Dear Sir

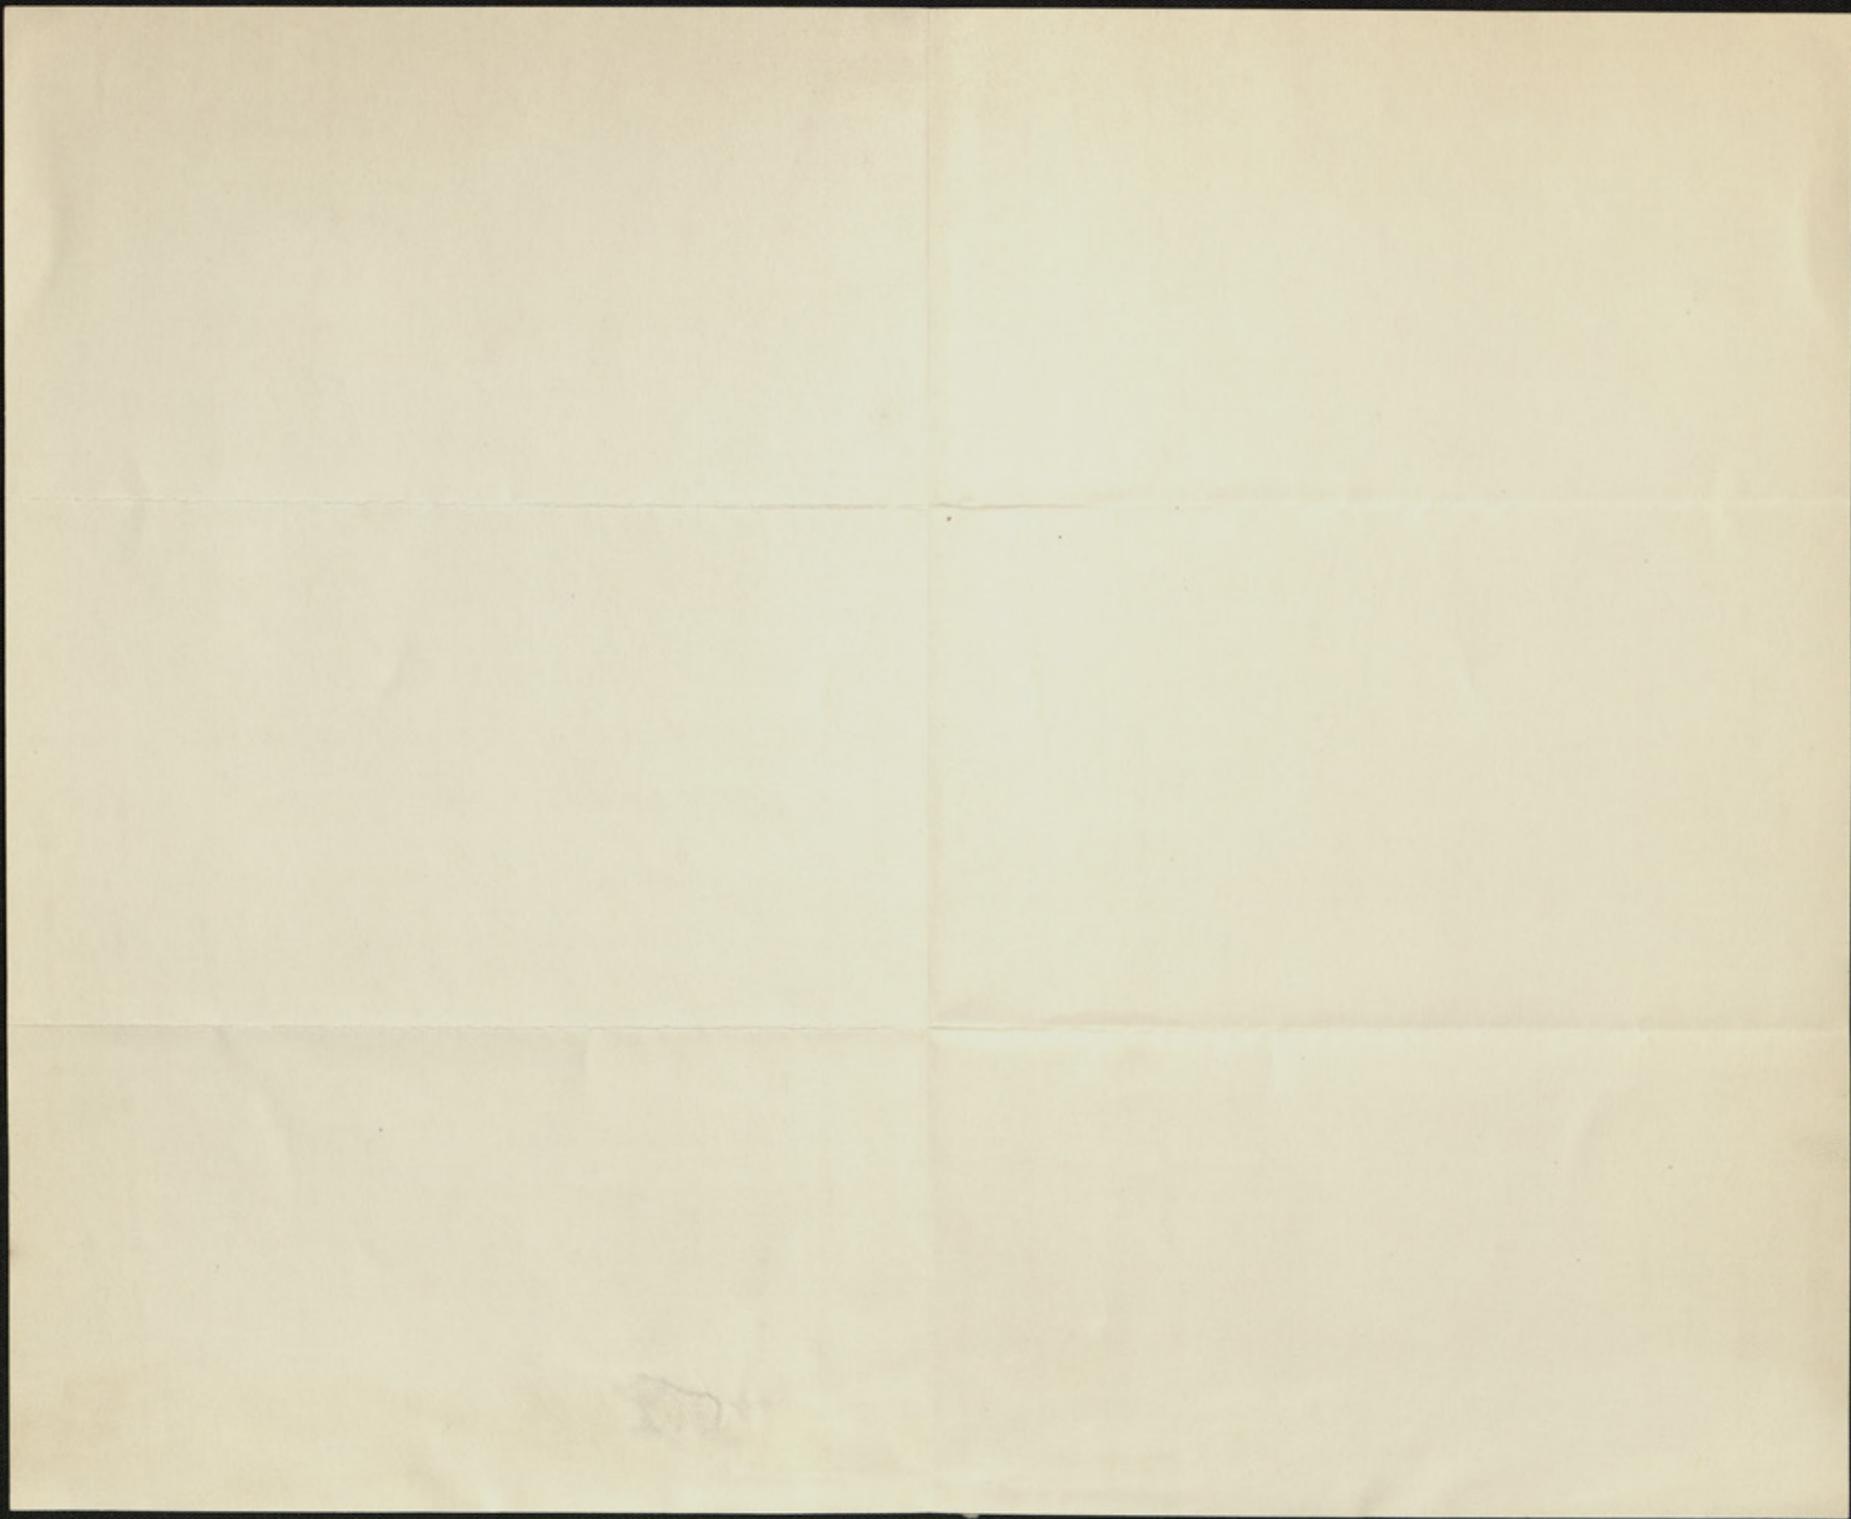

I have written to a number of U. S. Generals asking them their opinion as to whether the late Civil War could have been averted by compromise, and have received most interesting replies

Do you agree with Genl Miles who wrote me that though efforts at compromise were made by some of the ablest statesmen, in his opinion a compromise was not possible which would have been honorable to our nation?

I especially desire to hear from you on this subject.

My father,

and as you are well acquainted

I am now a student

Having confidence in a question: viz.

What is the best course to per-sue in endeavoring to obtain release, for a young man, from the regular Army? The case is this - A young man of 20
went from here to Lincoln, Neb.
to try & obtain work, & failing of success, in a moment of despondency, enlisted for 5 yrs in the regular Army. He is all only son. They have had nearly six mo. of sickness at home, and very much need him. At the close of the war I was Chaplain of 15th Conn. Vol. Infy. Knowing that they asked me, if I could tell them how to get him home. Since that query it occurred to me that possibly you might give us the information needed. If you can, you will confer a great favor upon the family & upon me for their sake.

The boy enlisted, not quite a year since, - & is in Co. D.

I enclose stamps for reply.

Dear Sir: Pardon this writing, but I have a matter of which I have long desired to write you^{and} as I heard the other day of your address I concluded to do so at once.

I met you once in the Bitter Root Valley in Montana while you were there in pursuit of the Nez Perce Indians, and I write you the more cheerfully as I know you to be a Christian gentleman as well as a brave soldier.

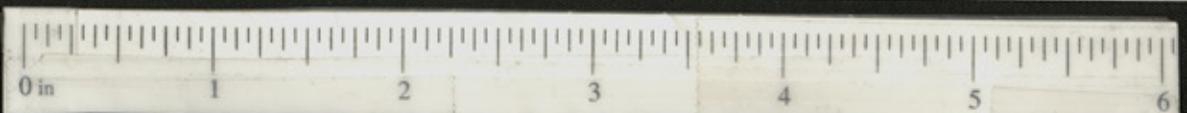

The case is this: There was an old man here by the name of F. M. Hughes who had a fine hay ranch at the foot of the mountain just above this town.

You were one day - about June 1877 - at the house of Mr. J. M. Crooks - who then was the proprietor of this town - Mr. Hughes was also there - Mr. Crooks then remarked that Mr. Hughes had a good field into which you could have the men turn the horses - I understand that these were Government mules and Indian horses - that Captain Bloomer was ordered to gather up all the Indian horses he could - that Mr. Hughes remonstrated to having his field used for that purpose - that he was dependent upon his crops for a living and that besides he had a fine orchard set out consisting of about 550 trees the most of which cost him from $100 to $150 each and that they would be ruined. He says that you remarked thus: "Old man, I am not here to sympathize with any one, but I am here to put down this war," and he says that Mr. Crooks and Captain Bloomer then took charge of the field especially Capt. Bloomer and used the field for that purpose. And that not only the hay crop but also the whole orchard was destroyed. I do not know what military routine is, but I told him I thought that he ought afterwards to have called on you and that you would have issued him a voucher for his damages.

Mr. Hughes is a good old Christian man - but he seemed to go downhill financially from that time - he then got in debt owing to his loss - and some pretended friends got hold of him - and the outcome of the matter was, that they fleeced him out of every dollar he had on earth and took his ranch and everything and he is today without a dollar and really too old and infirm to work but has to work here and there as he can at little jobs to keep soul and body together.

But his claim does not come in

Dear General:

Will you be so kind as to inform me if it is likely, or possible for an appointment to be made from Civil life into the Army?

I ask this being very much interested in a worthy young man, now Twenty Years old, & who is at present a Captain in the Ohio State Militia. His Father, Grand Father & Great Grand Father, have each, at some time, been soldiers, & his ever wish & ambition is to become an Officer in the Regular Army. I have thought best to make some enquiry as to the chances of such an appointment, & trust you will excuse this liberty, but feel from my acquaintances long ago in the Dept. of the Columbia, that you know me sufficiently to be sincere in trying to advance a deserving young man, & my first thought was of you, to find if an estimable effort with good endorsements could avail in his behalf. Your reply will be looked for with much interest.

Hon. and Dear Sir:--

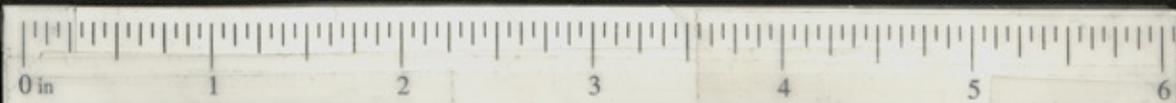

The Committee on the World's Youth's Congress, acting with the authority of the World's Congress Auxiliary of the Columbian Exposition, in deciding whom it should invite to appear upon its program, has been influenced by the thought that as this will be the first gathering of the kind in the history of civilization, and one so full of promise of abiding value to those who are shortly to take our places on all the fields of the world's activities, there could be nothing too good for them; and that indeed, we owe it to the on-coming generations to make this assembly memorable, not only in the large number of choicest youth that America and the world can delegate, but also in the character of the program presentations.

With a view to properly serving these high interests, our Committee therefore respectfully requests the distinguished honor of your service in an address on that occasion.

The Congress will hold three half-day sessions, beginning on July 17, and we shall be glad to have you accommodate yourself to any hour of any of these sessions.

The World's Congress Auxiliary has issued an outline plan of all the Congresses. This I enclose, together with the address of our Committee setting forth the objects and aims of the World's Youth's Congress. These will give you all the information not contained in this letter.

We have not thought it necessary to prescribe your theme, but have left that to your own wise judgement. If, however, you prefer us to

THE WORLD'S COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION
OF THE WORLD'S COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION

March 21st, 1893.

Chicago

Hon. and Dear Sir:--

The Committee on the World's Youth's Congress, acting with the authority of the World's Congress Auxiliary of the Columbian Exposition, in deciding whom it should invite to appear upon its program, has been influenced by the thought that as this will be the first gathering of the kind in the history of civilization, and one so full of promise of abiding value to those who are shortly to take our places on all the fields of the world's activities, there could be nothing too good for them; and that indeed, we owe it to the on-coming generations to make this assembly memorable, not only in the large number of choicest youth that America and the world can delegate, but also in the character of the program presentations.

With a view to properly serving these high interests, our Committee therefore respectfully requests the distinguished honor of your service in an address on that occasion.

The Congress will hold three half-day sessions, beginning on July 17, and we shall be glad to have you accommodate yourself to any hour of any of these sessions.

The World's Congress Auxiliary has issued an outline plan of all the Congress. This I enclose, together with the address of our Committee setting forth the objects and aims of the World's Youth's Congress. These will give you all the information not contained in this letter.

We have not thought it necessary to prescribe your theme, but have left that to your own wise judgment. If, however, you prefer us to make selection of the subject, we shall most cheerfully do so. The Congress Auxiliary prescribes brevity in all addresses and probably twenty minutes will be about the limit.

We shall aim to have this Congress addressed by the most eminent personages representing the different sections of our great Republic and also representatives of the British Isles and the countries of continental Europe.

The ready appreciation on every hand of the patriotic utility and importance of this unique gathering leads us to hope for a favorable response from you to our request. Anticipating the same, therefore, I am,

Very respectfully yours,
