My dear Howard,

Your kind letter of the 9th was received yesterday, and I was glad to hear from you. I trust you will pardon me for the trouble I am causing you; busy as you must be at the present time with the duties of your office; but I am anxious to obtain some independent position, and if I can get in the Mexican Service by your assistance I shall feel most deeply grateful to you. I assure you.

Since the war closed, and I came home; until recently, my health has been so bad as to prevent me from doing any thing. I am now better, and had commenced the study of Law; but it will be a year before

I can be admitted, and during that time I must remain here as ~~tax~~ upon my mother, without doing any thing for my own support; ~~the~~ thing I cannot bear to do if I can help it. Having lost some considerable of her property, my mother is by no means in affluent circumstances and is now taking boarders. So you see my position is any thing but an enviable one; and besides I am not able to do any thing for my wife and child (who are now with her father in Augusta Ga.) Could I succeed in this Mexican affair, I could then take a fresh start in life and I should hope with the experience I have had, so manage as to not go astray again.

I shewed your letter to my mother and she with myself think it best to do all we can for an appointment in the Mexican Army.

with your assistance we do not feel doubtful of success. The Mexican Minister says "if I would go to him he would further my wishes." Does he mean for me to come on to Washington to see him, if so I will do so; only I should like to know exactly when I must be there so as to see you and he; because I have not got the means at command to remain any time in Washington.

I should like to go and see him with you, as your influence will greatly help my application; and if there is any thing else for me to do before hand please let me know.

May I request you then to write me as soon as you can, what day I had better come (if at all) and any other particulars it may be necessary for me to know. Excuse this long letter. Mother sends her regards to you

Very truly yours. C. H. Rundell

Major Genl. O. Q. Howard,

Chief of Ordnance Bureau: Sir—As requested by the person in charge of the lower room in your office, I called at the Station on 7th St. for further orders in regard to the matter in my behalf you, sir, so kindly considered. I told the officiating Clerk, or Sup<sup>t</sup>, at the latter place, that "I had seen the Genl. in person, and that he, unhesitatingly, granted my request."

Nevertheless, I was made the bearer of a note to "Mrs. Carrington, 5th M. St." with directions to her as follows:—"I can examine, immediately, the case of Mr. Lathrop."

Sir, I am perfectly willing Mrs. Carrington, or any other person, should examine my "reg-gally account of empty boxes;" but, on due reflection, I respectfully decline to invite them myself, to report whether I told the truth in my application! I shall return the note to the office.

Thanking you sincerely of your own kindness, I am respectfully yours, &c. A. M. Lathrop

FREEDMEN'S AID SOCIETY.

Mr. GORSTON offered an order granting the use of the hall of the House of Delegates to Major-General Howard, Commissioner of the Freedmen's Bureau, and Hon. Hugh L. Bond, Judge of the Criminal Court of Baltimore city, on Thursday evening next, to deliver a lecture in aid of and in explanation of the objects of the Freedmen's Aid Commission of Baltimore.

Mr. COLEMAN moved that it be laid on the table.

Mr. APPLEMAN rose to debate the motion, but was ruled out of order, a motion to lie on the table not being debatable.

Mr. CLARKE inquired if the order could not be divided?

The SPEAKER asked how he proposed to divide the subject?

Mr. CLARKE said by striking out the name of Hon. Hugh L. Bond.

The SPEAKER said a motion to divide was out of order while a motion to lay on the table was pending.

Mr. LINTHICUM demanded the yeas and nays on Mr. Coleman's motion, which resulted—yeas 20, nays 48, and the motion was rejected. Some of the majority voted with the Republicans against the motion to lie on the table.

Mr. CLARKE then moved to amend by striking out the name of Hugh L. Bond.

Mr. GORSTON said he did not know what motive actuated the offering of such an amendment, but free speech could not be frowned down. Hugh L. Bond, no matter what were his political predilections, was a gentleman who had done much for the city of Baltimore, and who commanded respect throughout the country. You cannot stop the current of events in this age of progress, and if he could not be heard in this hall he would be heard elsewhere. This hall has been granted twice in the past two weeks to men who came from a section that had been in armed rebellion against the General Government, and now it is attempted to refuse its use to one of our own citizens because the majority in the House differ with him politically—the man who had arrested Gov. Swann in his course to incite a riot in Baltimore—a man loyal to his country, to his flag and his Government. The lecture proposed was to explain a subject in which every citizen was interested. The order did not force members to attend, and if they were afraid of the eloquence of Hugh L. Bond, and that their prejudices might be overcome, they need not come. He was surprised that a murmur, almost a hiss of disapprobation was heard throughout the hall when the order was read. You may strike out the name of Bond, but you cannot strike from the Journal the original order. When he presented it he had no idea that objection would be raised.

Mr. CLARKE said he offered his amendment on his own responsibility, and without any consultation. He felt proud of it. He did not mean to question Mr. Bond's private character; it was not before the House to-day; perhaps if it were, the gentleman from Frederick (Mr. Gorsuch), and those who act with him, would not have such a favorable case as they may suppose. He offered the amendment because the people of Baltimore county would not accord him this call, if they were here to vote on it. He is the representative of those who favor the enfranchisement of the negro, and giving him every privilege of the white. No man in this House could question his loyalty to the flag of our country in its years of trouble, and he was the peer of any member on this question. He would freely vote to grant the use of the hall to General Howard, but he would not consent that Judge Bond, or any other Marylander who advocated the social and political equality of the black race should have the use of it. He would again say that he was proud of having offered his amendment.

Mr. BOSWELL opposed the striking out of the name of Judge Bond. He had frequently heard the Judge in a small way in the Criminal Court, and he got a style of small wit that would please the people of Annapolis. Mr. Boswell quoted from the proceedings of the Staunton Methodist Convention of 1861 to show that Judge Bond and R. Stockitt Mathews were in favor of secession.

Mr. NELSON inquired whether it was intended to invite and admit negroes into the hall. They generally constituted the greater part of Judge Bond's audiences.

Mr. GORSTON asked Mr. Nelson if he understood the language of the order as implying such a course?

Mr. NELSON said the order did not read so, but he desired to know if negroes applied whether they would be admitted?

Mr. GORSTON replied that he presumed the officers who controlled the hall would have discretionary power, the same as they had on other occasions, and admit those they see proper.

Mr. APPLEMAN demanded the yeas and nays on Mr. Clarke's amendment to strike out the name of Judge Bond, and the vote resulted—yeas 41, nays 27. As amended, the order was adopted.

Though the tender relation once existing is severed
they will live as friends far as close.

Believe me

Yrs truly

Wm Lloyd Garrison.

I suppose Gregory made the request for the Hall. I had nothing to do with it.
