Dear Sir,

What is the meaning of such delay in making good to the Trustees of the Bank Depositors their hard-earned money? It is about time that money was refunded to them
years after fiction.

Dear Governor,

I received your kind ferry of 15c. in white envelopes, which letter I have sent herewith.

Chapman evidently wrote when he was sick from hard work and a thorough drenching at the fires, and when he was depressed by his examination, or as he forcibly explains, when he was "mad." Knowing your feeling about the Andover drill, I divest it from irritation, he naturally turned it over to you. He has explained to me that he knew very well that he must get...
It is true that Mr. J. B. has been recommended for a place as an assistant in the office of the Ministry of Education, but I feel that he is not quite ready for it. He is still in the preliminary stage of his training and needs more experience before he can be considered for such an important position.

I have been told by his former teacher that he is very promising and has the ability to do well in his work. He is also very diligent and always willing to learn. I have no doubt that he will make a good assistant and contribute to the success of the Ministry.

I am writing to ask you to consider his application and give him a fair chance. I have confidence in his ability and believe that he can do the work well. I would be grateful if you could give him a position that would allow him to develop his talents and become a valuable member of the staff.

I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Yours sincerely,

Dear Mr. Green.

I find among my papers the enclosed which were left with me by your brother R. B. and which I found that I could not use. It was laid up, and too much of a chronicle. I kept it to be at his call, but he had not reclaimed it, and I return it to you. I with it had been in a form that I could read it, and I shall be glad to publish an occasional article from you on India or other matters, as you may be moved to write.

Yours very respectfully

Dear General:

Owing to the removal of General Brady, 2nd A. U. S. M. Y., there is a great flutter among the clerks in this department, especially those in the contract division. Of course I'm affected in common with the rest and having no backing here write to you for advice.

There have been fifteen or twenty removals since the present Post Master General took charge, and there is to be a further reduction of thirty on the first of May next. This information is reliable.

Now Gene, can you not think of some way to prevent any harm coming to me should such a thing be contemplated? I have no reason whatever to believe that I’ll be one of the victims, yet I can’t throw off the dread of the bare possibility. I am in good standing, give the best of satisfaction, and am well thought of by all my superiors. Let me hear from you please, General.

Love to all.

Truly yours,

W.B. Beedle

Thanks indeed.

Dear General,

Many thanks to you for your kind opinion of my services as expressed in your letter of recommendation. Nothing could be better. I have the same from bust of my superiors, and in closing a vacancy occurs, I will be upon an equal footing with the first in line. I think others who have also asked for promotion, I am coming on well. With divine blessing, this summer and hope to see you.

Dear General,

I inclose an official request for the relieving of Captain Godfrey. I have long contemplated such a request, but have delayed it out of a sense of celeration which is no longer a virtue.

By personal and official relations with Captain Godfrey and not agreement and I cannot give him, or have in him the confidence that should exist.

I do not think that he tries to carry out my ideas — but rather To secure his own ways, — and to gain his own personal advantage, — and I have further the belief that he is lax in discipline — I do not think his person or family influence is advantageous to the C. —

I submit these as my private reasons for a change — I think if Mr. Claramond were put in charge of Lovely instruction, and that Selmore be given a Co. or other company, in LendBleeker woods place, everything would I have submitted this private note that you might be more fully informed of my views than I can to state officially —
