

ARCHIBALD JOSEPH CRONIN, of Great Britain and Blue Hill, Maine; novelist; Doctor of Medicine of Glasgow University after a course interrupted by service in the first World War; for some years active in his profession as ship's surgeon, doctor in hospitals, medical inspector of mines; author amongst other searching novels of The Citadel and The Keys of the Kingdom which set forth poignantly the successes and the failures of medicine and the ministry; whose works are read by thousands of English speaking people in all parts of the globe, and who has given to the phrase "best seller" a new and deeper meaning.

Honoris Causa, DOCTOR OF LETTERS