatred of treason. As colonel commanding a brigade he was severely wounded in the operations about Corinth and was captured, but escaped the same day by a feat of personal daring. At Young's Point he received a commission of brigadier-general, and with that rank participated in the sieges of Vicksburg and Jackson. On the Red River campaign, under A. J. Smith, he commanded two divisions and charged in person with the Twenty-fourth Missouri capturing Fort de Russy. With his command he captured a regiment and battery at Henderson Hill, fought the battle of Pleasant Hill, and, in aid of A. J. Smith, fought the battle of Bayou de Glaize with 4,000 men against more than double the numbers, it being a decisive event in the campaign under Gen. Banks. Then crossing the Achafalaya he fought with A. J. Smith the battle of Tupelo, and next, with his division, he followed Price through Arkansas and Missouri, when he received on the field his commission as major-general of volunteers. When General Sherman was given the command of the Military Division of the Mississippi, having marked General Mower as a favorite, he immediately sent for him with a view of giving him command of a corps, but reasons in the rear left him in command of the First Division of the Seventeenth Corps. At Washington he was given command of the Twentieth Corps. We of the First Division remember how aggressively General Mower forced, with his division, the siege of Savannah and the passage of the Salkehatchie, where, after leading in person his skirmishers through the swamp during a winter's night, icicles were broken from his cloak in the morning. The severe exposure here, having waded bodily in the water, induced pulmonary disease that added complications to his final illness five years later. At Bentonville, his separating his division by permission and charging upon Hardee's left, hurrying the entire force of the enemy across Mill Creek in full retreat, was his last display with us of his prompt daring guided by quick and clear perception, and a movement that General Sherman afterwards strongly commended and expressed his regret that he did not take advantage of it at the time to force Johnson to battle. The concurrent experiences of officers who were near General Mower, from first to last, is that he was directly under the fire of the enemy more than any other officer in the service. He loved to be ahead of his skirmishers, when essential to clear observation, knowing that plenty of generals could always be found.

After the war he was given command of the New Orleans District where he died in 1870 of congestion of the lungs, leaving a young and affectionate family not provided for adequately to his rank and services; for he never had a thought of monetary acquisition but gave all his faculties to his government. Although he cannot speak to mortals his deeds and his comrades must speak for him. As modest and reticent in private life as he was terrible in battle he never alluded to himself, even to those who associated with him in hourly intimacy; and now that his restless spirit is silenced let us continue that living faith we had when we were riding by his side or marching under his inspiring lead and see to it that the carved granite shall transmit to posterity his merits. This is not only our duty to the man but to the country.

It is suggested that money be raised by the various regimental organizations of the first division, and others that he commanded, and also by various G. A. R. posts that are specially interested in his memory, by public entertainment or private subscription, and forwarded to the treasurer, who will promptly receipt therefor.

Letters of inquiry may be addressed to Col. William Hemstreet, corresponding secretary, County Court, Brooklyn, N. Y., or to B. F. Chase, recording secretary, Washington, D. C.

To the Survivors of the Army of the Tennessee and others :

General Joseph A. Mower has been buried twenty years and his grave in Arlington is yet unmarked. The statement of this fact at our late Reunion in Washington awakened a strong feeling among the comrades, and they appointed this Committee to solicit funds and erect a monument to his memory. The Committee inclose herewith a statement of some of the facts respecting the distinguished services of General Mower, and solicit such sum as you may see fit to contribute towards erecting the proposed monument.

Contributions may be handed to any member of the Committee, or sent direct to the Treasurer, General J. M. Rusk, at Washington, D. C., who will receipt for the same when received. Send by draft, post-office money order, or registered letter, under cover of the inclosed envelope.

The Committee hopes to be able to make a satisfactory report to the comrades at their next Reunion at Indianapolis on the occasion of the Annual Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, in 1893. The names of all contributors to the fund will be included in their report. And what comrade will not take pleasure in having his name enrolled among those who helped to place a suitable commemorative stone over dear old Joe Mower's grave?

By order of the Committee,

B. F. CHASE,
Secretary.

Dear Sir:-

A number of years ago you sold to Mr. Frank G. Middleton of this city Lot No. 16 in Block 20 Meridian Hill.

After all these years a bill has been presented to the widow of Mr. Middleton for a special improvement tax levied against the property June 15th, 1877, which is now reported due and unpaid with interest amounting to more than the original sum. Of this tax Mrs. Middleton (now Mrs. Shumate) of course knows nothing and cannot properly be held responsible for its non-payment. Had the tax been assessed during the ownership of Mr. Middletown his estate would be liable for its payment, but if you were the owner of the property at the time, the liability applies to you under the conditions of your deed to him.

We are requested by Mrs. Shumate to communicate with you on the subject and ask that you investigate the facts of the case as presented and if you find them as suggested to make known to us your disposition in the matter. Enclosed please find bill.

Dear Sir.

I am moved to write you on behalf of our brother Capt Isaiah Bray of Oakland, who was to receive the appointment as Captain of the Quarantine Steamer (new) now lying at the Angel Island Station, but she has not been put in Commission, and meanwhile he has used up all his means, and his family are almost in want, and in imminent danger of being turned out of their house.

A letter from you to Surgeon Genl Wyman at Washington may secure the issuing of Capt Bray's Commission, even though the Steamer should not be run at present, and as he has been waiting several months it would be only right to have it dated back, say 3 months. Dr Learmichael in Charge of the Station wants Bray, and assured him sometime ago that his appointment was assured, and he has been waiting. Bray is a good Xn worker, and he & his wife have recently received a great accession of The Spirit. They are joyful even under great trials, and The Master wants us to do anything we can to aid them. I am also writing to our Oakland Member of Congress to call on Wyman.

Very respy & sincerely - that you were on the "Spree" with Mr. Moody.

My first thought was Mrs. Wickham wondering who. Something to this effect:- "How awfully cruel of Gen. Howard to come over here, and not let me know it!" and I decided never to go to see you in New York again.
But when I heard what a narrow escape you had.

Of course my heart melted, and now I wish to say how awfully sorry we have felt for you and Mr. Moody, and how thankful we are that you escaped as you did.

The night before we heard of the accident, father preached to a lot of soldiers in Farnham, and he said a great deal about you - in fact, I think you were his text. I pictured you in New York, and inwardly resolved to finish one of the letters I had commenced to you, the next day.

I can't think why you didn't let us know you were in England. I would have gone over to see you like a shot! Father says you probably went over on business and stayed only a few days etc. All this is simply to comfort me. I know. It is only private and never intended as an opinion.

That your recollection of a certain ambitious girl - whose greatest desire was to head the list of previous virgins - is rather misty. This opinion is far from comforting, and if you can say anything to explode it, I shall be off at once being.

I wish you could have run over to this island and seen the interesting work going on here. You thought of a remark I heard you make You thought of a good is, that there is a chance want to be convinced of is that you still remember

My dear General:

I saw by the papers you had returned safely, at the same time narrowly escaping an accident at sea. It reminds me at once of the stories related

at home and I wish to add a few more directly near a more exciting to come to Livingston and to find any friends or visitors here that you may know of or meet with.
 You may be sure they will be pleased - it is a strange world, without talk and without the rest of you know -

When we met in New York of the man who thought of his prayers
during the storm on shipboard—
You probably have received the paper by this time containing notice of my dear mother's death and I write to say that it some little change in my plans for the present—I have left the office of my brother as he will not think it best to assist it of at all.

He is now taking charge of it and will run the office for the present and I will remain with him for a time to see if he needs

Rio. Nova. G.

John Holting Mr.
Price here for the present but he will be going to Chicago very soon -

We are all very well and often speak of the pleasant visit we made you and of how little I dreamed of the great loss that I would sustain in

So short a time - Hoping you enjoyed your journey abroad and that we may meet in the near future I am
With kindest

Gen. O. O. Howard,

My dear Sir:

I am very anxious that you should visit our University during the present winter, and deliver a lecture before our students and citizens.
He will be pleased with any subject you may select, although I should be glad if you could talk to us upon anything connected with the army.

and its history.

While here, I also desire that you should meet our students in a religious service.

Please write me if it is possible for you to come, and if so, when, and what you would charge us.

Yours Cordially,

Dear General:-

"Merry Christmas
mas!" is ringing about how a good deal. Every one is getting ready for one. — Last summer when we were in WINE to shew that handsome picture of that you sent to me, & say: "This is from a great General." I am ever so much obliged for it. - We have enjoyed our summer in Winnetka very much, & can imagine you enjoying your trip to Europe very much, as they all must (that is, the people) know so much about you, & that you will find

~~and many other~~ objects of interest everywhere—We have also had the splendid treat of going to Durango.
The International's new railroad there has just been completed & the inauguration was to occur Nov. 10, 11 & 12th. Mr.
Huntington & friends, & many notables from City of Mexico, were also there.

~~to me in my opinion~~ I was very much interested in the late presidential Election, but my interest stoped for a while, after it was known that Cleveland was going into the White-house. But I think that we (the Republican party) will be elected in '96, because now we can see that we are not so strong, as to neglect so much as we did. We enjoyed the pleasure of republican rule so much <sup>so long,</sup> that we did not think defeat possible; but we sometimes find that defeat is best for us. And we know from reading history that a great defeat is often followed by a great victory. — Hoping that you will agree with me on this subject, I am

Very sincerely yours
J. A. Stewart Johnson

Dear Uncle Otis:- I have some bonds of the United Coal Co of Lunenburg which I am making an effort to place with savings banks etc in New England, and I desire very much to approach Mr. A. C. Barston, of Providence R.I. Knowing him to be a friend of yours I thought that you might be willing to give me a letter of introduction to him.

I was more than pleased when in New York last Saturday to learn of your safe arrival back at Queestown and to learn how safely you all came out of your terrible disaster. Both Helen and myself send love to all.

Dear Gen. Howard;-

I have been reading about the dreadful time you had on the S. S. Spree. I thank the Lord that the lives of all were spared. It reminded me of a somewhat similar experience which I had when we struck an Iceberg off New foundland. You perhaps have read about it in the book I gave you the Reaper and the Harvest. I have been holding meetings since I saw you in various places. We had a very good time in Trenon. Kind reference was made to your work. Last Sunday I was in the Poquonock Church in Windsor, Conn. Between 40 and 50 professed conversion. It would have rejoiced your heart to have seen sinners young and old coming to Christ. I have promised to go to Waterford, N. Y. a place a little north of Troy to hold meetings about the 8th of Jan. The people there seem to be in earnest, and I think there will be a rich blessing there. Please remember me kindly to your dear wife and family, Am glad your daughter, now that it is all over, could have been with you, during that fearful experience on the Ocean. — "Perils in the deep" — With our united love and much of it, I am your brother-in Christ,

Hammond E. P.

E. P. Hammond.
