Dear Harry :-

Mr. Wm. H. Miller called to-day and wanted to know if Father were in New York. He intended to take the next train and interview him. I dissuaded him by sending the telegram, for it seems he merely wishes to prove that the man mentioned in dispatch is "unfaithful" to him. Miller states that he procured his transportation to New York to do business for him, but instead of calling upon the twenty people, as Miller expected, he (Miller) learns that he spent the day with Father, &c., &c.

I hope you have written something for me to tell Miller when he comes back to-morrow, however, I do not care to mix up in the matter. The fact I am interested in, is that Miller's wife has nervous prostration and our Home Treatment is a much less expensive and more successful remedy than the course she is pursuing. She is at Atlantic City. $15. for our H. T. covers the following services, for three months: Consultation with eminent physicians, and prescription if necessary,

Examination by Specialists,

Homeopathic medicines if needed,

A diagnosis of her case,

One Office Treatment,

One Home Treatment (Oxygen for 3 months)

Services of a nurse (Representative)

The average cost of which is $5. per month. Now this is the lowest priced successful remedy on the market, all things considered, and I want to persuade them to try it. Hoping you are all well,

My dear General,

I do not know your New York address. I note that you are one of the committee that is in charge of President McKinley's lecture on Lincoln. I would consider it a great favor if you could procure for me seven tickets. I assume they are free. My wife, daughter and other lady friends here, desire to attend. I will be very grateful if you can do this for me.

Yours very sincerely

My dear General.

I find the enclosed L & A. RR annual on my desk with your note.

You have fallen into an error. I have nothing to do with the L & A. and did not help get this one as I was in Europe last year.

Mr. Aug Belmont is the Chairman of the through him.

With kind regards.

LINCOLN MEMORIAL UNIVERSITY,

Cumberland Gap, Tenn., Jan 11, 1901

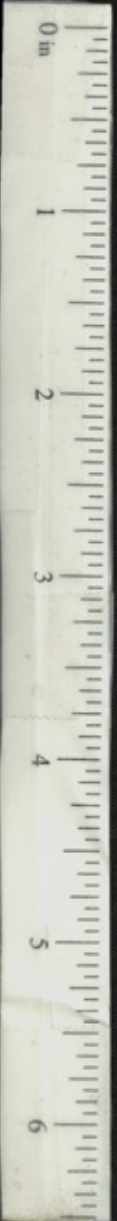

Dear Gen. Howard:-

I am back here and hard at work. Mrs. L. is steadily improving and will be ready to travel very soon. The matters at the Gap are settling down by letting them alone, which I am sure is the best treatment. A small school has been started with James Richmond as teacher. He is the one who had the essay you refused D. They have a few village pupils, but it will all die out if we do not notice it. I am beginning to think as many others do that it will be the best thing for our work. Several fathers have come here as a result of the discipline. "We want to put our boys where they will be taught & mined" they often say.

Handwritten text, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page.

One prominent² business man put four children under my care¹⁷¹ this week as a result of this.

"You folks have some different ways from us" he said "and I want my children to learn all good ways so as they wander around the world they will know how to act." Every nook and corner is filled here with youth who are the very cream of the section.
Had Grant Lee been given up this ship at Harrow would have nearly swamped the whole work.
As it is, the little flurry has only increased the good reputation of the University. Mr. Myers' actions not only make my work more than doubly hard by his talk, writing, threatening etc. My mind is clearly made up in the matter and I will be careful and be sure to be charitable as well. The best people in these valleys say that his connection here is doing us great harm. They know of the Maggi Suffrage case in a hearsay way and we all have to suffer from the fact.

I spoke in the Knoxville Cong.
Church last Sunday AM., and great surprise was manifested there that such a man was on our Executive Board. What could I say? I demanded proof, and the trouble is I got it. It was proof enough. When the girl was in a condition where she would tell the truth if ever, she revealed the fatherhood of her child, which the old ladies thought was plain enough by the child's face. This information is sealed and safe from the public though it will be given me if I will make effective use of it.

By effective, I suppose they meant to make a legal matter of it. This I refused to do as I could not see that it was the best method to pursue. He has got the girl & make different statements since, but she is in his power and will obey. I do not propose to be in his power in anything. Now it is very clear to me that you should demand his retirement from the University board. I am not speaking for myself now, but for the future of this great work.

Suppose those who have these facts should let them be given to the Southern press, how should we appear? Here this the only trouble, still I would not remain here and work under conditions which his insane cunning generates. He is at the bottom of every trouble that we have directly or indirectly. He has a weird influence over people, especially natives who have been kindly treated by him and the sainted Mrs.
Myers. I have succeeded in spite of all this in building a school that is a success from every standpoint and can very easily be established without a great yearly cost.

He must have another building and I think I can raise the money for it, but I will write [Faint, illegible handwritten text, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page.]

of these matters in a separate ⁵ letter. Do not let this ¹⁷¹Myers matter discourage you a particle.
If you do not wish to push the man, you can let him know you have the facts, which I can procure, and you can easily let him down on the idea that he is sick etc. He should marry the girl who has put such confidence in him and whom he visits regularly and undoubtably supports in Massachusetts. If you can bring this all about you will have made the first great step to our success. No blessing will rest on us under the present circumstances. I shall be in N.Y. soon, I think and ready to help in the matter of building up this institution. I have not written to Mr. Fairchild, but you are at liberty to use any statement I have made, at your discretion.

Fraternally Yours,

John Hale Larney.

My dear General Howard:--

I did not see your representative who called upon me yesterday for the reason that I desired first to talk with Mr. Miller, and in what I am writing you, I am writing with the hope and feeling that everything mentioned herein will be considered as only for your own ears and eyes.

It is by the merest accident that I have learned that Mr. Miller who was with you and for whom I entertain the greatest respect and friendship, may desire later to form some association with you for the university, and as I have been thrown in association with Mr. Miller while we are both employed upon the same newspaper (I editing all the matter that is brought into Mr. Miller's office in The North American), you can readily see that should I form any connection with you and your school, Mr. Miller would feel that something I may have heard him say had brought this about. I hope you thoroughly appreciate my feelings in this matter.

I have as I told you, been making every effort to get out of newspaper work, as it has been the business of my father's family for over three quarters of a century to build colleges and work in educational lines, and had I retained a commission from what I have raised through different sources for the above named institution, I should have been a rich young man, but to the contrary, I have persistently declined college position after position, feeling that it would not be right for me to seek personal comfort in preference to helping the people of East Tennessee and Western North Carolina, with whom I was reared, and whose bright minds so much need the opportunities of an education, as I have said in the little pamphlet and reading matter which I enclose.

But it is as I said to you in our conversation, I have no desire for personal glorification, and no wishes for money for my work in that line. It will be enough remuneration to me to know that at my death some bright young fellows will come to my sepulchre and say that through my humble efforts I gavethem a chance to learn the things previously hidden from them.

So you can understand for that reason why I have never felt called upon to discuss with Mr. Miller, or my other friends and associates my plans and means for securing help for needy persons.

Upon my return from New York, I had a talk with Professor Mogyrossy in regard to moving our school to Cumberland Gap, and he and I took the matter in hand and I went over it with the leading members of my board. The gentlemen seem to feel that it would present us in a bad light after having advertised ourselves so thoroughly as locating in one place, and especially since the architects have been placed upon the grounds making the designs for the Roman structures, and at a vote, I was the only person voting in favor of the move.

I then wrote my brother, President Will E. Abernethy, and here is a proposition which I should like to make you: You see if one of my immediate family were at your institution, I could with perfect propriety lend all the assistance in my power for your work, and then we could make some perfectly satisfactory arrangement.

My brother was for twenty years a teacher in Rutherford College and its president for a long time. He is one of the most celebrated orators in the South, and loyal, religious and liberal in his ideas.

The little worn pamphlet which I am sending under another cover is from a book of my brother's speeches, and contains a short sketch of his life which I should like to have you read. The book shows one of my earliest attempts at saving a college, and I have been quietly doing that class of work ever since. After you shall have read this booklet, I should like to have it again, and will gladly refund postage necessary.

My brother would make a good executive head of your institution, and I should like to see him with you. If you will make some such arrangement with him, he would ask no large salary, and would devote his every effort to the success of the work. He would draw a first class patronage from Western North Carolina. I think you would be glad to have him your president.

I am also sending you in this letter several letters which speak of me. I want you to read them, and have thus a better chance to know who I am. Then if we can effect some plan for our mutual advantage, I shall be pleased to render you any assistance in my power. I do not wish, however, to cut into any chance some other person may have, for that is not my purpose or wish, and I shall after hearing more fully from you, be pleased to take up matters provided of course, you will consider this letter as strictly confidential. I hope you are in the best of health, and wishing you every success in your work--the greatest a man can do for his fellow men,

I am, sincerely yours,

Your letter of recent date, was received, and did me great injustice. I do not forget your high rank, nor what is high and better, your high character. Your customary goodness and keen sense of justice, is read and known by every true American; Black or white. But for once, general, I know, you erred, much to the grief of your sincere admirer and friend. I sought no position without full determination of doing my whole duty in the Fear of God, and with love to man. But I now full well that Great

I send you a small contribution in response to your cordial, and welcome letter and heartily wish I could send you more, for I have a very warm place in my heart for those Mountain boys, and girls, but at present I am "snowed under" with appeals, all of which commend themselves to my good judgment, and I am trying to deal out from my scanty treasury a little to all.

A few years ago it was my privilege to visit the crude homes of some of the Mountain whites, and afterwards the schools in which the girls and boys were being educated. This was in North Carolina. I visited "Skyland Institute", situated at "Blowing Rock", way up on the top of the Blue Ridge mountains. Here I found a school of 60 of those bright boys, and girls who had come out of those desolate homes, ignorant, and unkempt, now clothed and in their right minds. They sang to me their sweet school songs, went through with their recitations giving every needed evidence of their aptness to learn, and of becoming useful men, and women in the world. I came home full of enthusiasm over that school and our churches have contributed towards its support. But I visited a number of other schools in and around Ashville, among which was the "Normal and Collegiate Institute" and "Home Industrial school" where I found nearly 200 young ladies being trained for teaching in all the English branches, in latin and history, psychology, higher English, physical culture, mathematics normal methods, natural science.

instrumental and vocal music, stenography, typewriting, book-keeping, penmanship, scientific cooking, sewing, dressmaking, millinery, and general house-keeping. O, I said, "This must be after God's own heart, so beneficent is the work". Then I visited a school for boys, and young men, about eight miles from Ashville, where were one hundre bright looking young men who had come from their miserable homes in the mountains, and here thy were being taught the use of tools, and methods of farming, and again I said "Surely God must smile on all this blessed work, in lifting these poor unfortunate ones up into a higher life."

Other schools I visited, and I did thank God that so much was being done for an unfortunate people, in whom were all the factors necessary to make noble men and women.

Our country, owes you, my dear General, a debt of gratitude which they can never repay, both for your magnificent defence of it in the hour of her great peril, and in your equally magnificent efforts to educate, and lift up into a higher civilization the masses, who are to be such a tremendous factor in the future upbuilding of our beloved nation.

God bless, and prosper you always in your noble endeavors in behalf of a higher Christian civilization, for the best country in all the earth. I greatly enjoyed your address at our modest New Centennial Banquet, and I only regret that more of our young men could not have listened to it. Had I been as closely identified with our Association as I once was, so to have realized just what was going on, I should have made a strenuous endeavor to have had present an audience of young men to greet you.

With love to you, and all best wishes, I am,

Yours most sincerely,
