Friend Chamberlain

Mr. Savage has been with us the last four months, and we have all become very much attached to him. He has gained the respect & love of all his scholars, and set a most excellent example for our young Christians here. You may be sure he has been faithful to his college studies. He has boarded with me, and I know of his studying hard early & late - Indeed it has been necessary to caution him not to over-tax his physical strength.

Mr. S. has taken an active part in some of <sup>our</sup> meetings, and has manifested in them not only considerable power - but a deep, & growing piety. I am thus free to speak to you of Mr. S. because I know you love the college circle - Mr. S. is a young christian, and needs spiritual encouragement, and help to bring him out in the circle meetings -

He has gone back to you feeling determined to do all his duty, and to labor, as opportunity offers, for the souls of his fellow students. Get well acquainted with him, and render him all the encouragement you can -

The remembrance of the Circle is dearer to me than every thing else about college life - There is the power, the very life of the college - Work there, you make better scholars, you make better men, you bless the world tenfold more than in any other way - My prayers are with you, and I hope God will bless you with an outpouring of his Spirit.

I am glad to hear all moves on so pleasantly with you - and shall always rejoice in the prosperity of good old Bowdoin - This is written hurriedly, in the midst of pressing school duties, so please excuse

Yrs. bro. in Christ

A. E. Adams

P.S. Regards to Mrs. C.
