Augusta, Me. Feb. 9. 1889-

Gen. O. O. Howard, Dear Sir, Learning that that you were to be in Augusta, it occurred to some of your ardent friends that you would be willing to give an address in the Congregational Church for the benefit of the Chapel fund Association.

You are doubtless aware that we are building a new chapel & we are very desirous on its completion to have it dedicated free of debt.

If you will consent to the above proposition we prefer that you name the subject so that we may publish it in the papers.

As the Legislature is in session we think you would have an appreciative audience & a full house.

Reminiscences of the War or of travel or such subject as you may choose, will be greatly enjoyed by all our people.

We are very sincerely ^{Yours} of the Building Committee

Baker sent to
Gen Schofield
2/10/89Fort Sidney Nebraska
Feb'y 9. 1889.

My dear General.

It has been suggested to me that the retirement of Col Gard 18th Infy would soon occur - and the promotion of Lieut Col Lazelle (senior) 1st Cav Infy) necessarily cause a vacancy in the office of Publication of Records of the Rebellion - and that the place would suit me.

Friends made the same suggestions before Col Lazelle became the incumbent - Its duties certainly would be most congenial to my tastes, for I have been delving in military "precedents" and history for years. I need a tour of duty or residence in Washington - to afford me access to libraries which will enable me to complete my researches, and make them profitable to others. The present seems a favorable opportunity. Mr Foster informed me of your kindly offer to call General Schofield's attention to myself for the detail. I wrote to thank you for this additional kindness. all the more appreciated because generous voluntary and unexpected. I wrote Genl Druum a note - saying simply I would like the place" but I have made no official application for it.

Neither would I trouble my friends to inform the Hon Secy War of my desire for the duties. if I had not heard of numerous applications. and resort to influential friends

I spoke to Gen Morrow this morning who said "it was the place for me" that he would write at once to Gen Schofield. Your kindness has inspired the hope that I may get the attention of the Secy War. and have him acquainted with the fact that the appointment would be most agreeable to me. If unsuccessful. I shall abide in the faith that it was all for the best. Often what seemed cause for grievance. in the beginning has turned out to be the best of fortune - for me and my family.

I regretted that we did not see more of you on your way East last November, and sorry to hear that your ^{anticipated} pleasure of a station at New York was broken by the loss of your mother. Another item of pleasure was enjoyed by us and that was the gratifying reception given you by those Veteran Comrades of yours at Gen Buttrick's dinner. New England & New York is more appropriately your home than that sun-curtain place San Francisco. May you and your family find all the happiness you can enjoy. in your new station is my sincere wish

Mrs Poland hopes with me that you will assist us as far as you can in obtaining this new detail and accept always our kindest remembrances for yours and Mrs Howard. Mrs Besse and Harry.

Very truly yours

My dear General Howard

My daughter (Mrs Benedict) has been in a critical condition of health since Sunday and we have been very solicitous as to the result. Two competent physicians have been in constant attendance upon her since Tuesday morning. When I left her house this morning, her symptoms had changed for the better and the Doctors were hopeful that she would come through all night and save the child. All this, to explain Mrs Angler's seeming lack of courtesy to Mrs Howard. She will see Mrs Howard Monday afternoon - In haste I am

My Dear Sir:

Your valued favor of 29th W.C. was duly received. but did not call for reply as I understood it. Got not hearing from you again to this date, though perhaps you might expect one. So I again presume to intreat, just to say, that we shall all be delighted to have you with us memorial day and should want you to deliver the address in City Hall in the evening - in fact with you there to speak at all - we could get no one else who would be willing to occupy any time. but the length of your address to be a matter of your own pleasure.

We would be very glad to have your presence at closing of the Corn Store in the afternoon but not to speak unless it was your pleasure to do so. Hoping to receive an early and favorable reply I remain - Very Res. Yours Obedt. Servt. H. S. Melcher

My dear Mr. Melcher,
I have just received your letter of the 14th inst. and am glad to hear from you. I am well and hope this letter will find you the same. I have not much news to write at present. I am still in the country - in fact will be there to spend at all - you could not

GERMAN-AMERICANS.

The popular impression that our German-American citizens will sympathize with Bismarck in case of a rupture between Germany and the United States is in fact without foundation. Intelligent Germans who have become American citizens admire the genius of Bismarck neither more nor less than other intelligent Americans do, but they do not love the government of Germany as well as they do that of the United States. The constitution of Germany appears to permit free emigration, but as a matter of fact the German government is able to make it difficult for a man between the ages of 17 and 25 to leave the country, unless he gets a certificate to the effect that he is not leaving in order to escape military service. A man cannot emigrate while he is with the colors, nor while he is liable as reserve. In 1872, of 42,107 who left Prussia only 22,494 had a legal right to do so granted by the authorities. The rest made themselves liable, if caught, to a year's imprisonment or a fine of $750. Of course, the thousands of Germans who left Germany by stealth to reach America are not passionately in love with Bismarck's government to-day. In 1884 the police of West Prussia forbade the putting up of printed matter likely to encourage emigration, and all railway stations were guarded by special policemen to intercept any suspected of leaving the country with their military obligations unfulfilled. In illustration of the hardship of Germany's military law, a writer in the New York Times says:

Suppose, for instance, a family wishes to break up its home in Germany, and begin anew in the western country of America. They can all get permission, perhaps, except one lad of 18, who is liable for the army. The family feels that to stay is to meet with more agricultural loss, perhaps ruin. To go without the assistance of the strong arms of this lad would be dangerous. The authorities claim him for at least three years of barrack life, perhaps for several years after that. In such a case need we be surprised if many an ambitious youngster escapes in disguise?

Does anybody imagine that this German family will bring to the United any great amount of effusive love for the German government? On the contrary these Germans who emigrate under difficulties will look back upon Bismarck's military machine with the same sense of relief and disgust with which an escaped Union prisoner thought of Andersonville and its gloomy stockade. As a rule in America the German emigrants soon learn our language and speak it in preference to their own, and their children are not pleased to be taken for anything but Americans. The truth is that the vast mass of our German emigrants do not care a button about the German government, but positively detest it because of its oppressive official paternalism. A German knows that if he returns to visit his people at home, even though he had in the meantime become naturalized as a citizen of the United States he could be seized by the military authorities, punished and made to complete his years of barrack-life. The German government claims the right to the military service of its whole population in return for the state education of the subject. Unlike Germany, England does not discourage emigration; consequently the English emigrant remains strongly attached to England, while the German emigrant is quick to become an enthusiastic American, because the government official interference to make his emigration difficult makes him a malcontent German, who carries to America a strong hatred of Bismarck's government, with its mixture of military rigor and offensive paternalism. Germany forces her emigrants to escape by stealth and punishes them when they come back. In 1881 the number of Germans punished for attempting unlawful emigration was 16,411. At the close of 1882 nearly 13,000 persons were reported as held on this charge alone. A German who is forced by militarism to run away to America and who cannot safely return is not likely to care much about the fate of the Bismarckian imperial experiment; he is far more likely to throw up his hat to Bismarck's discomfiture than he is to cheer his triumph. There are probably 2,000,000 people of German birth in the United States, and 90 per cent. of them are hostile to the fatherland which they love its customs they cherish, but to its militarism in government both at home and abroad. In 1881 more than 200,000 came to America. In 1882 160,000 came to our shores, and the large portion of this emigration did not come from the densely inhabited lower Rhine but from the thinly populated districts of Prussia. Let no one worry about the fate of our German-American citizens who came here, many of them, in opposition to Bismarck's government, and they will not turn back to him or his master to-day.

AMERICAN CITIZENS OF GERMAN NATIONALITY.

ASHLAND, Jan. 30.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Will you please inform your readers that there is nothing to worry over in the German-American sentiment as regards the alleged Samoan difficulty?

There is no such thing as a German-American sentiment in existence, but on the contrary, there is a strong American sentiment which animates and fills the bosoms of all naturalized citizens of German birth and which will cause all such to stand shoulder to shoulder with other American citizens, whether native born or naturalized, to prevent the encroachments or resent the insults of any foreign power.

There are many naturalized citizens like myself, who wear the bronze button of the G. A. R., not yet too old to take their places in the ranks, if such become needful, though in the present case I do not apprehend there will be any call to arms, for the reason that this tempest in a teapot is not at all likely to boil over into the fire, being in fact nothing beyond the abilities of ordinary, level-headed statesmen to settle.

If, as appearances indicate, the item of statesmanship is lacking in our present cabinet, we have not long to wait until we shall have a man at the helm of state who knows what fighting is and what war means, and who can most certainly apply the lessons learned in a bloody war in maintaining an honorable peace. selves. Previous to my letter, as published the editorials of the Oregonian upon the same subject were rather meagre, and not at all complimentary to the affiliated and absorbed German element of our citizen-self in the right by his manly and truth-full statement of the existing facts.

SEASON 1888-9.

MAJOR J. B. POND takes great pleasure in announcing that he has made arrangements for a series of Lectures and Readings during the present Season, by COLONEL THE HONORABLE GEORGE W. WILLIAMS, LL.D.

AUTHOR OF THE

"HISTORY OF THE NEGRO RACE IN AMERICA;" "HISTORY OF THE NEGRO TROOPS IN THE WAR OF THE REBELLION;" "HISTORY OF THE RECONSTRUCTION OF THE INSURGENT STATES," ETC.

Colonel Williams will give readings from the Battle Scenes in his military work accompanied by a recitation of "The Black Regiment" and other beautiful, heroic and descriptive poems. He will Lecture on the following themes:

1. TOUSSAINT L'OUVERTURE,
2. THE RISE AND FALL OF THE MAXIMILIAN EMPIRE,
3. THE CONGO FREE STATES,
4. SPAIN AND HER COLONIES,
5. BOOKS AND READING: WHAT TO READ, HOW TO READ, WHEN TO READ,
6. THE LAST CAMPAIGN IN VIRGINIA,
7. JOHN A. LOGAN, SOLDIER AND POLITICIAN,
8. THE FIRST QUARTER OF A CENTURY OF FREEDOM.

Colonel Williams has a reputation as an orator and fine elocutionist; and is spoken of in the highest terms by Senators Hoar and Sherman and by the newspapers. As a Delegate-at-Large from the United States to the World's Conference of Foreign Missions at London, his speech on "The Drink Traffic in the Congo," was considered one of the most eloquent and powerful delivered during the session.

PROGRAMME FOR READINGS.

CHAPTER II.—Negro Soldiers in Modern Times.

CHAPTER VII.—Negro Idiosyncracies.

CHAPTER IX.—The Charge of Fifty-Fourth Massachusetts Regiment at Fort Wagner.—Death of Colonel Robert Gould Shaw.—"They Buried him with his Niggers."

CHAPTER X.—The Louisiana Native

Guards at the Battle of Port Hudson.—Death of Captain André Cailloux.—The Charge of the Black Regiment.

CHAPTER XIV.—The Army of the James. Sheridan's turning Movement on Lee's Right Flank.—Hatcher's Run and Petersburg.—Appomattox and Victory.

CHAPTER XVI.—The Cloud of Witnesses.

Applications for engagements, either for Lectures or Readings, should be addressed to

JAMES B. POND,

PRESS COMMENTS

UPON THE MILITARY WORK FROM WHICH COLONEL WILLIAMS WILL READ.

HISTORY OF THE NEGRO TROOPS IN THE WAR OF THE REBELLION 1861-1865. By G. W. WILLIAMS, LL.D. Portrait. pp. xiv., 354, 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $1.75. Harper & Brothers.

Apart from its intrinsic worth as a contribution to American military history—and that is genuine and substantial—this book possesses peculiar interest in being the production of a young army officer of African blood. . . . It is a credit to him, to his race, and to their part in the war which ushered in emancipation. . . . It is remarkably well written. . . . The style is manly, modest, strong; the book presents the facts, and presents them in an orderly, dignified, and impressive form.—Literary World, Boston.

An excellent book. Mr. Williams was one of the gallant men whose patriotic deeds he commemorates, and he has made a careful study of all the best accessible records of their achievements. His people may well be proud of the showing.—N. Y. Tribune.

A complete and eloquent recital.—Boston Globe.

Prepared with great care, is free from boasting or exaggeration, and fulfils its claim to our respect as veritable history.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

Patient research is visible on every page of the work.—Springfield Republican.

It is written in an easy and attractive style, and cannot fail to impress the reader by the ability and fairness with which the subject is handled.—Commercial Bulletin, Boston.

The author displays great ability in the collating and narrating his facts, and has set forth the part played by his race in the great conflict in a masterly way. It is a valuable contribution to the literature of the war.—Living Church, Chicago.

The history is a noble one, and is nobly and sympathetically told. It will take its place among standard authorities.—Congregationist, Boston.

The following letter is from Senator Hoar:

SENATE CHAMBER,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 15th, 1888. }

My dear Sir:

I learn with pleasure that you propose to give public lectures during the coming season. I heard your argument before the Library Committee of the Senate in favor of the National Monument to the Colored Troops, and your speech in the Autumn of 1887, before a large Republican meeting in the city of Worcester, in Mechanics Hall. Both seemed to me of a high order of eloquence. They were also thoughtful and wise. I think no audience will listen to you without pleasure and satisfaction on the topics which I understand you have selected.

I am, yours faithfully,

GEO. F. HOAR.

To Col. GEO. W. WILLIAMS.

Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge, author and orator, says of Colonel Williams: "He is an eloquent and interesting speaker, and would be especially so, I think, on the subjects selected for his lectures as they present topics with which he is familiar, and to which he has given much study."

Dear Sir,*

It may be presumptuous on my part to dispute your decision about Gen. Wm. Hull, but I really consider the honor of the U.S. Army at stake in the matter. I have obtained from a popular library Dr. J. F. Clarke's book, containing his article, and now mail it to you, although the book is not in very presentable shape. The article is the last in the book.

The popular movement at the opening of the War of 1812, especially in the Western States, much resembled the "On to Richmond" craze of 1861. Gen. Hull, a man of unimpeached courage up to that time — witness his leading a column at Stony Point — became a victim to it. Lewis Cass, his chief accuser, rose to a prominent position by trampling upon him. But History should do justice to both.

people"

You are fully aware of our relations to the First Congregational Church here, our circumstances in life, and possibly my efforts in the way of Art. to help along.

Now, it happened, that at the suggestion of our dear Dr Rankin during his Pastorate

here, I undertook a Painting of some considerable proportions, suitable for our S. Sch. Room.

This going away, however, has seemed to remove any probability of its being placed here, for it is beyond our means to offer it, without at least an approximate compensation.

The Painting is a Reproduction of the celebrated "Landing of the Pilgrims" by Chas. Lively.

It is executed upon quite a large scale, the Canvas being 7 x 9 ft. We have had it handsomely framed, in a very heavy rich gold frame, for the purpose of presenting it, to the best possible advantage.

I have put forth every effort, to locate the Original

all their means. and hence cannot indulge in any outside expenditure. Yet I have thought that there might be found one or more gentlemen of wealth who might become interested in donating it to some Church or Soc., as an object lesson to adorn their walls.

Testimonials as to its merits can be fully furnished.
Should you be in the City during the Inauguration, or at any other time, I should be glad to have you see it.

Now, having ^{thus} given you some little idea of what I am endeavouring to accomplish, could you make it convenient to aid me in any way, I shall feel very grateful indeed.

In the kind Providence of God, we are all well, and Mr Youngs and El-yo (our only child, as you may remember) are working hard to again right our little business ship, that was so rudely dashed to pieces, only three short years ago.

The dear old First Cong^l Church, which you did so much to establish here, is still active in the good work, and only yesterday we had a sermon by our Pastor, that seemed exceedingly appropriate for persons like yourself. - the subject being, "Some of the satisfactions found in the Christians experience in maturer years."

Trusting you will pardon this intrusion upon your time, and good nature, and with great respect, I beg to remain.

Yours very truly,

Mrs Elphongo Youngs

not expected to live. General Ruggles is doing very well. He had a stone the size of a pigeon's egg removed from his bladder about ten days ago.

Yesterday an examination was made that the doctors found nothing, so we all have hopes that he will soon be well again. I shall never forget your last words to me - you expressed the wish that I might serve with you again, I wish it most heartily. I send a great deal of love to you & your family.
Sincerely yours, W. D. Wheeler.

My dear General.

Very soon I shall renew my application for appointment to the Adjutant General's Department and I would like very much to forward with the application a letter from you, stating how I performed my duties while serving on your staff - whether I performed them to your satisfaction.

Colonel Batchelder says I should ask you for a letter of recommendation, that I know how generous & kind hearted you are - that you are constantly receiving letters asking for assistance of every kind and description and I do not wish to be classed with them.
I shall have the assistance of Colonels Batchelder, Carey & Barton. I've been in service more than twenty seven years
- fourteen years of that time on staff duty. I send by today's mail a pamphlet marked Confidential, will you please regard it so & be kind enough to look it over & return it to me as soon as you have done so? We miss you here very much but we are glad to see by the newspapers that you are surrounded by friends who are doing all they can to make you happy. Colonel Batchelder is very well. He sends his love to you. Captain Hall is dangerously

MR. SHEPARD finds himself overwhelmed with applications for private pecuniary relief, endowments for schools, colleges, universities, theological and medical schools, at home and abroad; aid for churches, hospitals, asylums and libraries; contributions to pay off church debts, and to eke out ministers' salaries; to put up buildings for every imaginable eleemosynary, charitable and religious purpose; to loan money; to subscribe for books, papers, and tickets for concerts, readings and benefits; for the founding of memorials of every kind; to help educate people, or aid them in travelling, and for almost every conceivable variety of other purposes.

Upon some single days these applications, in person and by letter, amount to over a million of dollars.

While sympathising with all meritorious objects, and wishing them that success to which their real merits ought to entitle them, yet it is impossible for Mr. Shepard to respond to these applications in the way desired.

They are so numerous that it is no longer possible for Mr. Shepard to find the requisite time to write letters in answer to these applications, and he is obliged to adopt this method of making a courteous reply.

Dear Howard,

I enclose with this a Medium Series photo of myself by "Sawney" 37 Union Square - and in exchange I ask you to give him a sitting and to send me one of yourself of same style & finish, same size, to be framed and hung in my office, to be left as my choice, along with Elocums to whom I write this day an identical letter, - we three will go down to history as the Leaders in the "March to the Sea"

Yours truly,
