Dear Sir,

I address you this line to bespeak from you something of a personal interest in my young friend Mr Ernest Smith, who I understand has passed the examination at "West Point" - for admission. His Grand-parents with whom he has been living, are Methodist people, His parents are members of the Christian (Campbellite) Church, and he himself united with one (Presbyterian) Church last winter. Some of us feel a very deep interest in him and especially that his religious life shall be developed. We regard him as an earnest, right-meaning boy, who, with the right influences about him, will make his future a credit to himself and a blessing to the world. Possibly a word of inquiry and of encouragement from you, as to his faithfulness to a religious life, might do much toward shaping his future and strengthening his Christian purposes,

Dear Gent:

Yours of 26th inst. received. While I am terribly disappointed, I assure you, I do not take the least offense at your frank refusal. Yet I have been wondering, from the tenor of your note, whether you understood me to want the cash from you on the note, or simply your name. If the former, I must undeceive you.

It was only after exhausting every conceivable means to secure a loan that I decided to ask you. The only alternative I now have to raise the amount, is by depositing my insurance policy which you

General:

In reading over your book entitled, Chief Joseph &c., I find in the description of the Clearwater fight that you have given credit to Captain Miles for the charge made at the time Captain Bancrofts was wounded, which was entirely incorrect. Captain Miles had nothing whatever to do with the instigation or execution of that charge.

The matter arose without forethought, from necessity. A portion of the Indians had crept up and obtained the ridge in front of Captain Bancrofts' company; they opened fire and at about twenty yards. Bancrofts was wounded, also some of his men. I happened upon the scene almost as soon as the firing commenced, and from my position instantly perceived that something extraordinary should be done — the company was slowly giving away, and no troops remained between the supplies, ammunition, &c.. I immediately rushed up to Bancrofts' men and ordered them to cheer and charge - called to Haughey of the 21st to come on. All responded. I went with Bancroft's men and continued after the Indians till no men were with me.

The Indians turned tail and fled. Our cheers and action seemed to infect the whole command. We had been sorely pressed.

Olis' Howitzers and a Gatling lay between the lines, then not twenty paces apart, and I noticed an answering cheer and an advance of the part of the line on that front, the regaining of the Howitzers, and a general retreat of the Indians.

I claim the credit of beginning that charge, of commanding to the end all that occurred near Bancroft's company, and do not think that Captain Miles ever dreamed of getting any credit for it. I suspect you must have made a mistake of note-book writing and reading "Miller" Miles.

Your obedient servant
M. Miller,
Captain 4th Artillery.

My dear General:

In reply to your note of the 20th instant, on the subject of filling up the vacancies at West Point, I beg to assure you that it has not failed to have attention; and the subject has been pressed upon the members of Congress.

Almost all the Congressmen whose nominations have failed say that they are all at sea; as their nominations were made by competitive examination.

I am, as I have expressed to you heretofore, anxious to see the academy worked to its full capacity, and I wish to do whatever is in my power to accomplish that end.

Very truly yours,

Dear General Howard

I received a letter from you sometime ago telling me of Jamie sailing from N. Y. which was very kind of you. Yesterday I received two letters from him, the last one mailed in Paris giving me his address, which I cannot exactly understand. You of course have it and I will be obliged if you will send it to me. I wish to write him about his Waterbury friends. Of whom there are a great many. Jamie seems to enjoy himself in Europe as he does everywhere. I hope he will decide to come in the year if only for a short time. Four years seems very long to be away from home & friends. Father My Sister & Sarah wish to be remembered to General Howard & Family. With my sincere regards for you & yours.

Dear Genl.

Enclosed please find U. S. Treasury draft for $25 for use of my son. When I left the Point I deposited $75 - & I wish to make it $100. I told the Paymaster I'd send $25 more as soon as I could. I have not his name or should not trouble you.

I take this opportunity to thank you for your courtesy to me when I was at West Point & to tell you I am very glad you are Superintendent there while my son is a cadet!

Please let the paymaster give the receipt to Gustave.

I have a very brave & manly letter from my boy, & he seems pleased & trying to do his duty.
I hope he will distinguish himself & make me happy.

Tomorrow is his 18th birthday, the first we have spent apart -

I am trying to be brave myself & find it pretty hard at times.

With best & kindest wishes for you & Anne, I am

Dear Genl Howard.

Thank you for your kind note and for the books. I will read them with pleasure and then notice them in the Eagle. Thank you also for your mention of my son; he writes me that he is very happy. When I saw you I said I wrote a "personal" of you for the Eagle. I enclose it. The Eagle is so intensely partisan in politics that I move toward any point-outside of pauls slowly, but-I rarely fail to say all the pleasant-things I choose to say even about-Republicans, so you need not be surprised if you see yourself mentioned in future as though you were one of us. Being a re-what political sentiments persons entertain or long as they are right in all their ways or rather heading in that direction.
