

JOHN HENRY HALFORD, a former member of the Class of 1907; representative of the non-graduates, that large group of Bowdoin men who for good or other reason left college before obtaining their degrees but who by their affection for their Alma Mater, their support and their loyalty have often set high standards for the more regular members of the alumni body; successful manufacturer; good citizen; president of the Philadelphia Alumni Association.

Honoris Causa, MASTER OF ARTS