Dear Cousin: I am compelled to write you for assistance.
Since September I have not worked but two weeks, and but for my brother do not know what I should have done. Last week we had a surgical operation performed on my wife and my brother over-drew his salary two months to pay the surgeon, and now if you cannot assist me don't know where to turn. I have a situation in Memphis in May if my wife is strong enough to travel or for me to leave, and if you could send me $50 I can return it in July.

There is more suffering in this city than I thought could be possible.

My dear Father

I have read the within Surprised at the asurance of Perry Wood Man - Yes he is one of Woods boys I could not encourage you to send him any money with the expectation of ever getting a cent back again or even gratitude for coming from our experience with him in years past and no gratitude, but I do not like to advise only it is right for me to tell you of our experience with him - And perhaps it could be better for you not to open the door up encourage him in applying to you - That would be Mr. Howards advice He has not the least claim on you or us as we have done so much for them when young and needed it - Perry was not a good boy and I do not know him as a man - He has a good trade. He is a Printer and married a girl of Mississippi when not 21 yrs - He has been moving about from place to place - He went

I am the one who has been - The man of motions and fear - cannot concern society as to give him money as it would prove it to him - He would be even as he is with us and he was a good being then when he left us and he is away from the 1000 of common money that he has left here and he is better to give them in a hundred they would be for it in your own there take that I do not want you was to be for both of my kind - It may be any one of the 1000 need of money - It is then in you do come - I expect you have taken him from the knowledge of the

Dear Sir:

Some of our specialists, in correcting their proofs, send us in new words, and new senses of words we already have, without telling us to what country they belong; or define them from the point of view of the U. S. without any reference to England; or else give us a definition from which we have to guess whether the intention is to include other countries as well.

Our editors ask that all our specialists bear in mind that we are making the Dictionary for the whole English-speaking world, and that we wish to clearly indicate it when there is any difference in the usage of the different English-speaking countries.
