JANUARY 7, 1888.

My dear General:

I send you by this mail a couple of documents which will give you some information about the Citizens' Law and Order League. Agreeably to my promise I will endeavor to run up the matter concisely, so that you may get an idea of the subject about which you are to speak on the 18th or 19th of February, without wading through the voluminous documents showing a great deal of time.

The Citizens' Law and Order League was organized in nearly all the States of the Union, and has come to be recognized as an important and efficient agency in the promotion of the temperance reform especially. I will give you a brief history of the League in Massachusetts, for our experience is especially valuable. The same as that of the other organizations, and what has been accomplished here, either has been or can be accomplished elsewhere. Our League was formed in the Spring of 1882; it came into being because people found that while the Legislature had been for a number of years annually strengthening the laws, placing restrictions upon the liquor traffic, there was sensible change in the condition of things had been secured because laws do not enforce themselves. Here in the City of Boston, the enforcement of the law was entrusted to a Board of Commissioners, appointed by the City Government. The persons engaged in the liquor traffic had combined together and attained such control over the City government as to have entire control over the <sup>Administration of the</sup> liquor law, and the police department, ~~in its hands~~. Very little effort was made by the officers to enforce this law. It was a common thing for liquor dealers to threaten to have the buttons removed from officers if they manifested any interest in, or attempted in any way to enforce the law. Every provision of the law was openly violated. The thing which attracted the closest public attention was the open violation of the section of our law which forbade the sale of intoxicating liquor to minors. We found an organized body of men having a pecuniary interest in preventing the proper administration of the liquor law, controlling the public officers, and doing so largely because the law-abiding citizens who had an interest in the enforcement of these laws did nothing and said nothing about it. It appeared to those of us who were active in the formation of the Law and Order League that the time had come for the good people to organize to resist the law breakers, and compel obedience to the law by lending to the public officers that countenance and support and effective assistance which they needed. Under these circumstances, we tion of things had been secured because laws do not enforce themselves. Here in the City of Boston, the enforcement of the law was entrusted to a Board of Commissioners, appointed by the City Government. The persons engaged in the liquor traffic had combined together and attained such control over the City Government as to have entire control over the liquor law, and the police department, in the hands. Very little effort was made by the officers to enforce this law. It was a common thing for liquor dealers to threaten to have the buttons removed from officers if they manifested any interest in, or attempted in any way to enforce the law.

Every provision of the law was openly violated. The thing which attracted the lowest gratification was the open violation of the section of our law which forbade the sale of intoxicating liquors to minors. We found an organized body of men having a pecuniary interest in preventing the proper administration of the liquor law, controlling the public officers, and doing so largely because the law-abiding citizens who had an interest in the enforcement of these laws did nothing and said nothing about it. It appeared to those of us who were active in the formation of the law and order League that the time had come for the good people to organize to resist the law breakers, and compel obedience to the law by lending to the public officers that countenance and support and effective assistance which they needed. Under these circumstances, we formed an organization, strong in its personnel, in the character of its membership, in the broad ground taken as its platform, which asks only obedience to existing law. At that time twenty-six hundred places were licensed to sell intoxicating liquor; it was estimated that about thirteen hundred unlicensed places were also running in this City. While our Law ~~gave~~ <sup>discretion</sup> our Board of Police wide ~~discrimination~~ in the matter of license fees, they were fixed as near the minimum as possible, so that the revenue collected from the enormous traffic amounted to only about $215,000 annually. The number of saloons was increasing year by year, The Sunday traffic was openly carried ~~only~~ most of them, none of them who cared to keep open paid any attention to the law requiring <sup>them</sup> to close at eleven o'clock at night, all or nearly all were selling to children in violation of the law, and in many ways conducted their business in violation of the law and the conditions of their licenses.. Throughout the community a feeling of hopelessness and despair existed, our best people feeling that it mattered not what law was enacted the liquor traffic would continue its destructive work just the same, that it was almost beyond the power of government or of the people to control this vicious business, and in the beginning the best people gave their influence and support to the Law and Order League merely to test the matter and without much hope of success.

formed an organization, strong in its personnel, in the character of its membership, in the broad ground taken as its platform, which asks only obedience to existing law. At that time twenty-six hundred places were licensed to sell intoxicating liquor; it was estimated that about thirteen hundred unlicensed places were also running in this city. While our law gave our Board of Police wide discretion in the matter of license fees, they were fixed as near the minimum as possible, so that the revenue collected from the enormous traffic amounted to only about $215,000 annually. The number of saloons was increasing year by year. The Sunday traffic was openly carried on by most of them, none of them who cared to keep open paid any attention to the law requiring to close at eleven o'clock at night, all or nearly all were selling to children in violation of the law, and in many ways conducted their business in violation of the law and the conditions of their licenses. Throughout the community a feeling of hopelessness and despair existed, our best people feeling that it mattered not what work just the same, that it was almost beyond the power of government or of the people to control this vicious business, and in the beginning the best people gave their influence and support to the Law and Order League merely to test the matter and without much hope of success.

The Law and Order League began its work investigating complaints, securing evidence, bringing the violators of the law before the courts and before the Board of Police. We stimulated public opinion by our work, by newspaper articles and by public meetings. We petitioned the Board for increase in license fees, we petitioned the legislature for enactment of laws, making it more easy to enforce the restrictions contained in the liquor law, and during almost seven years of our work, we have kept constantly pegging away at all points and with most beneficial results.

The number of saloons now licensed in Boston has been reduced to <sup>about</sup> 1600, ~~with~~ a cutting off of about one thousand, ~~this will under a new law~~ enacted through the influence of the organization, <sup>will</sup> still further reduce the number to <sup>781</sup> ~~about 718~~ places on the first of May next.

The fees for first class licenses which were at the formation of our organization $125. will after the first of May next be not less than $1000. The selling of intoxicating liquor to children has been almost entirely suppressed, but few saloons are now found open upon Sundays; nearly all close promptly at eleven o'clock at night. The number of unlicensed places has been reduced in a corresponding ratio. The Law and Order League has influenced the legislature to change the control of the police force and the administration of the law, <sup>from a board</sup> appointed by the City, to one appointed by the State with most beneficial results. The feeling on the part of the people has been changed from despair to one of hope and confidence and expectation of better results in the near future.

This has been done in Boston. As much or more has been accomplished in Philadelphia. In Chicago wonderful results have been accomplished, and in a large number of towns and cities throughout the Union. Our National meeting in Boston on the 18th and 19th of February is to bring together the active workers in this cause from all sections of the country for <sup>Each</sup> conference, that ~~all~~ may be stimulated by the success of the others to go on with the good work which is begun.

No laws enforce themselves. In a Republic the people are the law enforcings as well as the law making power. The police are the servants of the people. In a community which is willing that intoxicating liquor shall be sold to children, that the Lord's Day shall be desecrated, that the liquor dealers shall have their own way in every thing, very little can be expected from the police force left to itself, but much may be expected of it, if the law-abiding citizens who believe in the law, who desire to see it administered in letter and in spirit will combine together and make their power and influence felt by the officers. The liquor traffic presents organized resistance to the law, we endeavor to present organized support. It is impossible to estimate the great good that has been accomplished by these law and order Leagues. Prohibition laws have failed in the past because the people failed to organize and perform their plain duty in the premises. It seems traffic presents organized resistance to the law, we therefore require organized support. It is impossible to estimate the great good that has been accomplished by these law and order leagues.

Prohibition laws have failed in the past because the people failed to organize and perform their plain duty in the premises. It seems to me that those who vote for prohibition laws, assume the responsibility of doing a citizen's full duty, to support, sustain and secure the <sup>Enforcement</sup> ~~existence~~ of those laws. The police officer is not like the army officer, who holds his position for life or during good behavior; they understand that their position depends more or less upon the political changes that take place in the municipality which appoints them, and of course they endeavor to trim their sails to the passing breeze, and when the liquor traffic controls the city government, the police are bound to be the servants of the liquor traffic instead of the law-abiding people.

But I will not extend this letter more. Should you desire any further information in regard to the organization, I shall be very happy to furnish it at any time.

You will probably receive before many days an invitation from one of our prominent citizens to make your stay at his house while you are in the City; at any rate I shall see that you are properly entertained while here, and will communicate with you further about the matter in due season.

I expect to go away the last of this week or the first of next for the D. & N. R. R. getting up a new tourist book called "Around the Circle" or 1000 miles through the Rockies. I shall probably have con-very much in hopes that you will look favorably on my plan of trying for a consulship. If I could only get a good one about June or July I would be all right. Love to Aunt Lizzie &

My dear General,
You know the scope and work of the Institute.
Our next Summer School is to be held at Key East, N.J., a delightful place on the Coast just below Ocean Grove. It is to begin July 18th and continue at least a week. I am charged with preparing the programme. You are cordially invited to prepare a paper on any subject any where within our lines. Our means are now large; we must somewhat rely upon the love which our friends have for the cause of Christian truth. We shall pay all your expenses, entertain you through the School and make the modest honorarium of $25. When we grow richer we shall do better. My desire is to secure some laymen - as many as practicable - on our program. & Hon. W. P. Breckinridge will be one of them.

Now say "yes" and in the cool of your silence have think and write something that will guard some folk from error or lead some folk into right paths. I feel as if words from laymen would have more effect in some quarters than anything said by clergymen who are so largely regarded as speaking professionally.

You know the number of a program.
We wish to publish our early. Please send an early and favorable reply, and oblige

Yours faithfully

Charles F. Deems

Dear Genl Howard:

We have announced you, to speak, in several ways already. and it would seem strange now to withdraw your name, and would not be understood by the public.

It seems to me that you yielded to our entreaties before those of the Rail Road Branch or of the Brooklyn Assoc has reached you.

Stick to your word and just come and come to us.

I sympathize with you as it is no easy matter to catch the secular spirit when we stand face to face with men whose we takes a spiritual interest.
 I find it more natural to speak to men than about them or about work for them. Most Anniversary speakers talk about and not to.
 and indeed this has grown to be the custom very largely.

I do not see how we can let you off.

Love you are

Dear Sir:- Replying to your esteemed favor. I will get tickets at once for Chauncey and wife from the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R. R. from Omaha and return, as requested by you. I will have to write to Milwaukee for them so there will be a delay of a few days. We have made no contract yet with the Chicago & Northwestern. General always attends to that personally, as he is acquainted at that office. The C. B. & Q. we have to use all ourselves. You do not give me the address of Chauncey. Shall I send them care of O. O. Howard, Omaha?

Dear Cousin Otis and Lizzie,

It is with great pleasure I write on this new year to welcome you back to the East once more, and your native shore, and trust the change will be a happy and prosperous one to you and yours.
We received Jamie's wedding cards on Christmas morning, and trust he, and you, may be very happy in this new relation, and they may have a safe return home in due time.

Your dear Mother's death is a great grief to me, and you have my warm est sympathy in this bereavement, although it was not unexpected, yet we are never quite prepared when the dear ones are summoned hence. I was glad to hear through cousin Rowland that you were able to spend the last week with her, and that she ~~could~~ <sup>could</sup> gather all her sons about the dying couch, and give them her last words of love and counsel, and passed peacefully away to the loving arms of her Saviour whom she has served so faithfully, joining the many dear ones in the Heavenly group, who have gone before.

"Blessed indeed, is the death of this Saints," and there is no doubt of the crown which awaited her.

She was very near and dear to me, and seemed like my own Mother, and the last link in the childhood chain seems to be broken. (for aunt Martha Jane seems more like a sister to me.)

The event seems to carry me back, to the days long ago, when I used to go out to Leeds and spend the College vacation with Maria and I, and you and your classmates were home. Those days so free from care and responsibility when all the world was bright and cares and fears were brushed as easily as cobwebs from our mental vision, yet they were momentous moments, to us all. How well I remember when you dear cousin, were making the decision to study a profession, or accept the appointment which dear uncle John had obtained for you at West Point; and how much we talked it over, and how many serious questions were involved in it. for you were through with your college course, were engaged to dear Lizzie, and in a sense ready to assume the active duties of life. but entering West Point, seemed a retrograde movement, a postponement of the consummation of these duties, and another four years of study and isolation from the dear home and loved ones, the uncertainty of her days. trusting we may each go down the decline of life as peacefully as she, and be prepared to meet her in that better world.

Please remember me most kindly to all your children. I trust they are well and happy. Mr. Galbraith well, and wishes to be most kindly remembered you both, and to give you his cordial word of greeting to your nation shores once more. With much love to yourselves a soldier's life. Then how happy we all were at successful results, for our hearts were in perfect sympathy and accord. How anxiously, prayerfully, unselfishly the dear Mother considered all these things, ever perceiving obstacles, but ever guarding the best interests of those dearer <sup>to her</sup> than ~~her~~ life. How much she did to make us all happy, to make us good and true, conscientious and just towards all, and above all to observe the Christian life, and obey the commands of God, in every sense of the word.

As I see it now her whole life was an unusual example of what the Christian Mother should be in all its excellence, and has stamped itself upon her sons and all who came within its influence. I can never forget her love and care for me in all the vicissitudes through which I have passed in these nearly 60 years. only praying that my last days may be

Gent. O. O. Howard.

My Dear Sir.

I at once reported the altogether probably favorable result of my interview with you this afternoon to Mrs. Bainbridge, and it was better than a physician's visit to her, for the disappointment under the circumstances had made her down-sick with nervous head-ache.
She worked it over in her mind quite unnecessarily, and felt as if her word was at stake all over Brooklyn. Thousands of Christian women must believe that Gent. Howard had not committed myself with a positive promise, and that the printing lady of 8,000 auxiliaries, and the Central Council member for the 1100 Brooklyn Kings' Daughters had raised false expectations. One night's sleep would have helped her to realize it was not quite so serious, but it was still better for me to carry back to her this afternoon the assurance, which principally your wife and your son gave me, that you would probably feel it necessary under the circumstances. No doubt such will be the decision of your letter promised in the morning.

Three items:

1. It helps a little to learn, that Mrs. Baribridge, in telling all the

Wieder
Jens"
in 3 president of Brooklyn Kings Daughter Yeast yesterday afternoon, said "Now be sure and remember, and so notify at once all your circles, that this may be our only opportunity - even to hear Genl. Howard address a mixed woman's meeting." She gave the impression that your office among business was so absorbing, that they could not expect to hear you from time to time, as they could prominent clergymen.

2. This impression, which is just to you, we shall continue to give.

3. My own carriage or some other one shall meet you and Mrs.
Howard at Atlantic Ave. Ferry, and return you from the Summerfield Church on Clinton Ave. Do, please, allow this favor, and notify of the time, about 2,30 P.M.
Respectfully & cordially, W. F. Bainbridge.
