

Miriam Look MacMillan, Honorary Curator, Peary-MacMillan Arctic Museum; explorer, author, archivist; who shared as resourceful and equal participant in charting areas above the Arctic Circle, exploring more of that region than any woman in history; she helped open the doors of knowledge to Eskimo children in her support of the school started by her husband; through her books and well kept journals she has contributed to an understanding of the people of a desolate land; she has labored generously for the good of the College and has provided invaluable guidance in the growth of its Arctic collections; a person of spirit and kindness, she has won the respect of all who treasure the quality of courage.

Honoris Causa, Doctor of Science