

ROSWELL LEAVITT GILPATRIC, Deputy Secretary of Defense. Graduating Phi Beta Kappa from the College at Yale, and from Yale Law an editor of the Law Journal, your ability was quickly recognized by partnership in one of the country's leading law firms. A sailor by personal predilection, your State of Maine stock prepared you well for the shallow waters, muddy shoals, and sudden violent storms of the Chesapeake and the Potomac. An air and missile man, one-time Assistant Secretary and Under Secretary of the Air Force, long advocate of unification in the military services, as one-half of "Ros and I" you add to your Terpsichorean deftness a courage and dedication to match your mental power. Beyond your distinguished public service, your breadth of interests has made you a Trustee of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, a Director of the Foreign Policy Association, and active in other New York community affairs. For all of this, we happily recognize you.

Honoris Causa, DOCTOR OF LAWS
