likely both will die before 1891. Of course it might happen but most likely it won't. I was thinking today how strange God orders all our "Poor General Howard he does not deserve so much trouble" Now John is well it is all past and we are all rejoicing with great joy over your good fortune. I would rather be a Major General for Mr Cleveland gave away a better office than he has himself.

Dear Gen Howard: I happened to be in the city of Portland last Saturday when information of your appointment as Major was rec'd & joined with other of your friends in a dispatch of congratulation.

This merited promotion gives us great satisfaction, both on your acct personally & on acct of the Gospel to wh your army life is so unflinchingly faithful.

I felt it very kindly when Terry was passed over you - by all that is fit & proper that is your place. And I was fearful that you wd be left in the next selection. That you were not affords us intense satisfaction.

Please accept from Mrs Ellis & myself for Mrs Howard & yourself heartiest congratulation and good wishes.

My dear Father;
 This morning I attended my last recitation in inorganic chemistry; and the last lecture in the same subject was given also. There has been a lecture each school day for 35 days.
 These 35 lectures on chemistry have been very good, interesting & instructive, also practical.
 A few extra lectures were given - Upon Water, its kinds & analyses.
Poisons, its kinds & antidotes etc.
Fuels, its kinds power etc also several other chemical lectures upon the detection of diseases by ~~anal~~ analysis of materials furnished by physicians. For the chemist does this - not the physician.

I am glad the course is finished.
He had recitations each day to another professor at a different hour from a text book. I have full of clean notes upon the lectures.

The examination will come in June, I do not dread it, because I have succeeded well in the "Advance" or recitations.

I finished my drawings upon the construction of bridges, yesterday.
I have been working several hours per day upon this subject for some time. The plans (general & detail & working) which I have drawn, are for an iron bridge - of the same character is the one let ~~made~~ of C. Bluffs. The drawings were accepted to-day. This makes another subject done. I begin Analytical Geometry on Monday. My class begins botany also.

I have been examined & passed in botany & hence for at least five weeks to come I will not be forced to late hours. I have some drawings to finish which I can do in a week's time. So I am now practically in full standing. There remains but two or three weeks out door compass surveying of the "Freshman" year (Div. D) to be done in May-June. In all other subjects I am in full standing - & ahead of my class in botany. Thus God has been so good to me. My health has remained good, notwithstanding long continued

A series of thirty or more of the decisive Battles of the War for the Union, painted by the famous artist, Matt Morgan, is approaching completion. These immense pictures include, among others, the exact representations of the Battles of Belmont, November 7, 1861; Donelson, February 15, 1862; Shiloh, April 6 and 7, 1862; Corinth, October 4, 1862; the Siege and Surrender of Vicksburg, 1863; the Battles of Gettysburg, July 2 and 3, 1863; Chickamauga, September 19, 1863; Mission Ridge, November 25, 1863; Atlanta, July 22, 1864; Spottsylvania, May 8-18, 1864; the "The Wilderness" and Appomattox. The paintings will be exhibited in every city of the United States, with accompanying historic lectures of explanation. The actual fields of battle, with all the tactical and strategic situations, are faithfully portrayed from the official reports and eye-witnesses of each engagement. It is important, however, in this enterprise, in order to give the representations a character of personal interest to our surviving comrades, and those who fondly cherish the memories of fallen heroes, that there should be as many as possible of the faces and forms of the gallant soldiers engaged in the several conflicts, who can be readily recognized. Accordingly, the artist has made this a feature in all these scenes, and I have the honor now to request all my old comrades to send to me, at Matt Morgan's Art Rooms, Cincinnati, Ohio, their photograph, and stating the regiment to which they belonged, or the position in which they served in any of the battles herein mentioned, that their portrait may appear in the painting.

A photograph taken at date of enlistment or appointment, or resignation or discharge, would be preferred, because we want you to look as you did in the days that tried men's souls. The photograph will be returned as soon as transferred to the canvas. The pictures are especially designed to interest veterans, and all members of the Grand Army of the Republic.

My dear Old Friend and College Mate
 You will no doubt wonder who the writer is, as soon as you read the above title. Well, it is none else than the little West Point "Plebe" of 1853, of whom yourself, Gracie, Dillepign et al. of your class, used to make so much - only little plebe Fowler of Louisiana, who was afterwards compelled to leave the "Point" on account of ill health.

My old friend, (Genl. I suppose I ought to call you now) I have a two-fold purpose in writing to you; the first is to congratulate you heartily and sincerely upon your recent promotion to be a Maj. Genl. in the Regular Army of the U.S., that army of which my father was a line officer for so many years of his life - 2^d Dr.

(9510, 2000)

My intellect, however, enabled me to pass the civil service examination for a position in the Post Office here, some months ago - and I man-aged to get a very subordinate position under the present incumbent, at a very scant salary, viz.
 $700⁰⁰ per Annum, not quite $60⁰⁰ per month.
 Of course it is utterly impossible for me to get along on that amount, pinch as much as I may.
 If you could assist me in getting something better in Washington you would lay me under many obligations, for it looks very much like starvation down here -

My family were all totally ruined by the war and lost every thing -

Please see what you can do for me and let me know the result, at your earliest opportunity.

Genl O. O. Howard
 Washington D. C.
 Wishing you every success
 Your old friend
 W. H. Fowler

New Orleans, La.
 Feb. - 1886.
 Fowler H. W.
 August 1886

My other reason for writing is with a view to enlist your kind offices in my behalf in an endeavor to procure for me a position under the Government which will enable me to support my family and finish the education of my children in a proper manner.

My family consist of a wife and four half-grown children, and for the last three or four years, (on account of the depressed condition of business down here), it has been impossible for me to provide for them adequately.

I have, I believe, a few influential friends in Washington who, I think, would assist you in getting me such a situation either in Wash. or here. There is Genl R. C. Drum Adj. Genl who married my first Cousin Miss Morgan of this state a good many years ago. Altho' I do not remember meeting with him since that event, I feel confident that he would do what he can to assist me. Both of our Senators are acquainted with me and so are several of our representatives viz, Gay, Irion and Col. St. Martin.

I would go on to Washington myself, but have not the means to undertake such a trip, being as I am from hand to mouth, and my nose tied down to the grindstone all the time.

I may not now be quite as bright in intellect as I was at West Point at the age of 16 - but what I may lack in that respect, is more than made up for, I think, in a pretty large store of good common sense and strong moral principles - ~~two~~ qualities too rare ever to be despised, particularly when they are found combined in the same person.

Gen. O. C. Howard,

Dear Sir;

I have been engaged during the past few months in raising money for Mrs.
Edmund A. Wade who is left by the death of her husband practically friendless — except for her little home here. She has been a great invalid for the last three years of her health — though greatly improved - is still such that there is no present prospect of her being able to do anything to support herself & her four children, though her dearest hope is that she may yet be able to take up & carry on as far as practicable the work that her husband at his death laid down.

Her needs for this year have been provided for by the gift of a few hundred dollars from friends in Hartford, Conn. & she will also receive from Atlanta University half of her husband's salary, which was but $2000. in all for this school year.

But in looking forward to each year for her, & to all the coming years, during which the burden of poverty must be added to her burden of sorrow & ill health, my husband (to put her let me stop & introduce myself to you, Gen. Howard, as the wife of Prof. Brewster who was Am. Wane College class-mate last ten years his associate & I am very anxious she should not hear of it in any way until I have secured the desired amount. We also think it very important that her brothers should not hear of the plan - indeed I feel that they had better not know that such a fund is being raised for their sister, but that when it is an accomplished fact that they will rejoice as heartily as will all Mrs. Wans' true friends.

You, who have been engaged have $10,000. ? It should be remembered too that this amount can yield but $600. or ^{$700.} interest, how then can anyone expect that an invalid woman - always heretofore accustomed to the comforts & refinements of life & out of children & support - can live on a less amount? Even with this she will need all the help that her brothers

May be able to render her as one of them - Rev. Jos.
Trichell of Hartford has a family of nine children & a minister's salary he certainly might not be be respected or aided I do much to aid her.

An editorial in the Boston Advertiser upon Mr. Ware's death ended with these words - "Probably no man ever died in Atlanta who so well deserved a monument in her public square as in honor of A. Ware." While we who knew & loved him & appreciated his worth could gladly see such a monument erected to his memory we feel that there can be no memorial of gratitude & affection so noble as a fund that shall raise his widow & children from dependence & poverty to comparative independence & freedom from corroding anxious care.

Mrs. Ware has no knowledge of any plan for her,

Dear General -

I introduced a Resolution today authorizing you to receive the decoration of the Legion of Honor.

In the resolution I cite that this is conferred as a compliment and for attendance upon the manoeuvres of the French Army.

I conferred with Genl Cox & the resolutions accords with his views - Hope it will receive favorable action in Committee.

Dear General Howard,

Your letter, with letter from you to the Assistant General of the Army speaking of my qualifications for the position of Judge Advocate General, was received yesterday morning. I have thought a great deal of your good opinion. Your distinguished record as a soldier, your acknowledged ability as a writer, & your reputation as a sincere & earnest man, gave your opinion in my eyes great value. Your endorsement of my fitness for the position of Judge Advocate General is grateful to my feelings. If I am fortunate enough to get this promotion I shall endeavour to perform my duties with fidelity & whatever ability I may possess. It has been gratifying to me to receive endorsements from many men, Civil & Military, of eminent standing in the Country.

Indeed, it would seem hardly possi-ble that an officer could be better endorsed than I am for the position of Judge Advocate General - As my peace of mind & contentment of heart do not at all depend on official position I am, in a measure, indifferent as to the result of the efforts of my friends. I sincerely thank you for your endorsement, however, and shall endeavour not to prove ungrateful if an opportunity occurs to reciprocate.

Oftentimes I am glad you have re-ceived your promotion. It was due you on higher grounds ^{than} "Seniority".
It was a mistake ever to have based your claims on a ground which had no foundation in Law or pre-cedent. I was sorry to see the persistence with which your friends urged this as the great reason why you should be promoted. I think it was construed by the "Powers that be" as an effort to dictate a policy. No President ever regarded Seniority. Why should Mr. Cleveland?
I think you lost your promotion to General Hancock's place by the argu-ment with which the claim of Seniority was pressed. In saying this my hands in his pockets, ordered away small girls whose noses were flattened too persistently against the windows outside, and smiled benignly on old ladies who stopped to examine the quality of the chintzes and flannel suitings.

Mrs. Pickrell reproached the young woman with the banged hair for giggling too loud when there were customers in the store, and called to Carry to "mind what she was about" when a box of ribbons fell off the counter upon the floor.

Carry grew very weary, her head began to ache, and she wondered how long it would be before "shutting-up time."

At last a tall, brown-faced young man came in, wearing a foreign-looking coat trimmed with fur, and somehow bearing in his aspect the indescribable stamp of belonging to some other country.

One of the banged-haired nymphs was eating her lunch; the second had rushed up the street to get change for a ten-dollar bill, and the third was engaged in matching an impossible shade of ribbon for a young lady who was determined not to be pleased with anything.

"Carry!" shrilly signaled Mrs. Pickrell.

And our heroine advanced valiantly to the rescue.

"What can I show you?" she asked timidly of the new customer.

"Silk, please," said the young man. And when Carry perceived that he was considerably more embarrassed than herself, she took courage.

"What color?" said she.

"I don't know," answered the customer, "that is, I haven't quite made up my mind. Perhaps you could suggest—" sold them to him this afternoon.

"Hey?" said Uncle Wolsley.

"At the store," said Carry. "Oh, Uncle Wolsley! And he is really my cousin?"

I am so glad!"

"Glad of what?" uttered a strong, cheery voice, and in came the mysterious stranger himself.

"Why, I declare," he cried, "if there isn't the life of the girl who sold me the things today!"

"Glad that you are my cousin!" said Carry, with a mischievous smile and a low courtesy.

"Because—because I thought you were very pleasant and kind—"

"And I thought—" said the stranger. But no, I won't tell you what I thought. How do you do, cousin?"

"I am so glad you chose the seal brown silk!" demurely observed Carry.

"What should I have done with a blue or a pink silk?"

"It would have looked very well on you," said the cousin meditatively eyeing her.

"Blue would have matched your eyes; pink, your cheeks."

"Just my sentiments!" chuckled Uncle Wolsley. "Come, young folks—come, tea is ready! and the toast is getting cold!"

Not until the visitor had taken his leave did Uncle Wolsley, smoking his pipe before the fire, impart to Carry an additional piece of news.

"What do you suppose this Mr. Lennox told me he came down to the States for, Carry?"

"I'm sure I don't know," said Carry, innocently.

Major General O. O. Howard,
Dear Sir:

Allow me first to congratulate you on your well deserved promotion, which is a great gratification to your numerous friends. Your communication to our Trustees, yesterday received, took me wholly by surprise. Rev. Mr. Brown I have always heard praised for his acquirements, and have esteemed him as an alumnus. But it is news to us that any Professorship of Modern Languages was contemplated, or at present needed. No one has mentioned the subject to the Trustees, to the Executive Committee, to the Faculty, or to the President. The modern languages are not required in our curriculum of study, but are optional, and very few take them, for even a single term. We provide for these few without extra expense, by using the present instructors. It would be far cheaper, if need were, to hire a French or German teacher from the city, for an hour a day, than to assume the support of a Professor of your own. And there we have no means of paying the salary of a Professor. These are questions which precede the selection of a Professor, and demand serious consideration.

Yours truly
Wm. W. Patton, President.
