

AUSTIN HARBUTT MACCORMICK, of the Class of 1915; Commissioner of Correction of New York City, whose seven years' training as Bowdoin's Alumni Secretary admirably fitted him to cope with crime and criminals; in serious words, author of important treatises in the field of penology; logical successor to Thomas Mott Osborne; courageous, intelligent administrator; one of the most important members of the reform city government of New York and a right-hand man to its able Mayor; an authority on education in prisons; known affectionately by our Bowdoin family for his wit, charm, and loyalty.

Honoris Causa, DOCTOR OF SCIENCE