

FRED NORRIS ROBINSON, a graduate of Harvard in the Class of 1891, with later degrees of Master of Arts, and Doctor of Philosophy; for forty-two years a member of the Harvard Faculty, recently appointed to the Gurney Chair of English in worthy succession to the great Kittredge; Secretary and Vice President of the Dante Society; one of the foremost Celtic scholars of the world, and with no superior at home or abroad in the field of Chaucerian learning; gladly honored by Bowdoin, Harvard's young eighteenth-century sister, in the year of the Harvard Tercentenary; patient and kindly and very modest teacher of teachers whom he has inspired with the love of scholarship and taught that "Truth is the highest thing that man may keep."

Honoris Causa, DOCTOR OF LETTERS
