

ALICE MARY LONGFELLOW, daughter of the poet, “grave Alice” of “The Children’s Hour”; representative of all that is best in the culture and tradition of the older New England that ought to be forever new, now adopted into the Bowdoin family here on the spot where fifty years ago her father read his Bowdoin poem.

Honoris Causa, MASTER OF ARTS