

PAUL KENDALL NIVEN, of the Class of 1916. President of The Brunswick Publishing Company, Editor and Publisher of the Brunswick Record, he produces one of the liveliest weeklies in New England, a rallying point for progress in the Brunswick community which takes its lead from his buoyant spirit, indomitable courage, and unselfish devotion to worthy enterprises. A director and founder of the New England Weekly Press Association, past President of the Maine Press Association, member of the National Editorial Association, his career has inspired his two sons as they have followed him through the halls of his alma mater and on to the fourth estate, in publishing management and in able news reporting. Without his sustained effort and enthusiasm, many accomplishments of the Brunswick area, such as the Regional Memorial Hospital, would never have come to pass. He has given himself to this College without measure, as Director of the Alumni Fund and as Overseer, but primarily as an indefatigable worker. Gladly we recognize this high-minded citizen not only as a loyal graduate, but as a man who has made our community a better place for all people and institutions who therein dwell.
