

BOWDOIN COLLEGE
Reunion Convocation 1989

ELIZABETH D. WILSON, wife, mother, and grandmother of Bowdoin graduates, you are a friend to more than two hundred students who have shared your Federal street home over the years since 1947. A graduate of Smith and of the Yale School of Nursing, you worked for six years as a nurse at the Bowdoin Infirmary and then began a twenty-five year career in teaching and administration at the Central Maine Medical Center School of Nursing. Ever alive to education, you earned a graduate degree at Gorham State, and since "early retirement" in 1984 at the age of seventy-nine, you are to be found at almost every Bowdoin evening lecture, panel, play, or performance. You are the quintessential student and a generous friend and supporter of this College, which is pleased today to proclaim you honoris causa, MASTER OF ARTS.
