My dear General

Your favor of the 27th Inst., referring to the Young Lady of Talant whose manuscript you would like to have me see, is before me. I will gladly do what I can in the direction you indicate if you forward the manuscript to me.

Have any farther steps been taken in the matter of your own publications by the Harpers, which door had been opened when last we corresponded?

My daughter has left us with a noble young man of high character, and though the void is great in our home the compensation is still greater.<sup>2</sup>

Dear Brother:-

Your favor of November 3rd from Oberlin, did not reach me in Washington, but was forwarded from Judge Call's office, 505 E Street, N. W., to Chicago. Please take note if you have any memorandum book, of Judge Call's office. He is in the same room with Hon. E. V. Brookshire, formerly member of Congress from Indiana. The office, as you will see, is on E Street, not very far from the old residence of Chief Justice Chase, where we used to call upon him.

I am afraid the chance of having Gen. McCook appointed Attorney General is off. If President McKinley really wanted a man who could not be swerved by the railroads he could not find a better man than Judge J. H. Call. I have no hope whatever that he will be appointed. McKenna who now goes upon the Supreme Bench, had been twenty-five years the attorney of the Southern Pacific Railroad. Call was fighting that railroad on behalf of the United States. He succeeded in the lower court and has just now triumphed in the Supreme Court, saving some 800,000 acres of land to the United States — the very case that you and I went to see C. P. Huntington about. I then told Huntington that the case had gone against him in the United States Court, and asked him to quit-claim the land to the United States so that we could get a title. He refused to do it, because, he said, he would appeal the case, and he was certain the Supreme Court would sustain his claim. Now, after all these three years, the Supreme Court has decided against him. It has

Dear Brother:-

Your favor of November 3rd from Berlin, did not reach me in Washington, but was forwarded from Judge Call's office, 505 E Street, N. W., to Chicago. Please take note if you have any memorandum book, of Judge Call's office. He is in the same room with Hon. E.

V. Brookshire, formerly member of Congress from Indiana. The office, as you will see, is on E Street, not very far from the old residence of Chief Justice Chase, where we used to call upon him.

I am afraid the chance of having Gen. McGook appointed Attorney General is off. If President McKinley really wanted a man who could not be swayed by the railroads he could not find a better man than Judge T. H. Call. I have no hope whatever that he will be appointed. McKenna who now goes upon the Supreme Bench, had been twenty-five years the attorney of the Southern Pacific Railroad. Call was fighting that railroad on behalf of the United States. He succeeded in the lower court and has just now triumphed in the Supreme Court, saving some 800,000 acres of land to the United States - the very case that you and I went to see C. F. Huntington about. I then told Huntington that the case had gone against him in the United States Court, and asked him to quit claim the land to the United States so that we could get a title. He refused to do it, because, he said, he would appeal the case, and he was certain the Supreme Court would sustain his claim. Now, after all these three years, the Supreme Court has decided against him. It has greatly confused our titles, and is one of the principal reasons why Mr. Wilson and I have been indicted.

Now, the other day when Judge Call was being congratulated by everybody for winning his case in the Supreme Court, he went the same day to call upon Attorney-General McKenna, and the latter refused to see him; so that shows how McKenna is still a railroad man and does not care to show any sympathy or favor to a man who has beaten the railroads. The latter contributed largely to the funds of the campaign. McKenna will take Field's place on the Supreme Court bench, and Field always sided with the Pacific railroads. McKenna will do the same. Now we shall see whether the President will appoint a man to succeed McKenna who is a railroad attorney, or whether he will appoint someone who would stand stiff against the railroad interests when in conflict with those of the United States. After the appointment is made I will see what you have to say.

As to McCook, he has been an employe of the Santa Fe, and is now; but that is of course opposed to the Pacific roads. The Pacific monopoly is much greater and more dangerous, and is often counteracted by the Santa Fe. The syndicate operations seem to be very popular on account of the fact that the United States is to get its full pay for the bonds, but there is a big cat under the meal. In the decree of the Court, the United States is cut off from the free transportation it has had for army supplies, soldiers, etc., which I am informed amount to about three million dollars a year. There is interest on one hundred million dollars at 3%. Any syndicate could afford to buy the railroad at fifty-five million and pay the United States debt if it could thereby secure a permanent investment of one hundred million dollars, that is to say, an annual income of three million dollars extra.

I notice what you say about Mr. Hooker, and I should think it would be desirable for you to go down to Arizona, or to take that in your way in going to California, and make him a nice little visit. He has got utterly discouraged after waiting thirty years for his money, and thinks there would be no hope; but I think he would be greatly encouraged if you could see him, and especially if you could arrange to be there with the agent of the Attorney General and help in arranging his testimony, bringing out the essential facts from him and from Lacey, his book-keeper, and from Refugio Pacheco, who I think is the only living witness of the raids. I had a good talk with Butterfield, and he thinks we will be able to obtain from the Indian office the affidavits and testimony which are on file there, especially of those people who have since died. Their testimony is very important of course, and there is no other way that we can replace it.

Please do not mention to anyone on any condition any suggestion concerning Judge Call going into the Cabinet, because it would defeat all our purposes to have any such thing hinted at at present, and Judge Call says there is no possible chance with this Administration. But should Gen. McCook go in or anyone who would be friendly to you, we would certainly stand a chance of doing much better with the Hooker claim. I did not intend that you should inform Butterfield in regard to my percentage in the Hooker matter. I have never told them what my percentage was to be. I suppose he will think he should have half of it now, whereas I have a definite contract made with him and Deane that they were to do the work for 10%, or something to that effect.

If you should come this way again I wish you would let me

Dear Sir:-

I am sending to you by to-day's express a copy of Mrs. Livermore's new book "The Story of My Life", which please accept with my compliments. Should you think well enough of the volume to write a few words in its favor, with permission to publish the same, I shall be very greatly obliged to you. The volume was only recently issued and it has received the highest commendations from ministers of all denominations, and from leading men and women of the day.

All of the changes have been made in the Indian chapter and I am very glad that the matter was submitted to your criticism before the book goes to press.

Would you consider a proposition to write a brief introduction to this volume, provided the book meets with your approval? It will be an exceptionally first-class book and will be very sumptuously illustrated, not only with numerous text illustrations, but full page engravings, many of them from unpublished drawings loaned to us by the Bureau of Ethnology, Washington, which has co-operated with us in the production of this work. There will also be a series of Indian plates showing Indian weapons, dress, ornaments, and objects of interest and curiosity in exact facsimile. These will be printed in sixteen colors.

If you think favorably of my suggestion, I will run up to Burlington and see you some day next week, and bring an entire set of proofs with me.

Some seventeen or eighteen years ago I published a book called "Our Wild Indians" by Col. Richard I. Dodge who recently died at Sackett's Harbor, and Gen. Sherman wrote an introduction to it. It was a very good book indeed but our present one will be very much ahead of it, and we think it will be the last book of its kind that will ever be published and it will also be the best.

I shall be pleased to hear from you and would like to talk the matter over with you.

Believe me to remain,

Very respectfully yours,
