Gen. O. O. Howard's Lecture. 7/29/98

A few weeks ago McPherson Post, G. A. R., of Abington, announced a lecture to be given at Franklin hall by that distinguished soldier of the Civil war, Gen. O. O. Howard, who now resides at Burlington, Vt. The arrangements were placed in the hands of Col. William B. Arnold, Frank T. Whiting and Past Commander Seth Bennett. The gentlemen created an interest in the lecture among our citizens and those of the neighboring towns and over 500 tickets were sold for the event, which took place Tuesday evening.

Arrangements had been made for a reception to Gen. Howard, and this was held in the parlor of the Union Athletic club, which was kindly offered by the club. It was attended by a large number of citizens, but particularly by the comrades of the local Post in this vicinity. The comrades came from Brockton Post and Appomattox Command, Union Veterans Union, Hartsuff Post of Rockland, D. Russell Post of Whitman and others. One of the visitors was Peter D. Smith of Boston, past junior vice commander of the Massachusetts department, and after he had paid his respects to the general he held a small reception himself, for all the comrades were glad to see him. The committee of arrangements, assisted by Quartermaster J. W. Sproul, did duty in presenting the people to the general.

While the reception was being held and the audience were being seated by the members of the Sons of Veterans camp, who acted as ushers, the Abington band gave a fine concert in Franklin hall, under the leadership of Thomas F. Giles. The concert concluded with the selection, "Marching Through Georgia," which was given at the request of Gen. Howard. At eight o'clock the speaker appeared and he was given a warm and hearty welcome. Seated upon the stage with him were the visiting officers of the out of town Posts, the officers of McPherson Post and its past commanders.

The speaker prefaced his lecture with an explanation of the formation of an army. The number of men that form a company, regiment, brigade, corps and then the army itself, and it was very interesting to those who did not understand such matters and helped them to more fully understand the details of the lecture that followed.

Gen. Howard began by telling of that secret conference of the commanders of the Union army in April, 1864, when it was planned to make such an offensive move that the war must be ended and the enemy completely routed. At the conference were Gens. Grant, Sherman, Sheridan, Howard, Thomas, and others, and the word picture which he gave of the characteristics and appearance of each one of the great generals was very vivid. He then went into the details of the campaign that followed and which was not ended until September, when "Gen. Sherman's March to the Sea," ended in a grand victory for the Union and was one of the grand ends which made the victory of the union complete and allowed the war to come to the close. In that campaign Gen. Howard was in command of the army of the Tennessee, under Sherman, and by holding such a command he was able to tell in a relative manner of the battles that were fought and won, the repulses which were met, the plans which were made, some of them later to be abandoned, as the Confederates made it impossible for them to be carried out successfully. For an hour and a half he carried his audience through these scenes and kept them interested in the movements described, and ended with a description of the capture of Savannah and Fort McAllister.

In closing Gen. Howard paid a high compliment to Gen. Sherman, not only as a soldier, a born leader of men, a strategist in war, a wonderfully successful executive officer, but also as a man, a gentleman and one who would not do a wrong to anyone, great or small.

The lecture by Maj. Gen. "O. O." Thomas at Franklin hall last Tuesday night under the auspices of McPherson Post was well attended and must net the post a nice little sum. It was very interesting and shed light on many a disputed historic event. The General is well preserved, has a full, commanding voice, spoke feelingly of Sherman, Thomas and others and vividly portrayed "Sherman's March to the Sea." May the General live long and enjoy the fruits of his labor.

A large audience attended the lecture by General Howard at Franklin hall on last Tuesday evening. He spoke about two hours, relating the general history of the campaign of 1864 preceding the capture of Atlanta, as well as the march to the sea after the fall of that city. The speaker gave many and details of the operations of the two armies, the whole lecture being intensely interesting. Delegations from all the posts hereabouts were present, and the platform was filled with G. A. R. men and leading citizens from this and surrounding towns.

NORTH ABINGTON.

Gen. C. Pratt has been on the sick list for two weeks but is now much improved.

Some Washington reporters to gather information happened to the wife of Lieutenant-Commander Wainwright, executive officer of the Maine. The ship was destroyed early in the evening, and no person in Washington knew of it until several hours later. Mrs. Wainwright, who is in delicate health, was waked about 4 in the morning by a violent knocking and pounding at the door of her house, not imagining it to be merely idle boys trying to be mischievous, she took no notice of the noise. But it increased so violently that finally Mrs.

executor of Abby Bourne of Wareham, William J. Chipman, executor of Isaac S. Swift of Middleboro, Mary A. Swift, Mary H. Fryer and Nellie H. Swift, executrices.

Administrators appointed—Nathan Washburn, on the estate of Thomas Spooner of Lakeville; Edward L. Pratt, on the estate of Joanna Hickey of Hingham; Everett C. Hall, on the estate of Asa O. Hall of Brockton; Nathaniel Morton of Pembroke, on the estate of Samuel S. Jordan of Hallowell; Ann M. Brides, on the estate of Kate L. Brides, to succeed Patrick Brides, deceased; Amanda Melvin Edson, on the estate of Henry Edson of Abington; Fanny B. Peirce, on the estate of Henry B. Peirce of Abington; Abisha E. Wardians appointed—Augustus B. Loring, of Beatrice Loving, minor; Paul O. Clark of Bridgewater, of Jos. B. Forbes, insane person; Alton W. Leonard of Brockton, of Charles F. and John W. Sullivan, minors; Edward W. Rock of Brockton, of Ellen E. Clark, minor.

During 1890 $1,026,502,833 worth of products from the forests of the United States were used. Seven years later the sum had increased one-third. This amount of money is equal to two-thirds of all the money in circulation in this country.

Dear General.

I have been exploring on the interior of this strange, weird country. Have just come down to the coast alarmed by rumors of War and fearful that the phantom opportunity should flit past me. Exploring is very well in time of Peace but you can sympathize with a young soldier's restlessness in our present situation, with his regiments abroad and at the fore front.

I am hungry for commission in some volunteer regiment, in the line, of course. Please do not forget me should any Governor consult you regarding such an opportunity.

I received your telegram

Camp Thomas

Lytle Ga. June 14/98

Dear General Howard:

Our work is growing, and our way opened before us for increased usefulness; every day. A building, seating 1600 people, right in the center of the Camp, near Lafayette road, used for theatrical entertainments through the week, has been placed in the exclusive charge of the Christian Commission for Sunday services. We have arranged with neighboring Chaplains to bring their Commands for services at different hours of the day, while we plan for two general Evangelistic services. We commenced last Sunday, and although the building was yet unfinished, we had splendid meetings. You will readily see the advantage we shall have with this building. At a meeting of the Chaplains, a vote was taken that the Christian Commission should secure a man to care for the sick at Lester Hospital, as the Chaplains of Regiments could not well look after them. Yesterday I went down to Chickamauga, (or Crawfish Springs), where the Park Hotel (purchased by Mrs Lester for a General Hospital) is located, and saw the Surgeon in Charge.

He was pleased with the suggestion, and said that any man we would send there, who was adapted to the work, should be assigned a room, accepted in the officers mess, and given every facility for his efforts to give spiritual consolation and promote the welfare of the men. One of our workers, Rev Mr Sanford, for ten years in the slum work in New York City, will ~~for~~ probably be located there this week.

There has been a delay in the Red Cross, and the National Relief Societies, getting into effective operation here, and at the request of the Surgeon or General Brooks staff, we are at present supplying the ice needed in the various Hospitals.

We have notified him that he may call upon us for further work in that line if needed, and that when the Red Cross Agents are here, we will step out, and leave it to them. I know that you will approve of this plan of work, as on the lines of the Old Christian Commission. The spiritual work our speciality, but ready to fill the gap.

to the measure of our ability, for anything that may be needed for the sick or wounded. We are also arranging barrels of ice water in all of our tents, so that the thirsty men may not be tempted to the canteens. It would have done your heart good to have been with us last evening at our meeting with the First Maine. A tent was erected between their lines, and the Camp of the 52nd Iowa, on Saturday, and was heartily welcomed by all. Our meeting was out of doors, the crowd was so great, and was one of the best we have had. I should think six hundred men were present. Chaplain Estabrook presided; the full Band furnished music; we gave the men two hundred Hymn books (all we had with us), and Maxwell conducted one of the best song services I ever attended. Four Maine boys sang "Jesus, Lover of my Soul"; "Nearer my God to me", and "America", in a way that made the very branches of the trees sway in time with the music. After Christ had been preached, and the question was asked "Do you want Him?" I think at least two hundred hands shot up from that crowd of earnest faced young men from Maine, and Iowa, to say "Yes." At the close six men came to the Chaplain and myself and begged that we would show them how to settle the matter then and there, and get started in the Christian life. We went into the Chaplain's tent, and explained the way of life as in Isa 53, and I believe that every one of them got into light. It was very beautiful to hear the earnest short prayers that each of them made as we knelt before our Redeemer. "Lord Jesus, I have been a big sinner, but I come to you, and accept you as my Saviour. I will trust your word. Help me to be a good man." Five were of 1st Maine. And so God blesses us from night to night, and makes us happy in the work. I wish we could multiply our workers, and increase our meetings. I am sure, as you are able to get the work before the Christian people of the land, there will be such a response, in aid furnished, that we shall be able to do so. I read with great pleasure the report of your address at Cleveland, and the of your meeting in Chicago. I am praying for you daily, General, and thank God for the good you are doing at this time. All here send their Christian love.
