

WINTHROP BANCROFT, of the Class of 1916, Bachelor of Laws, University of Florida; Doctor of Laws, Rollins College. A New Englander transplanted to warm southern climes, successful and enlightened business leader and financier in a region of rapidly expanding commerce and widely developing culture, his sound effort and wise judgment have aided both. An inherent modesty and quiet personality have let but few realize the breadth of his concern for humanity and the humanities in the southeastern United States. As Chairman of the Board of Trustees of a sister college, he piloted that institution through the shoals of academic and financial crises to make it a bulwark of independent southern collegiate education, eminent in its area. Bowdoin is proud to honor this alumnus who has honored her by his firm support of her own educational goals.

Honoris Causa, DOCTOR OF HUMANE LETTERS
