Monsieur le Major General O. O. Howard.
Mon Cher Ami.

Je viens ici selon ma promesse vous écrire quelques pages en Français, et je commencerai par vous donner ici, le portrait de Marie-Antoinette.

La reine (Marie-Antoinette) semblait avoir été créée par la nature pour contraster avec le roi, et pour attirer à jamais l'intérêt et la pitié des siècles sur un de ces drames d'état qui ne sont pas complets, quand les infortunes d'une femme ne les achèvent pas.
Fille de Marie-Thérèse, elle avait commencé sa vie dans les orages de la monarchie Autrichienne.
Elle était soeur de ces enfants que l'Impératrice tenait par la main quand elle se présenta en suppliante devant les fidèles Hongrois, et que ces troupes s'écrièrent: "Mourons pour notre roi Marie-Thérèse!" La fille aussi avait le cœur d'un roi. A son arrivée en France, sa beauté avait ébloui le royaume, cette beauté était dans tout son éclat. Elle était grande, étancée, souple: une véritable fille de Tyrol. Les deux enfants qu'elle avait donnés au trône, loin de la flétrir, ajoutaient à l'impression de sa personne ce caractère de majesté maternelle qui sied bien à la mère d'une nation. Le pressentiment de ses malheurs, le souvenir des scènes tragiques de Versailles, les inquiétudes de chaque jour pâlissaient seulement un peu sa première fraîcheur. La dignité naturelle de son port n'enlevait rien à la grâce de ses mouvements; son cou, bien détaché des épaules, avait ces magnifiques inflexions qui donnent tant d'expression aux attitudes. On sentait la femme sous la reine, la tendresse du cœur sous la majesté du sort. Ses cheveux blond cendré étaient longs et soyeux; son front, haut et un peu bombé, venait se joindre aux tempes, par ces courbes qui donnent tant de délicatesse et tant de sensibilité à ce siège de la pensée ou de l'âme chez les femmes; Ses yeux de ce bleu-clair qui rappelle le ciel du Nord ou l'eau du Danube; le nez aquilin, les narines bien ouvertes et légèrement renflées, où les émotions palpitent, signe du courage; une bouche grande, des dents éclatantes, des lèvres autrichiennes, c'est-à-dire saillantes et découpées; le tour de visage ovale, la physionomie mobile, expressive et passionnée. Sur l'ensemble de ces traits, cet air qui ne se peut décrire, qui faillit du regard, de l'ombre des reflets du visage, qui l'enveloppe d'un rayonnement semblable à la vapeur chaude et colorée où nagent les objets frappés du soleil, dernière expression de la beauté qui lui donne l'idéal, qui la rend vivante et qui la change en attrait. Avec tous ces charmes, une âme altérée d'attachement, un cœur facile à éblouir, mais ne demandant qu'à se fixer, un sourire pénétrant et intelligent qui n'avait rien de banal, des préférences, des préférences, parcequ'elle se sentait digne d'amitié. Voilà Marie-Antoinette comme femme.

C'était assez pour faire la félicité d'un homme et l'ornement d'une cour. Pour inspirer un roi indécis et pour faire le salut d'un état dans des circonstances difficiles, il fallait plus: il fallait le génie du gouvernement, la reine ne l'avait pas. Pierre n'avait pu la préparer au maniement des forces désordonnées qui s'agitaient autour d'elle; le malheur ne lui avait pas donné le temps de la réflexion.

Recueillie avec enivrement par une cour perverses et une nation ardente, elle avait dû croire à l'éternité de ces sentiments. Elle s'était endormie dans les dissipations de Trianon. Elle avait entendu les premiers bouillonnements de la tempête sans croire au danger; elle s'était fixée à l'amour qu'elle inspirait et qu'elle se sentait dans le coeur.

La cour était devenue exigeante, la nation hos-tile. Instrument des intrigues de la cour sur le coeur du roi, elle avait d'abord favorisé, puis combattu, toutes les réformes qui pouvaient prévenir ou ajourner les crises. Sa politique n'était que de l'engouement, son système n'était que son abandon alternatif à tous ceux qui lui promets-taient le salut du roi. Le Comte d'Artois, prince jeune, chevaleresque dans les formes, avait pris de l'empire sur son esprit. Il se fiait à la noblesse, il parlait de son épée. Il riait de la crise. Il dédaignait ce bruit de paroles, il cabalait contre les ministres, il flétrissait les tran-sactions. La reine enivré d'adulations par cet entourage, poussait le roi à reprendre le lendemain ce qu'il avait concédé la veille. Sa main se sou--levait dans tous les tiraillements du gouvernement.
Ses appartements étaient le foyer d'une conspira--tion perpétuelle contre l'esprit nouveau, la nation finit par s'en apercevoir et par la haïr. Son nom devint pour le peuple le fantôme de la contre-révolution. On est prompt à calomnier ce qu'on crainit. Les bruits les plus infâmes circulaient, anecdotes les plus controuvées furent répandues. On pouvait l'accuser de tendresse, de dépravation, jamais. Belle, jeune et adorée, si son cœur ne resta pas insensible, ses sentiments du moins n'éclatèrent jamais en scandales. Le cœur d'une femme, fut-elle reine, a son inviolabilité. Les sentiments ne deviennent de l'histoire que quand ils éclatent en publicité.

La reine s'aperçut trop tard de l'inimitié du peuple, la rancune dut envahir son cœur. On accusa Marie, Antoinette de conjurer la perte de la nation, qui demandait à chaque instant sa tête. Le peuple soulevé a besoin de haïr quelqu'un, on livra la reine. Son nom fut chanté dans ses colères. Une femme fut choisie pour l'ennemie de toute une nation. Sa fierté se daigna de la déromper. Elle s'enferma dans son ressentiment et dans sa terreur. Emprisonnée dans le palais des Tuileries, elle ne pouvait mettre la tête à la fenêtre sans provoquer l'outrage et entendre l'insulte. Chaque bruit de la ville lui faisait craindre une insurrection. Ses journées étaient mornes, ses nuits agitées, son supplice fut de toutes les heures pendant deux ans, il se multipliait dans son cœur par son amour pour ses deux enfants et par ses inquiétudes pour le roi. La cour était vide, elle ne voyait plus que des autorités ombreuses, des ministres imposés, et M. de la Fayette, devant qui elle était obligée de composer même son visage. Ses appartements recelaient la délation. Ses serviteurs étaient ses espions. Il fallait les tromper pour se concerter avec le peu d'amis qui lui restaient. Des escaliers dérobés, des corridors sombres conduisaient la nuit dans les combles du château les conseillers secrets qu'elle appelait autour d'elle. Ces conseils ressemblaient à des conjurations; elle en sortait sans cesse avec des pensées différentes. elle en assiégeait l'âme du roi, dont la conduite contractait ainsi l'incohérence d'une femme aux abois.

Mesures de forces, tentatives de corruption sur l'assemblée, abandon sincère à la constitution, essais de résistance, attitude de dignité royale, repentir, faiblesse, terreur et fuite, tout était conçu, tenté, préparé, arrêté, abandonné le même jour. Les femmes, si sublimes dans le dévouement, sont rarement capables de l'esprit de suite et d'imperturbabilité nécessaire à un plan politique. Leur politique est dans le cœur, leur passion est trop près de leur raison. De toutes les vertus du trône, elles n'ont que le courage, elles sont souvent des héros, rarement des hommes d'état. La reine en fut un exemple de plus. Elle fit bien du mal au roi; douée de plus d'esprit, de plus d'âme, de plus de caractère que lui, sa supériorité ne servit qu'à lui inspirer confiance dans de fu-nestes conseils. Elle fut à la fois le charme de ses malheurs et le génie de sa perte, elle le conduisit pas à pas jusqu'à l'échafaud, mais elle y monta avec lui.

Monsieur le Docteur, vous envoi avec ses félicitations un de ses ouvrages, que je t'poste en même temps que cette lettre il regrette de ne pas avoir eu le plaisir de votre compagnie l'autre soir, il est revenu quelques minutes après votre départ.

J'espère cher General, que vous ainsi que Monsieur Dech. m'honorerez d'une visite sous peu.

En attendant je vous prie d'agréer l'assurance de ma parfaite considération

Votre dévouée Amie

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE
THE ASSOCIATION OF YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS OF NEW YORK

I
committee on organized by

they have, and how delightfully arrangements are perfected for the healthful enjoyment of young men and their friends, at very reasonable rates. If you will kindly call the attention of the Associations to this opportunity, I think you will be doing good. Information can be secured about it by addressing D. F. More, State Secretary, Wanamassa Camp, North Asbury Park P. O., N. J.

The State Camp at Peekskill has been very encouragingly opened and our work is unusually favorably received among the men.

You will remember from the budget made for the expenses of the year, that $300. additional were needed. It has occurred to me that, possibly, each member of the State Committee would secure one annual sustaining membership of ten dollars ( $10. ) to the State work. Could you do this for us?

Mr. Dudley has nearly one hundred boys in camp on Lake Champlain, near Westport, having a most excellent influence over them.

Mr. MacColl has just aided the Rome Association in securing its finances and has recently been at Buffalo, conferring with them about the new West Side Branch.

From correspondence received at the office, very marked interest is shown in the religious work, and a need for the prayers of those associated with the secretaries, for strength and guidance in carrying it forward during the summer season.

The New Jersey State Committee, and desire to call your attention to it. You will be surprised to find what an amount of property

I wonder why we could not arrange for a meeting of the committee on the State Camp with the officers of the Association organized by Sanford there, before the camp closes. Will you kindly give me your opinion about it?

Very sincerely yours,

It is now several days since I have heard from the island so I take advantage of my being Officer of the Day & of having a resting spell just following dinner (1 o'clock) to write you.

I am well & quite contented with my life here altho I have still a 'horsey' longing.

I go out sailing & rowing quite often and play tennis nearly daily.

The mercury rises daily to 80° here and we are having warm drills.

I drill the Company every morning & am Platoon chief at P.M. Drills (4:50 P.M.).

As Adjutant Officer I have two drills in flag, instrument, & heliograph work each week.

I am taking my vacation from study now & have not read much other than the daily need for drill & other duties.

There is a canvas covered box in my old room at home there one or two plate holder; a lens and It contains a camera; ~~an~~ <sup>an</sup> ashbutter (law) a rubber tube & rubber band bellows. will you have them sent to me by mail if does not cost more than 50 cents, other wise please send by Express.

I wish to take some photos of the soldiers before the drill season is over. The Plate holders may be in Bureau draw.

Do you think you could visit me for a while during mother's stay here?

There is another thing I wish to mention

Dear Brother:

My daughter Nina had planned to start for Bangor next week with a young lady, and was expecting to go via Albany directly to Boston. But at the last moment <sup>the young lady</sup> decided not to go. Nina had planned to visit her grandparents and they greatly desire it. We have therefore changed the route, as she would have an escort, the son of Dr. Nutt, our neighbor, from here to New York. But this we desire to be subject to your convenience, and the desirability of her remaining with you a day or two, until some suitable escort can be obtained to Boston at least, or to Bangor. We think she had better go by <sup>Sound</sup> ~~some~~ boat to Boston, if you know of anyone to accompany her. She could then take a boat to Bangor even though she had no special escort. Please telegraph me if she can conveniently visit you and carry out this plan. If you cannot find anyone to go to Boston with, we will try and think of someone to meet her there, possibly some person may occur to you. In fact I suppose David is there, only I do not know his precise address. Otis also is in that vicinity.

Affectionately,

Dear Sir

Rear Admiral Walter Commanding the Squadron of Evolution, desires me to present his compliments to Major General Howard, and to invite him and his personal staff to go out in the flagship Chicago on Tuesday next to witness the target practice of the Naval Battalion Station of New York. The Chicago will have her anchorage in Grasse Bay (off

Fort Hamilton) at 9 am. <sup>31.</sup> will go to sea for main and secondary battery practice and will return to Grasse Bay late in the afternoon.

The best way to reach the Chicago would be by boat-direct from Governors Island, but should the General go by the ferry and trolley car to Fort Hamilton, a boat will be sent to that landing at 8.45-

It was Admiral Walter's intention to send an aide to Governors Island this morn-

Dear General:-

Inquiry relative to your portrait from San Francisco came during a short absence from the city, ~~of mine.~~

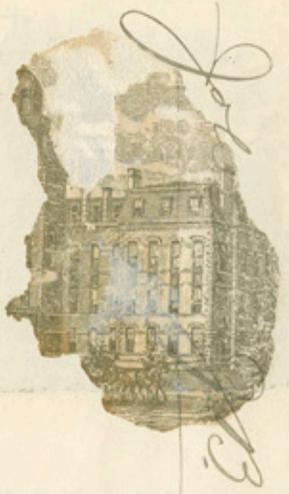

An express package came just as I was about to leave with my family for the North, which I suppose contains the <sup>picture</sup> ~~matter~~ referred to. As it is now Saturday evening and quite late, I will say that I will have the package opened the first thing Monday morning and write you at once the facts in the case. Dr. Rankin told me before he left that he was expecting such a package.

I came through New York this morning on my way from Maine, where my family is spending a few weeks.

Dear Sir,

I am a boy and am trying to secure autograph letters and portraits of a few distinguished people and am very desirous indeed of possessing yours, but as I have been unable to obtain either. I can now think of no way to do so unless you will be so very kind as to assist me - by if it is convenient and not asking too much will not you please tell me if I can anywhere obtain a good engraving of you or, will you please give me the address of some photographer from whom I can secure a photograph? If you will, and will kindly do so in your own writing you will make me very happy indeed, for you will thereby give me one of the greatly wished for things, namely, a few words of your writing, and you will be the means of my securing the other - your portraits.

Hoping you will not consider it too

Now I hope you can come Wednesday & stay one Sunday - Telegraph me please if I may expect you - so I can send carriage to meet you at the boat - I hope you had a long trip - I am so sorry you were come when dear Cony could - have enjoyed it - I do so miss and mourn his loss - Time only makes it harder to bear I wrote Cousin Lydia not long since -

I do just hope and pray you have no engagements to keep you from coming - If you could come this week - can you next after next in Saturday the 30 - or the first week in Aug - ?
Lie up the Dept of the Atlantic and come away for your own pleasure - I am very much afraid Convention. We can never thank you half enough for all you did for us while we were there, and our thoughts are on the past most of the time. This is a longer letter than you probably have patience to read. Always remembering your kindness I remain

Yours Truly
May Sieber.

30.

Glencoe, July 18, 1892.

Dear General,
We are safe at home and none the less ready for tramping than when we were with you.
Everybody seemed surprised to find that we were not thin and pale and completely tired out. We did not leave West Point until nearly eleven o'clock for the train was late.
The depot agent was very good and helped us on with our baggage. As you remember our berth was an upper one and we found it at once. In the lower one was a young man who was awakened by our talking and he insisted on our taking the lower one and switching actions to words he got up into the upper one. We both went to sleep at once and woke early enough to get breakfast when the train stopped. We got acquainted with the obliging young man and discovered that he was married and lived in Kansas City. We slept almost all of the day and when the conductor attempted to waken us for our tickets he had to employ the aid of a brake man and the porter.

Almost all the persons in the car were C.B. delegates returning and we had a song service in the evening. We were an hour and a half late in arriving at Chicago and Bella's brother was not there to meet us. In fact they did not get her letter until after we got to the office.
Everybody was real good to us and seemed glad to see us. We gave our reports last night, it was rather sudden for us but we did what we could and they seemed satisfied. He gave your messages to all the relatives and I guess they heard more of Genl. Howard than of the Howard University,

Rev. J. C. Rankin, D.D., LL.D., President.

J. B. Johnson,
Sec. and Treas.

Washington, D. C., July 18th, 1892.

Dear General:-

The express package from California addressed to Dr. Rankin was opened by me to-day. It was found to contain an elegant portrait of yourself just as we expected.

Yours very truly

Glencoe, July, 18th, 1892

Dear Gen. Howard:-

We arrived at Chicago between 9 and 10 o'clock Saturday morning.
After Capt. Gray left us we went to an open air concert which lasted until a little after nine o'clock.

We waited at the hotel until a few minutes before tea and then went to the depot.

Our train didn't arrive until almost eleven.

We didn't sleep very well but are rested now and feel as well as ever.

There were about a dozen Eondeavourers in our car so we had a very pleasant journey.

We gave a sort of a report of the Convention last evening at church and received a very hearty welcome.

I gave the Howard family the message you sent.
Please give my regards to Capt. Gray and thank him for his kind attention to us.

I shall not try to thank you for your kindness as it would be impossible for me to express myself.
Wishing you a happy future I remain,

Yours Truly,

Delphia M. Culver.
