

William Frost, of the Class of 1938, summa cum laude; Doctor of Philosophy of Yale University; Professor of English at the University of California, Santa Barbara. Dedicated teacher, but not isolated from the realities of academic administration; inspired researcher, whose studies of sixteenth and seventeenth literary figures have generated critical acclaim; sympathetic supporter of aspiring young teachers of English; exemplar of the best traditions of his profession, his scholarly achievements, his success in the classroom, his devotion to high standards in education and his understanding of all areas of academic responsibility have marked a distinguished career. He has brought honor to the University he serves and to his own College.

Honoris Causa, Doctor of Literature