Gen. O. O. Howard,

Governor's Island, N. Y.

Dear Sir:

Your favor of the 16th with enclosures came duly to hand. We have retained the commendation of Bishop Whipple, and return herewith the notice in "The Advance". We have a copy of same in our press book. The notices so far received have been very pleasing, and we enclose one herewith from the "American Book Maker", which will undoubtedly interest you. The book is having a fair sale considering the times and the hot season.

Yours very truly,

FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY,

Per Neisel

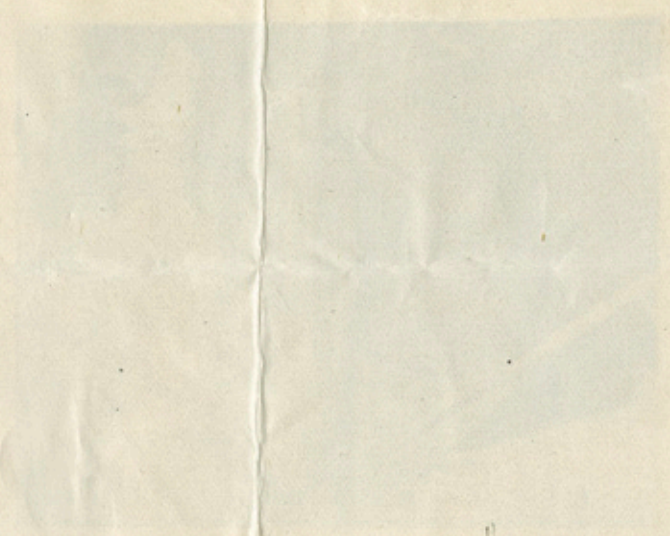

The Funk & Wagnalls Company earns credit for a desire to compete favorably with older American publishing houses. Its Standard Dictionary is already more than a success of the hour. It has come to stay as a reference book of worth yet unestimated. Volume II. is now in press. Among the miscellaneous works which this house has listed is Gen. Oliver Otis Howard's delayed yet cleverly balanced historical monograph entitled "Isabella of Castile." As a tribute of affection and appreciation he dedicates the book to his brother, Gen. Charles H. Howard, a hero of the battle of Fair Oaks, in Virginia—a boy soldier, who served his country gallantly for four years. How nobly the nobility of Queen Isabella, patroness of Columbus, the world finder, has been served by one of America's truest sons, all close perusers of the volume will bear witness. Mr. Carter's marginal embellishments of the text show that he is steadily improving as an illustrator. The binding of the book—a tidily made 12mo of 350 pages—is dark green linen finish cloth, stamped with a highly ornate emblematic design in gold, black and red, from the original by George Wharton Edwards. A partly lubricated title page and seven photogravures add greatly to the superficial attractiveness of a work beautiful in its rugged honesty of sentiment couched in simple phrase.

Dear Sir & Comrade,

I am an old soldier and served in your Corps during the Atlanta Campaign, and also till the war closed. I have met you at different times, the last time at Caldwell, O. on last August, and having great confidence in you as a soldier and as a man I have a request to make of you. Over two years ago I had a son to enlist in the Regular service, who is now in Co "C", 1st Inf. and about a year and a half ago I had another son who was under age that was determined to enlist also. and after a great deal of persuasion I gave my consent, thinking that he might be assigned to duty near his brother, but after he enlisted he was assigned to duty in an opposite direction and became very much discouraged, and finally deserted nearly a year ago. I am sorry now that I ever gave my consent for him to enlist, but his mother was dead and he seemed determined, hence I gave it. Is there any way whatever that I may secure his discharge or release from the service, after having given my consent for him to enlist? Please answer at your very earliest convenience and greatly oblige your old comrade

She had been a very good wife and mother, and she had been a very good citizen. She had been a member of the League of Women and Girls for many years, and she had been a very active member. 24 July 1894

Dear Sir.

My old friend, W. Froemann from Brooklyn, told me that you will be so kind to allow me to refer at you in my circulars for French and German lessons.

I am delighted that you remember our short travelling-companionship by crossing on the unfortunate Spree, two years ago and cannot forbear to express to you my thanks directly. —

I am here endeavouring to study music with professor C. V. Lachmund from the Gharwenka conservatory (one of Franz Liszt's most successful pupils) and in order to render myself independent teach French and German.

I have very few friends here and it is so very difficult to form relations without any protection, especially for one who speaks badly English. Other Mr. Lachmund and Mr. Orlovski - the Russian consul here - I have not other patrons.

You are very kind, dear General, in supporting my efforts and my reference at such a illustrious name as yours shall be without doubt the best recommendation. -

I would never have taken the liberty of troubling you, if Freeman has not encouraged me, in telling so much praise of your goodness. I pray you, dear General, to be sure that all my efforts shall aspire to render me not unworthy of the honor of your protection. -

With many sincere thanks I am, dear General,

yours very respectfully count G. E. Keyserling
