

BOWDOIN COLLEGE
Commencement 1986

EDWARD CLINTON ANDREWS, JR., native of Rockland and resident of Cumberland, son of Middlebury and Johns Hopkins, doctor of medicine and former president of the University of Vermont, Bowdoin pays tribute to you today for your remarkable accomplishments as president of the Maine Medical Center in Portland. Under your wise stewardship, the Maine Medical Center is not only the state's largest hospital, but also one of New England's best, and its teaching and influence have been a force for progress in health care throughout the state. Bowdoin, ever eager for sound minds, knows the importance, too, of healthy bodies, and we honor your distinguished Contribution to a noble calling. Honoris causa, DOCTOR OF SCIENCE.
