Dear Friend:-

I have just been reading the account of the last Commencement of Colgate University at Hamilton, N.Y., and one remark in your eloquent address has made a deep impression upon my mind. Lieut. Wm. Mc. Intyre was a former and favorite pupil of mine in the City of New York, and it was your friend's privilege to send him to the beautiful village where you honored him with a soldier's eulogy.

Will you kindly inform me just how or in what way he gave his life for yours? And any particulars concerning him that occur to you?

Believe me with all good wishes

Yours, sincerely,
