

OLIVER LELAND LORING, of Portland; graduate of Harvard and of the Episcopal Theological School; hard-working and popular minister and pastor of important churches in Dorchester and New Bedford; since 1941 Bishop of Maine and when consecrated, the youngest bishop of the Episcopal Church, bringing to his high office tireless industry, patience, and devotion, and day-in and day-out emphasis on the spiritual needs of man; working constantly to advance the social, rural, and religious standards of the State of Maine; youthful in out-look, vigorous in administration, with years of useful service opening before him; able successor of another honorary son of the College, Benjamin Brewster; honored today for his own fine qualities and character, and as representative of all the Christian forces in the state.

Honoris Causa, DOCTOR OF DIVINITY