

FRANK STANTON, dynamic businessman and articulate leader in communications, your successful corporate career has been built upon the foundation stones of rigorous academic training. As a Fellow of the American Psychological Association, a former Chairman of the Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences, and as an author, you have maintained your interest in your own scientific discipline. Following the empirical approach of an earlier scientist and communicator, Benjamin Franklin, you have braved spirited criticism by statement of your faith in that hopeful experiment that is democracy. Passionate believer in the preservation of freedom of petition, of speech, or press, and of radio and television, you have fought the incursion of governmental control which could spell its demise. Far from complacently accepting the inadequacies of the present, you provoke and initiate the advances necessary to a better future in all things you touch.
