I am not certain that I made mention to you the offer General Ekin made the last time I called on him - He suggested to me that I secure your influence & then he would go with you to any of the Heads of Departments & do all he could to aid you in my behalf -

But I leave it with you to judge whether this would be the best course to pursue -

A Mr Clark of our church said to me last night that he thought you could get me into the Post Office department as there were several changes Saturday -

I feel anxious not to leave any stone unturned, hence you will excuse this note -

Genl: O. O. Howard:

Dear Sir:

Since I last wrote the plantation and P.M. have been working at crop purposes in the overflowed district The P.M. who had no families took position a quantity to overflow and ~~strike~~ ^{to} struck for what the plantation regarded as high price.
The plantation to starve them and force them to terms, wrote to the Constable that aid was not needed - that those who lost were rich - provision plentiful in the country & to withhold donations. This had the effect to satisfy an City people not over anxious to give any help & so the matter ^{remains} stands while without doubt many of the poor of all colors and especially of the free people are without adequate supplies ^{for the healthy} of food or medicine for the sick which latter class already large, will, doubtless, increase as the season advances; for sickness invariably succeeds an overflow in the summer time in Texas. In a few weeks I expect to hear the most awful accounts of sickness and suffering among the poor of all colors & especially the P.M.

throughout the whole of the overflowed district. Many will doubtless die for want of the proper medical attention and a few such food as sick people require.
Others will can save themselves, perhaps in shorting down stock of all kinds for food and the owners of the stock will reluctate by shorting them, thus scars will occur disagreeable to Christian Obedience! But you will ask, how can all this be prevented?
It can not all be prevented in any way but the evils might be greatly abated by timely measures, to supply the healthy & sick with the articles which their respective situations require - and these must be (as far as may be) be furnished thro the kind hands of Christian charity & not through the channels of unfeeling officials. They negroes can only be benefited by such as have confidence in, and sympathy with them!

The F.M. have no truer or more sympathizing friends than are some who were raised with them. Such understand them and their wants better than can others. But unfortunately their numbers are few.

of the religious habits of infidelity with the F.M. & the colored people.
The F.M. are in a state of infidelity with the F.M. & the colored people.

I am glad to hear that Genl Reynolds has sent agents to investigate in to the wants of the poor. I have great confidence he will do all he can but he is immersed in many objects, seemingly more important - in general National matters. I sincerely wish it was so that you could find a suitable man with a kind heart from the North to supervise this whole matter. Such an one could surround himself with the proper aids and auxiliaries. We have no yellow fever ^{yet} and may not have this year.
The F.M. will need food until Spring and some of them through the winter.
Such as have families are in a deplorable condition. Will not Christians at the North, through whose prayers they were emancipated, do all they can for their relief. You may think my importunity unnecessary to you. Well you must excuse me. Providence has placed me where I can give you information concerning the status of the F.M. in the present emergency which you could obtain from no other source. That information I have felt it my duty to communicate.
Yours faithfully,
Mrs Burke.

The Might of the Republic

IS THE TITLE OF A PICTURE 30 BY 24 INCHES,

PUBLISHED BY O. H. OLDROYD, COLUMBUS, OHIO, embracing the Autographs and Photographs of 110 of the most distinguished men of our country, which has taken years of labor and great expense to present it in its present attractive form, which would adorn every household in the land, and to which we should direct the attention of our children and children's children as the likenesses and autographs of men who, with mind, might and strength, through the blessing of God, overthrew the Great Rebellion which threatened our National existence. "Last, but not least," we have a representative of those whom Kossuth styled "the unnamed demi-gods"—the private soldier of a nation, least in rank but not in honor—and through whose brave hearts and strong arms we are to a very great extent indebted for our peaceful, happy homes. The engraving is really valuable, and will become more so as we are removed from "the times that tried men's souls."

History is not always confined to books alone. The artist's ready pencil is often used with even greater effect than the pen of the historian. It is a gallery of American greatness, and such as we have not met with in any other form as acceptable as this. It is an ingeniously arranged picture, and the patience and skill evidenced by Mr. Oldroyd is somewhat remarkable. The work is a study which may well claim the attention of every patriot, presenting a picture gallery of those whose might has saved the Republic, brought back the Ship of State from the angry waves of treason, and whose deeds are its glory. As a work of art it will bear a critical examination, and as a memorial picture of the Great Rebellion is worthy a place in every dwelling.

The picture is graced with various ornamentations. On the left hand corner at the top is the National Capitol, on the right a flag in graceful folds. An eagle spreads out its wings over the whole, resting upon a shield, and bearing in its bill the title of the piece, "The Might of the Republic." Just beneath the eagle are good likenesses of Messrs. Chase and Spinner, and beneath them a one dollar "greenback;" on their left a Monitor, and their right a cannon.

Below we give a list of the photographs and autographs that compose this valuable work:

CABINET OFFICERS—Ex-President Lincoln, William H. Seward, Edwin M. Stanton, Gideon Welles, Hugh McCullough, W. Dennison, James Harlan.

ARMY OFFICERS—Generals Winfield Scott, U. S. Grant, W. T. Sherman, George H. Thomas, H. W. Halleck, M. E. Meigs, I. McDowell, Jeff. C. Davis, John A. Logan, W. Merritt, C. M. Clay, Silas Casey, C. P. NAVY OFFICERS—Admirals D. G. Farragut, David D. Porter, L. H. Stringham, H. Dahlgren, S. F. Dupont, Jos. Smith, Charles Wilkes, C. H. Davis, H. Paulding.

This picture has been produced at an enormous expense, and would command a high price; but owing to its great sale, the Publisher has put the price at $2 50. It is sent upon the receipt of price, by mail, in a tube, and is warranted to carry through with safety.
