My dear Gen. Howard.

I have wondered many times about the condition of the work at the Gap since I received your letter a good while ago. I am sorry that last year was a hard one for you as well as trying on the work. Have you made any great changes in the management or plans? I have been very hopeful about the school and I am still. There is much to discourage the workers, but there is, likewise, very much to encourage and inspire. Your ambitions for that section are surely ^{worthy} of complete realization.

I have, somehow, sort of lost track of what is being undertaken there this year, but I hope there has been no retrenchment. Do you plan to come to this city the coming winter? We are living at 64 Batterman Av. W. and it would be a great pleasure to us to have you visit us. I wish I might be of some service to you in furthering your great work at the Gap.

Mrs. Weaver joins me in sending cordial good wishes for your health and work.

Very truly yours,

J. M. Weaver.

My Dear General:

I have taken the liberty of sending you herein and under separate cover some literature pertaining to the recent congressional fight against the army saloon in which I trust you will be interested. During this past summer I have had occasion to examine the war reports for some years past and was very glad indeed to note some very strong statements against what I believe to be the pernicious influence of the canteen on recruits as well as other men in the service as given in your official reports as Commander of the Department of the East. I shall be very glad to know if you are to be in New York in the near future, where I should be pleased to have a brief conference with you upon some special points with reference to this controversy, in which I feel sure you will be interested. I trust you may be able to refer to a forcible statement concerning the army canteen after it had had four years' trial in the report of Major C. K. Winne which will be readily found in the report of the Surgeon General, Vol. 1, Secretary of War's Report for 1893.

With assurances of high regard and best wishes, I am,

Very sincerely yours,

Dear Mr. Howard:-

I have just received a letter from your father asking whether the manuscript of the two additional chapters have been received. They were. I did not acknowledge them because they came the day after I wrote him, and I supposed he would understand, of course, that the manuscript was safely at hand.

If I ever come across a stray copy of Col. Dodge's book I will send it to your father as he requests; but the volume is out of print, and is exceedingly scarce, and I think it would be difficult to find one.

Believe me to remain,

Sincerely yours,

"WHAT'S IN A NAME?"

Or How Do YOU Spell Isaac?

Until recently, Henry Taylor, of this city, was known as Isaac H. (or Isaac Henry) Taylor. With the assistance of Mr. Isaac Staples, book-keeper, he has a list of just fifty ways of spelling—or rather misspelling—Isaac, as shown below.

We rather wonder that all of the Isaacs have not rebelled against this Christian addition, with the exception of the Hebrew race, who ought to have patented the invention (as "I'-zak, he who laughs and is merry, light-hearted; or he who shall laugh and give pleasure") and issued an injunction vs. Sir Isaac Newton, Isaac Watts, Isaac Pearson, Isaac Rowell, Rev. Isaac Taylor, et cætera. Said Henry Taylor will doubtless enjoy two advantages the rest of his life: (1) discontinuing to assist others in correctly writing the discarded name, and (2) in not being further annoyed by nearly always seeing the initial printed I.

The list is as follows:

Isaac	Isaacce	Iassac	Isaack
Isiac	Icaas	Izk	Icaac
Iisac	Icks	Isic	Icaace
Icaack	Iaasic	Issach	ISick
Iseac	Aisec	Issack	Isich
Ysac	Isaar	Isac	Jsaac
Iaag	Iaasac	Isick	Issac
Izic	Isaach	Iseke	Isace
Isiace	Iceic	Issick	Isoac
Icac	Isaas	Isaak	Isice
Isach	Isica	Iisack	Isaic
Isic	Isac	Isak	Zaach
Isiane	Issace	Isace

SAW THE MONITOR FIGHT.

Henry Taylor and family, arrived in town Friday evening, and are at the Linden. After a visit of a week or ten days they will go to Centre Ossipee, N. H. where Mr. Taylor has rented a cottage for the summer.

Mr. Taylor is a veteran of the late war, and saw the Merrimac destroy the Cumberland, and the Congress at Hampton, Va., in '61. He also saw the fight between the Merrimac and Monitor the next day. He says that after the first day's battle, when the Merrimac wrought such havoc with our ships, all the troops expected to be made prisoners. They looked for the Merrimac to return and finish the job of destroying our fleet, and at the same time expected an attack from the rebel army stationed in their rear. It was an anxious night for them.

Mr. Taylor was wounded at Antietam, by a piece of a shell, and the color-bearer, at whose side he was standing, had his leg shot off.

Dear General O. O. Howard: Some years ago you kindly wrote me, per introduction by my ever valued friend General C. H. Howard your dear brother. - I have lately collected a little lot of material relating to your honored self or other military heroes or horrid war subjects. (1) Your illustrated contribution to Leslie's Monthly Dec '96 Under your portrait I have added "At Harper's Ferry Genl H. returned my soldier's salute by placing the bridle reins in his mouth so as to use his left arm. What extreme courtesy to a strange soldier!" - I have long been one of your, perhaps millions of, admirers and always glad to notice any publication honoring such a brave Christian soldier, but I seem to abhor any honor for a Rebel, who did his best to destroy the National Union & I am almost ready to destroy the five portraits of the leading Rebel Generals so elegantly arranged in your article. - (I would also blot out every portrait or name of the three assassins of our Presidents) - In your Lee interesting article you say "Buck obtained the love and confidence of their soldiers" I beg leave to differ with ^{even} such an eminent authority ^{regarding "Little Mac"}. At Fair Oaks I remarked to an elder soldier, seems strange to me we remain so long in this Rebel lousy camp, why don't we at least try to "on to Richmond", which we can see from a tree. "McC wants to save his soldiers give him time and he'll siege the devil out of hell" - ^{"was the reply"} Then the "Change of Base" (which I always called a base change) began when our captain remarked "McClellan is played out". Any way seems as if myself never believed in him, as a General in Chief, after that time. I was with the rear guard, we fought every day and marched every night during that wretched "Seven days" (miserable) "retreat".

I myself endured to the end and so was not a prison victim. - At Antietam I received my peculiar wound, my left brow turned white from the concussion or wind of a cannon ball. - and no pension

② From "Annals of Iowa vol. 1 no 5" I, was much interested in article "Luminous Charge at Jackson (Portaity) by Col. Geo. W. Croesley" ^{all agree} from my written remarks, ^{added to the article} I was then in the 9th Corps (Co H 29th Mass. Vol) and am surprised to learn the ^{date} of 3rd 28, when I remember no loss, we were skirmishing in the "15th mile line" and the Rebs kept up their fire, soon we fell back on original line why? a mystery, next am. we quickly marched into city of Jackson, not a Reb to be seen. &c &c

③ My next part relates to General Grant and Chetlain. Your part in Mc Clure May 94 is very brief and the matter not clear. - "Before Grant won his stars by E. J. Edwards in Mc Clure for June '95," caused me to write Genl. Chetlain, with whom I had some acquaintance in Chicago, of course you are familiar with this interesting paper, "the narrative" mostly credited to Genl. Chetlain. I have wondered whether Capt. Grant did not make a mistake in not accepting the offer of Captain of the Co. he helped organize, instead of waiting to be Col. - My special reason for refer'g to Genl. Chetlain in connection with Genl Grant relate to the seeming injustice to his true early friend. In his Memoir General Grant does not give any credit to Genl. C or even refer to him, so far as I could find in the two volumes. I quote from Genl. C's letter of Sept. 7, '95 "x x x Genl. Grant always treated me well, till after his mis understanding with his old friend E. B. Washburne when Grant ran for the 3^d term, which ended in bitter enmity afterword Washburne since 1856 had been my most intimate friend. After the break between these two friends I was looked upon as Washburne's friend and Grant's enemy. Altho' I did not uphold Mr Washburne in all his conduct towards Grant, Grant never forgave Washburne to his dying day, nor did he me, altho' all through I had ~~always~~ ^{been} his friend x x I think the Grant family now understand the matter. I am treated by all its members with distinguished consideration."

"Grant at the outbreak of the war, by Hamlin Garland" in McClure for May '97, gives some additional information, and I think varies somewhat from the other account mentioned.

I saved a clipping "Who made General Grant?" Gen.
Ja. H. Stokes of N.Y. claimed that honor, denied by General old friends. Since writing this long letter I came to Grant's Vicksburg Campaign by Harlan Garland in McClure July '97 - Great Credit to Gen. G.

(4) Yesterday my dear brother-in-law, E. J. Brockett and myself lunched with Eben Moody Baynton (a boy friend in Mass.) during the meeting Mr Baynton surprised us with his statement relating to yourself in connection with the "Freedman Bureau" troubles, as I remember his remarks he even claimed to have caused a change in Judge Advocates, a personal appeal to Pres. Grant, "because Gen. Sherman was a Catholic," but Justice in the Halloway life of yourself she refers to Gen. Sherman as the Judge, and as your friend. I could hardly believe Mr Baynton had much influence at Court, altho a very bold man, but very radical &c

When in Omaha Neb. (yesterday) I had a letter to your son from Gen. C. H., or was it his son? Any way we did not meet. Think he was absent. -

I expect to soon be in N.Y. City (Leaving my family here) and may ^{next spring} move to other end of this State to get with in reach of "Greater N.Y." for business, and hope that I may yet have the pleasure of ~~your~~ meeting yourself and Mrs Howard may we not even have the pleasure of welcoming yourself and any of the family ~~at~~ our home? - We are both growing old, but you are only about seven years my senior. - If memory serves me I once heard you speak, (at the Congregational Church, Chicago, Am I correct? - I hope that you and your family are now really enjoying your retirement, and that if you have not already written your "Reminiscences" you will yet attend to such an important matter. I have known many Generals (Banks, Beveridge, Bryan, Leake, your brother, Chetlain and ?) but I am sure that your memoir would prove more interesting and instructive than any military gentleman with whom I am or was acquainted. Very Respy

Major General O. O. Howard,

Dear Sir:-

Having become a candidate for appointment to one of the positions of justice of the peace for the District of Columbia, created by the new law to go into effect January 1, next, I beg of you a letter to the President of the United States, by whom said appointments are to be made, recommending and endorsing me for one of the same.

I have resided in the District of Columbia since 1872; received a college and professional education at Howard University; have been a regular practitioner before the bar of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia since 1887.

A letter to the President in my behalf from you would have great weight in my favor.

Thanking you in advance for the kindness hereby sought at your hands, I have the honor to remain,

Very truly yours,

R. S. Smith

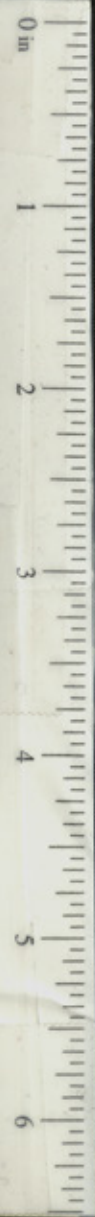

My dear General: You may have forgotten during the intervening years your protege whom you helped by making him a private secretary to you in your office in this city in '73-'74. But you have heard this before.

I have received your letter of the 10th inst. and am glad to hear that you are well. I am also well and hope this letter finds you the same. I have been thinking of you very much lately and wondering how you are getting on. I hope you are still in the same good health and enjoying life. I have been very busy lately but I will try to write you more often. I have been thinking of you very much lately and wondering how you are getting on. Major General O.O. Howard
U.S. Army retired;

Sir:-

Unsolicited on his part I take the great pleasure to write you concerning one in whom you must take great interest and much paternal pride. Your son Major John Howard, late 48th Infy U.S.
Vol., under whom I had the honor to serve from early in October 1899 until May 31st 1901. A part of this period I was Range Officer and at an other period acting battalion

Adjutant under his immediate Command; his earnest and manly dealings taught me to love him, and in this I believe my estimate of him was sustained by every line officer of his regiment. He was known as a disciplinarian, yet, the private felt that "Major Howard" was as courteous to him, as to any officer in the regiment.

An indefatigable worker, a thorough gentleman, a just Commander a brave and an Excellent Soldier. is the unanimous verdict of those whose good fortune it was to serve with and under Major John Howard 48th Infy U.S.A.

Very respectfully

Jacob C. Smith

Dear Sir - You took such a kindly interest in the case of the sick soldier, Frank Hand, that I write to tell you that four weeks ago he started for Fort Bayard, N. M., where he was to enter the Government hospital. The money for his railroad fare was raised here. Two days after he left a letter came to this post office directing him to appear before the medical examining board at Watertown. But he was there - after waiting about six months in expectation and hopes of such an order - beyond being able to comply with it. He writes that the soldiers in the hospital say that a man there stands a better show for a pension than he does outside. It seems to be the evidence of a commissioned officer which the Department requires in the case, and the officers qualified to give it are on the faraway outposts in the Philippines.

The poor fellow seems to make the best of the situation. He writes that he has been sick a bed the most of the time since he reached Fort Bay - and that the climate "helps some and a good many go into the ground".

As I fancy it was through your kindness that his case finally got as far as the point of ordering him before the examining physicians, and I wish to thank you for it. I hope yet that he will receive his dues before death claims him.

Sincerely Yours
Stephen J. Parker.

Replied ~~to~~ Nov 2, that claimant should request his order changed to St. Rogers. No. 54.
