

DAVID GRAY, adopted son of Maine; novelist, short-story writer, and dramatist; a graduate of Harvard, who like so many other authors based his work on journalistic training; a story writer who forsook his pen during the World War and served with such distinction as to be awarded the Croix de Guerre and Chevalier de Légion d'Honneur by the French government; gallant soldier and high-minded writer.

Honoris Causa, DOCTOR OF LETTERS