

The Honorands of
The 2003 Commencement

Margaret Hamburg
Doctor of Science

Dr. Margaret Hamburg has made significant contributions to medicine and to public policies over the course of her career. She is currently vice president for biological programs at the Nuclear Threat Initiative in Washington, D.C., and is an internationally recognized authority on the threats posed by bioterrorism.

Dr. Hamburg earned her undergraduate degree at Harvard and received her M.D. degree from Harvard Medical School. For six years she was the commissioner of health for the City of New York before becoming the assistant secretary for planning and evaluation in the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

She is certified by the American Board of Internal Medicine and was elected to membership in the Institute of Medicine, the New York Academy of Medicine, and the Council on Foreign Relations. She is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and of the American College of Physicians and is a member of the Harvard University Board of Overseers.