CORRESPONDENCE.

THE WAR AS HISTORY.

The Interesting Lecture Course to be Given by the Y. M. C. A.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE NEWS:—It has taken a long time for our civil war to pass out of politics to the domain of history, but it is possible now to study it from its clearly defined sources to its results in a genuine spirit of historic enquiry, and to render a just rather than a blind homage to the memory of those, who, in an exalted or humble sphere, helped to solve the question of national perpetuity a generation ago.

The three lectures advertised to be given at the First Baptist church in behalf of the Y. M. C. A. building fund on the evening March 16th, March 23d, and April 4th, respectively, will afford our citizens a rare opportunity to pursue their studies in this field while incidentally contributing to an object in which all are interested.

The first of these lectures by General Wager Swayne, the eminent soldier and jurist, is entitled "An anti-slavery sketch" but the authors treatment in its breadth, would fairly justify the title of "The history of the rise and fall of slavery in America."

The second, by the veteran General O. O. Howard, will hold up to view one of the grandest, perhaps the most symmetrical of the military figures of the war, in the person of General George H. Thomas, the knightly Virginian who possessing to an equal degree the chivalry and pride of State which animated his great comrade, Robert E. Lee, saw with clear vision the path of soldierly duty in the crisis of the lives of both.

The third, by "Sergeant Charles Ezra Sprague" who is better known to New Yorkers as the scholarly and accomplished president of the Union Dime Savings Bank, has for his subject "Canteen and Cartridge Box, or Life in the Ranks," and the lectures fitly illustrated in his own person the fine class of material which helped to make the rank and file of a great army which was so often better than its Commander.

Whoever listen to one of the three lectures, will feel that he is amply repaid for the cost of the course and that the other two are in the nature of a rich gratuity.

Major General O.O.Howard,

Governor's Island, New York.

Dear Sir:

This Department, in the endeavor to ascertain the facts in regard to the observance of Arbor Day in our country, has found difficulty in securing reliable information in the case of California. A recent letter from the Superintendent of Public Instruction, in reply to our Circular of inquiry on the subject, <sup>enclosed,</sup> says Arbor Day is not observed in that State. On the other hand we have received this morning from a trustworthy correspondent in California the statement that Arbor Day is established there, that "several years ago, at Goat Island, San Francisco, Joaquin Miller, Genl. O.O. Howard, Adolph Sutro and others were the most prominent in getting the affair up". "That the observance was local at first and has remained local although never again taking place at Goat Island, but spasmodically, now at one place and now at another". He says also that "it has been observed every year in the State at some point."

It seems, therefore, if this report is correct, that Arbor Day is observed in California to some extent, if not established by law,

O, doubting soul! this lesson take to heart.
 This lesson, which the Spirit would impart,
 This truth accept. The Christ of Gallilee
 Forgiveth sins, and stills the raging sea!
 Trust thou in Christ who saves.
 Though tempest wild, may come,
 His power shall still the waves
 And guide thee safely home.

John M. Morse

Passaic, N.J.
 Feb 12th 1893.

Saved!

In distant port a noble steamer lay,
 With preparations made, to speed away,
 When ebbing tide should bear her to the sea,
 And on the broad Atlantic, leave her free.
 That ship, well built and strong,
 And easy of control;
 A master hand would guide
 And soon she'd reach her goal.

With every thing supplied, and freight well stored,
 And many happy passengers on board;
 Down to the open sea she swiftly glides,
 And o'er the swelling waves, in triumph rides.
 Her pilot at the wheel,
 Her captain at the fore,
 With all her men in place,
 She leaves that distant shore.

The cable gave a message far away,
 "The Steamship 'Spree' left port on such a day."
 Expectant friends received the word, and knew
 On such a day, the steamer would be due.
 Glad hearts await the ship,
 When steamer-day has come.
 Those friends from o'er the sea,
 They soon will welcome home.

(over)

The day has come. Now anxious friends await
 That Steamship, with her precious living freight.
 They watch, and wait: - they hope 'tis not in vain -
 They long to greet those absent ones again.
 But why is there delay?
 No steamer greets the eye!
 Impatiently they wait,
 While days are passing by!

5.

Yes, days have come and gone, and yet, no ship!
 What has occurred to thus prolong the trip?
 Some, almost frenzied, cry to God - who saves! -
 That loved ones may not sink beneath the waves!
 Stout hearts grow faint with fear,
 And rosy cheeks turn pale!
 They whisper - "Can it be
 They perish in a gale?"

Far, far away from friends, and friendly port -
 Of winds and waves, that ship is now the sport!
 Like mountain summits those great billows rise -
 Then madly rush - and tumble from the skies!
 Oh! what can stand before -
 Great perils such as these?
 No greater perils rise
 Than perils of the seas!

(forward)

7.

The shaft is broken! and the steamer rolls!
 No pilot guides! no human hand controls!
 The slightest thing might now decide their fate
 Their chance for rescue small! their peril great!
 The lurching of the ship,
 The breaking of a wave!
 Might place their lives beyond
 The power of man to save!

8.

'Tis God alone those elements, can still!
 The winds and waves are subject to his will!
 All hearts are turned to God in earnest prayer.
 There is no scoffing prayerless spirit there!
 The strong forget their strength!
 The weak forget how frail!
 Nor strength nor weakness saves;
Faith only, can prevail!

9.

O, what a change! The Saviour speaks the word!
 Some hand has touched the garment of our Lord!
 Faith triumphs! Winds and waves are still at last!
 And now the perils of the deep are past!
 A signal on the Spree,
 Brings help which rescues them!
 And Huron's light, becomes
 Their "Star of Bethlehem".

3. Uniforms and insignia of rank.

Could you also secure for us a copy of the catalogue of the Military Museum at Governor's Island? We should be very glad to pay all expenses involved; and your attention to these matters will be esteemed a great favor.

Yours very respectfully,

Brooklyn, New York, March 17, 1893.

To the Directors of the Congregational Church Extension Society
of New York City and Brooklyn.

Dear Brethren:-

Agreeably to the resolution adopted at the meeting of March 7th, the following committees are appointed to consider the cases brought before the Society at that time and report as soon as practicable.

The next stated meeting of the Directors will be held on Monday, April 17th, unless for urgent reasons a special one shall be called earlier.

The Superintendent will arrange for the meeting of these Committees with the view to your convenience and due economy of time.

Very truly yours,

R. P. Morris

MEMORANDUM.

From the Superintendent to the Directors.

The Superintendent is at the call of each Director at any time. A postal card will suffice.

He will thank them to inform him of any fact, or development, coming to their knowledge, which they may deem important for him to know. He will promptly look into any matter they may refer to him, and report, and meet and confer with individuals, referred to him by them, who may require more time than they may be able to afford.

He can be found at the Home Missionary Society's office, No. 34 Bible House, on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, from 2 to 3 P. M., and always by mail at

782 Jefferson Ave.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
