

WALLACE BUTTRICK, Chairman of the General Education Board of New York City; for many years previously the Secretary and President of that Board, who in his position of very great influence has always rendered service to sound education; doubly welcome here as the father of a Bowdoin son; a man with the warmest heart which is yet ruled by his clear-minded head; known from California to Maine as the friend of every institution of higher learning that is trying to do good work; worthy of all the honors that all the colleges and universities of America that he has served so well can shower upon him.

Honoris Causa, DOCTOR OF LAWS
