Dear General Howard:-

Yours of recent date came to hand but I have delayed answering until I thought you would be at home again.

I have not yet completed the revision of the manuscript, and probably shall not be able to get it all done for a couple of months or so yet. Meantime, it will be an advantage if you will let me have the additional chapters. You may send them as soon as you like, though there is no immediate hurry for them.

I am glad to learn of your safe return from the Pacific Coast.

Believe me to remain,

Very sincerely yours,

I am sure it is an interesting study for all.

General O. O. Howard

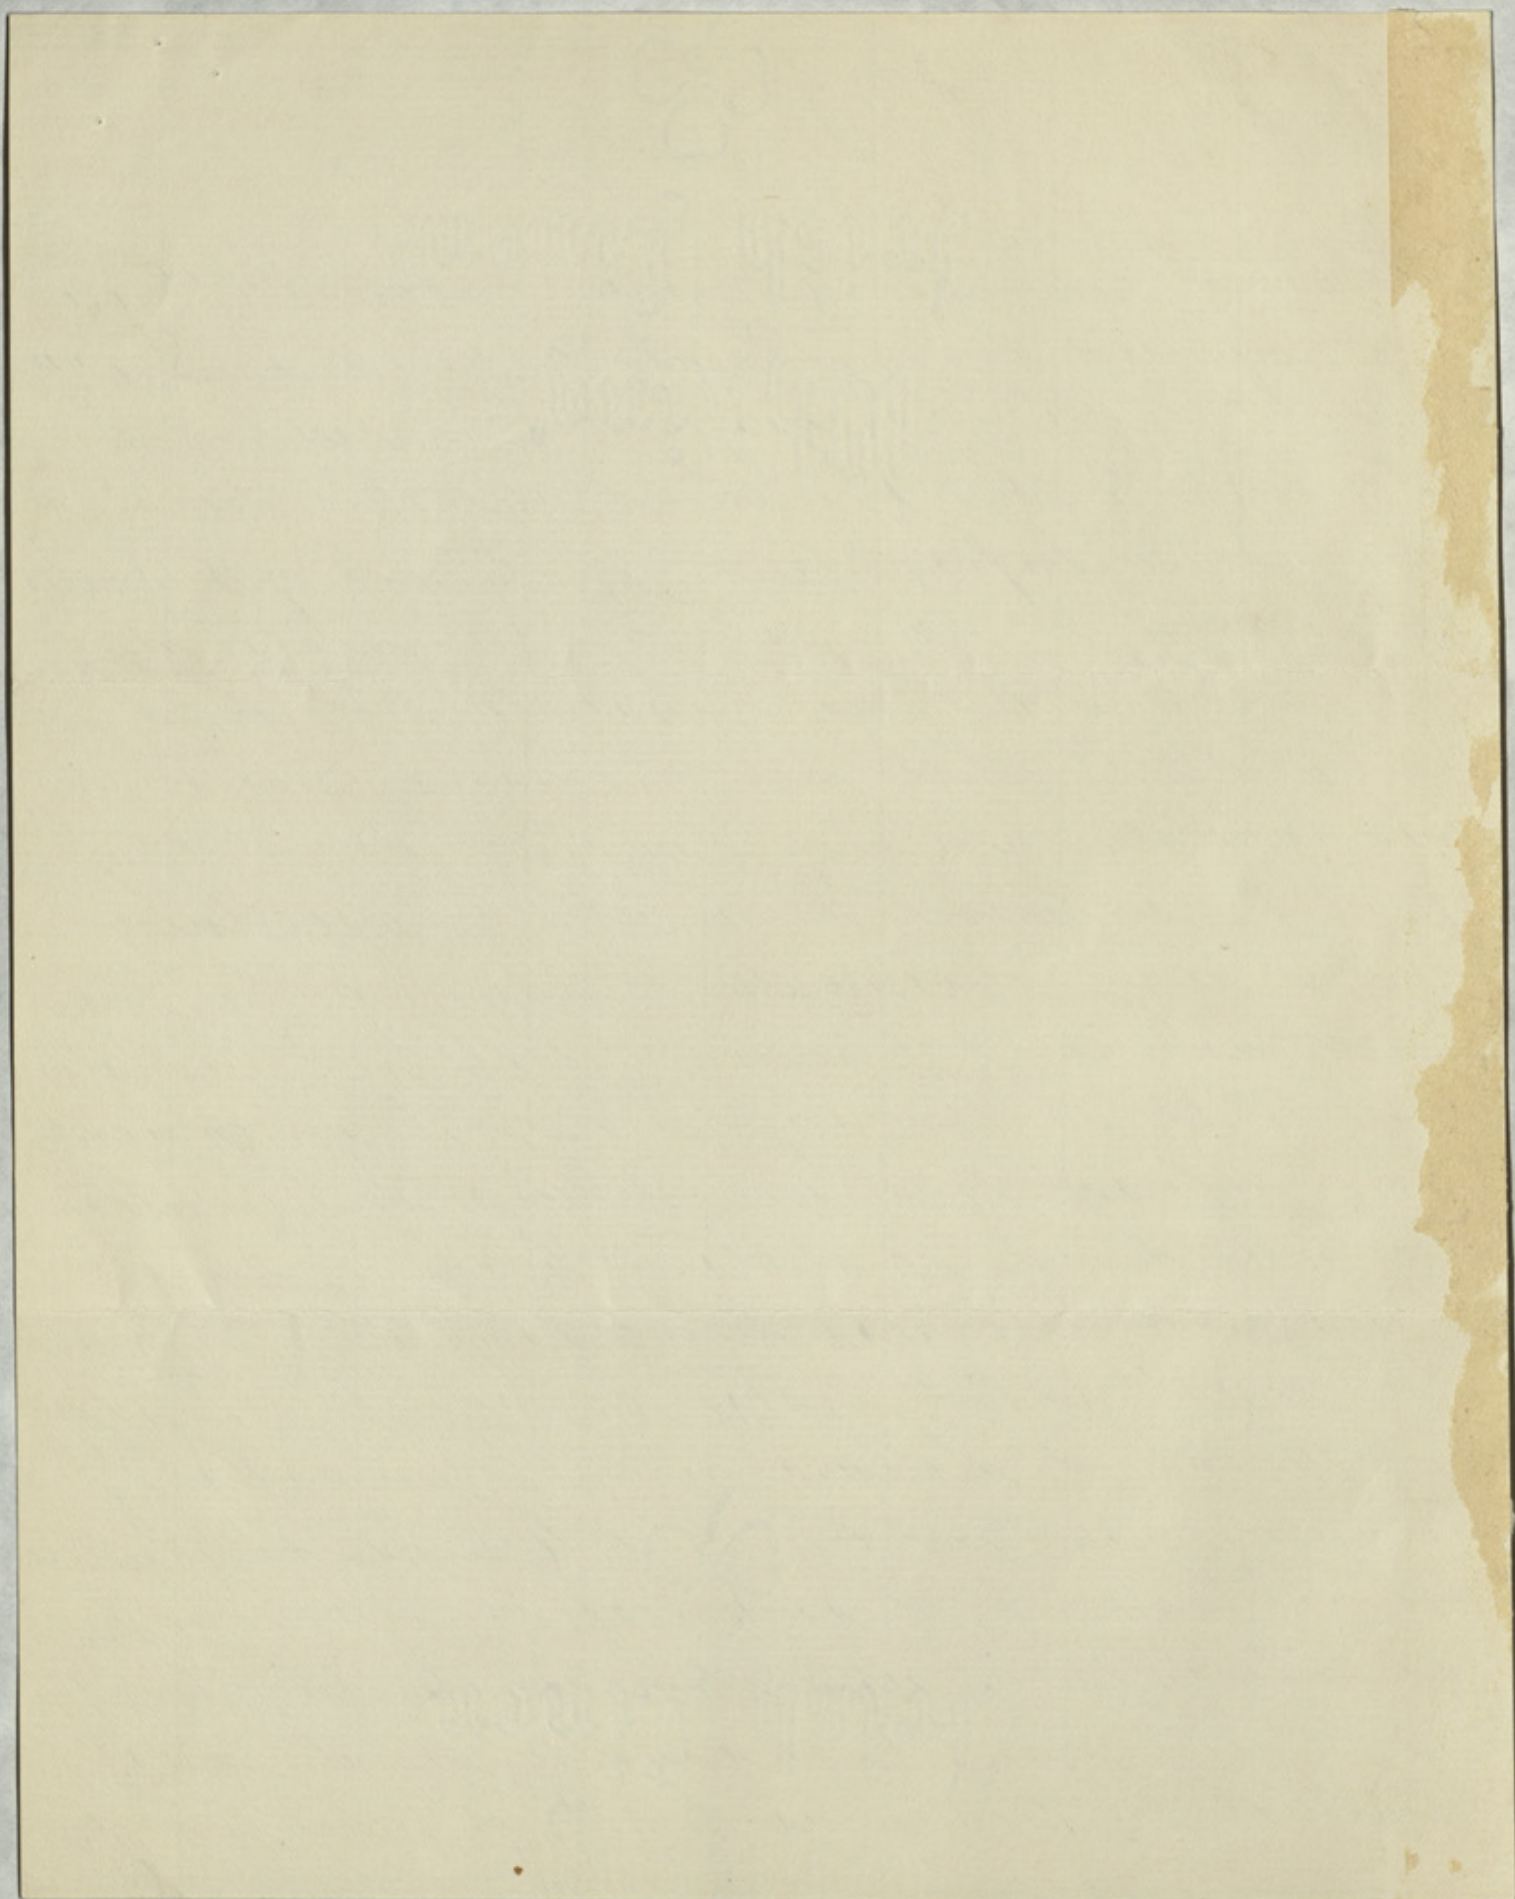

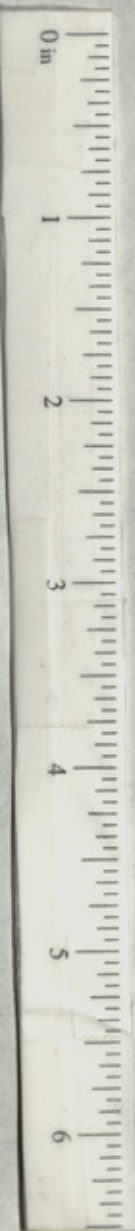

Dear Christian friend
I feel that I have been too negligent about answering your very kind letter of November 25th 1901. The public sentiment as voiced by the press of the Pacific Coast demanding the enactment of the Chinese exclusion law, with all its attendant cruelties to our people, have had a stunning effect upon me, and it has taken time for me to gather courage to write about it.

Congress will probably enact the law, but I hope they will modify it towards the treatment of the Chinese that are already here. Under the workings of the present law, the Chinese laborers are virtually prohibited from visiting China and returning to the United States. Under the opinion of the Solicitor of the Treasury (Maurice D. O'Connell) rendered on June 21, 1899, and numbered D.D. 21357.

the debts due the Chinese laborers of $1000 as required by the Treaty ratified on Dec. 7th 1894. To entitle a registered Chinese laborer to return to the United States, this decision renews the enforcement of the act of September 13th 1888, and requires that the debts due the laborers are as unascertained, and unsettled debts, and not promissory notes, or acknowledgements of ascertained liability, none of us have been able to ascertain from any attorney the kind of debts, that this law and opinion refers to. The collector here to be on the safe side if the government has refused to grant return certificates on any kind of debts. Many of these registered laborers have property interest here, and valid debts owing to them of one thousand dollars, and upwards. If they are called back to China, on business, or on account of sickness or death in their families, they are denied the privilege of returning to this country, and must lose their holdings here, or are put to great expensed in having their interest attended to by attorneys and friends. Under the Treaty of 1894 the right to go to China and return within one year is guaranteed to registered Chinese laborers who leave debt here to the amount of one thousand dollars, pending settlement. But the right has been denied them ^{by} those who execute the law, and under authority of a law enacted before the ratification of the Treaty of 1894.

If Congress passes the exclusion law, as now seems probable. Our friends might use their influence at Washington and have all of those old laws repealed that were passed before the ratification of the Treaty of 1894. This alone would remove much of the hardships that are put upon the Chinese residing in the United States.

On March 3rd. 1900. the Treasury Department issued circular No. 28. T. D. 22050. providing that a Chinese merchant could make his application for return certificate thirty days before he departed for China and the custom authorities would investigate his right to return, and when the investigations were satisfactory the collector at the port of departure would indorse his right to land on his return, and this would prevent him from being detained upon his return. But after the merchants have complied with this ruling and secured the right to land, they are still detained after they arrive at their home port, usually, for several days, as the collector claims the right to re-investigate the case. While this second investigation is being conducted, the merchants are prohibited from communicating with their friends, and their friends are denied access to them. Under the recent rulings of the courts and the Treasury Department, the decision of the collector is final. If it is against them, they are deported from the United States, and are required to leave their homes and business. I could cite cases that have occurred in this port, recently, but it would make my letter too long to do so.

I am very glad to received the pictures, and sincerely thank you for them. It is a great comfort to me to know that the Chinese people in the United States have so great and good a friend as you are to them, and your memory shall always occupy a large corner in my heart.

May the blessings of God attend you

Dear Brother;-

I was glad to get your few lines relating to the Chinese. Some one saw mention of your interview with President Roosevelt. Wish you would tell me about it. I am afraid you would not be very welcome to talk against Chinese exclusion after he had distinctly committed himself to that policy in his message. Perhaps you did not mention that subject.

I write to-day particularly with reference to the Ohio regiments who were in your command in the Eleventh Corps and the Fourth, and in the Army of the Tennessee. Major Osborne, my ~~late~~ friend of the Eleventh Corps tells me that Ohio has never taken any step to mark the places where her regiments were located in the great battle of Chata-nooga and in the battles in that vicinity. An attempt will be made through General Grosvenor to induce the legislature to make a proper appropriation for this purpose. They did something handsome with reference to the Chickamauga battle field.

I will draw up a letter for you which of course you can modify as you see fit but which may save you a good deal of investigation as to statistics, and which you can, after such modification as you see fit, sign ~~it~~ and send to Gen. Grosvenor with reference to this matter.

Affectionately,

P. S. I regret to say that I cannot give any more encouraging reports in regard to Kittie who is still ill at Bangor.

2. Do you intend to attend the Eleventh Corps' Society's annual meeting? If so, you will meet Major Osborn there. I am afraid that the President, Gen. Orland Smith is not well enough to attend. He now lives in Chicago.

Temporarily Here.

Hon. Andrew Carnegie,

5 West 51st Street,

New York City.

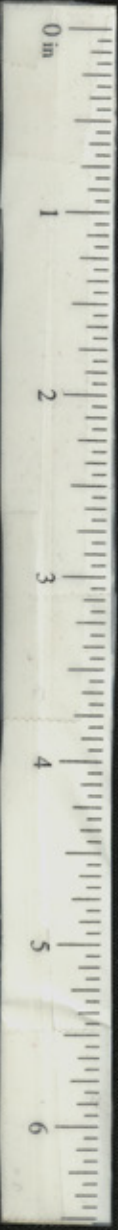

Dear Mr. Carnegie:

This morning I received your kindly permission, - perhaps rather invitation, - through our managing director, Mr. Avery, to write you what was in my heart and mind.

Before I do so, permit me to thank you for the great good you are doing the whole country, by the establishment of an institution of the highest kind of a national character, at the Capital of the Nation. There is nothing in which I am more interested than in the education of the people, and I have been the leader in setting into operation more than seventy institutions of high grade, none of which have failed. They have been successful for more than a quarter of a century. You will understand me therefore when I say that you are doing something of far more importance than John Hopkin's plan or purpose. The favorite expression of mine is this, "To keep up the lower grades of education it is necessary to keep up the higher grades;" so that with all my heart I welcome for the country I love and have suffered for, the grand standard that you are fixing, so I say "God bless you for that!"

IN RESPONSE TO A RESOLUTION PASSED
BY THE SENATE,
JANUARY 10, 1902.
ALBANY:
THE STATE PRINTING OFFICE,
1903.

Now, may I call your attention to the enclosed circular which I believe to be truthful in every particular. You have already helped me in this work and you did so remarking "General, what is your mortgage ?" Let me pay that now. By and by we will consider anything further." I told you then that Cumberland Gap was a remarkable centre to reach those who had had hitherto been bereft of the ordinary privileges of learning from books. I wanted to ask for a library but the village near our University is small and not well organized and I thought it would not be wise to ask for a library simply for the village and the University, though that would be very desirable. I said to you, I am sure that two-thirds of the mountain people in every direction in Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia were of Scotch and Scotch-Irish origin. Families that I have visited show a readiness to do anything in the line of work for an education. I mean a practical education, Industrial and Academic such as we are furnishing. We can take as many students of both sexes as we have the means to carry through each term. Just now to pay our ten teachers and support the institution requires between nine and ten thousand dollars a year.

This plan has suggested itself to me to submit to you. You choose two trustees whom you love and have confidence in, men of practical talent and if you like me well enough, put me with them, making three and then set apart a fund called the Carnegie Fund to be held and used just as you would like it to be held and used for the benefit, primarily, if you would like so to restrict it, of the mountain youth such as I have described. This expenditure could be made through the Board of Directors of the Lincoln Memorial at Cumberland Gap. By doing this you might so designate it that it would not be a precedent for other institutions but be an expression of your love for Lincoln and the people that he so much cared for. In my last interview with him he put them upon my heart, namely, the scattered people of the mountains, and also an expression of your continuous regard for Scottish families.

You might ask me how much would you suggest. I answer that a half million would do more there at Cumberland Gap for putting the plane beneath the human needs than two millions in any city of the land. I want more than anything that your own good name and not mine should be connected with the work. Whether you can do anything or not I honor and love you for the nobility of soul which you have already shown. I shall always be at your command.

Very sincerely,

Your friend,

Your two communications at hand and contents noted. You can send a voucher to me for the $100. paid to you. I have mailed you to-day, under separate cover, the labor union pamphlet. I have secured from the Minister his idea in answer to same.

The sentiment at the Capitol is already more moderate, as they are fully aware that we are under treaty relations, and that it would be discourteous to make a law having longer existence than the treaty itself.

The head lines of your letter among others should be, first, the exclusion act is un-American and discriminates against a class which is not in accordance with the principles of our Government; that laws to be effective and respected, should be uniform in their character and application, and that whatever is necessary to exclude Chinese labor, should be equally effective in regard to European labor; whatever new laws are passed should be general and not specific. Commerce is tending eastward. The United States, in the last six months, has lost materially in Chinese trade, not only on account of the war, but on account of the labor union agitation. Our relations with China have always been friendly and they should continue, and we ought not to listen to the clamor of the mob, which is unthinking, unreasonable and illogical. The laboring element of the United States will be more hurt by this exclusion act, than any other. If there is no reciprocity between the United States and China, there will naturally be no trade and the demand for labor among the manufacturers will be much less. The demands of the labor union organizations are as domineering as were the demands of the slave power prior to the Civil War and the same stupid arguments are used as then, to appeal to the prejudices and fears of the American people. If the Chinaman is to be civilized and Christianized, he must be given the chance to assimilate, and the reason, up to the present moment, for this non-assimilation has been the stringency of our laws, which give him no right to enjoy the fruits of his labor, denies him every privilege of citizenship and then expects him to conform to American civilization, - a civilization which, in its treatment of the Chinese, is cowardly and

As I mentioned in my letter yesterday, I will now enclose to you a letter addressed to Gen. Grosvenor for you to make use of. I will also enclose copy of the letter which I signed and put into the hands of Maj. Osborne to take to the meeting of the 11th Corps Society where he expects to meet General Grosvenor.

I desire that you should cover one point which I omitted ^{in my letter} namely: the extension of the National Park so as to include the battle fields of Lookout Valley and Wauhatchie. The park now extends to the Lookout Creek and to the bridge across that creek near what is known as Smith's Hill or where the Brigade of Gen. Orland Smith made its splendid night charge, which you will call to mind, I witnessed.

As there was something very picturesque as well as heroic in those night battles and as they were entirely victorious for the Union cause and as so much depended upon the exploit of Hazen ^{also,} in coming down the river as he did and securing the bridge-head at Brown's Ferry, I am very anxious that the National Park should include all these points. You yourself, and the contingent coming from the army of the Potomac would thus, in the commemoration, be brought into proper relations to the subsequent great battles around Chattanooga.

After you have the signed letter in terms just as you want it please mail it to General Grosvenor, care of House of Representatives, Washington, D.C., retaining a copy, of course, for your own use and in case it should be wanted later.

Yours affectionately

My Dear General:-

*cfm
for O.O.H.*

I think I may claim a slight personal acquaintance with you not only from having met you in years past, but within a few years was introduced by Melville E. Stone in his room. You, however, know my brother General O. O. Howard much better than you do me. I was associated with him during the most of the period of the Civil War as a Staff Officer and sometimes as Inspector General of the corps and sometimes as Senior Aid-de-Camp and Chief-of-Staff.

During all the time of my service in the army of the Potomac in the 11th Corps, and in the army of the Cumberland in the 4th Corps and in the army of the Tennessee when my brother was in command of that army, I had direct relations with regiments from the state of Ohio: was more or less intimately associated with these regiments at the Battle of Chattanooga and it is a pleasure to say, I can bear personal testimony to the efficiency of these Ohio organizations, both Infantry and Artillery and the bravery and heroic conduct of officers and men.

I have taken deep interest in the proposition to establish a National Park worthy of the name including that great battle field and have always taken especial interest in the scenes in which I was permitted to have some humble part, on Missionary Ridge and also in Lookout Valley and Wauhatchie. I personally witnessed the splendid charge made by General Orland Smith's Brigade in the night in Lookout Valley and at the place now very appropriately known as Smith's Hill.

On all these fields the Ohio troops distinguished themselves for valor and for the qualities which go to make up good soldiers.

I write this letter as you may have guessed to ask your co-operation in bringing about ~~for~~ the state of Ohio a just recognition of the services of Ohio troops in that great battle. There were in our commands alone 60 regiments of Infantry, 15 batteries of Artillery, 2 regiments of engineers, etc., and 3 of Calvary with, I believe, one additional battery serving with the calvary, making a total of 80 organizations. Perhaps, therefore, it is proper that from my personal knowledge and contact with all these troops, I should ask you, who are so well capable of doing it, to make a plea on behalf of properly marking the ground and distinguishing the respective positions where these troops fought in the Battle of Chattanooga, including, of course, what is sometimes designated as Missionary Ridge, Lookout Mountain, Lookout Valley, Wauhatchie and Brown's Ferry.

Respectfully yours,

C. H. Howard

Mr. Harry Howard,

My dear Harry:-

Last November, after several talks with your father about the matter, it was thought best to undertake a meeting here in Boston in the interest of Lincoln Memorial University, something after the nature of the meeting that you got up in New York. It was considered advisable to secure Tremont Temple for the night of February 10th, I think; at any rate, the night before Lincoln's birthday, and that has been done. The idea was to get some Southern general, and we settled on General John B. Gordon of Atlanta, to make an address along with your father; to get some eminent man here, the Governor or some such person, to preside, and perhaps have some music; to get a list of patrons and patronesses, etc. If the meeting is to come off, and your father has written General Gordon, steps should be taken at once to carry out the details, and I don't see but that it falls to you to undertake it. I will give you such assistance as my own time will afford, but preparations should be begun at once, and it seems to me that you, if you are willing to do so, ought to come down here and perfect the arrangements.

Please let me hear from you upon receipt of this, and oblige

Yours very sincerely,

Edgar O. Achorn

Please make my compliments to your mother and sister
I hope they are well. E.O.A.

Dear General Howard:

The Young Men's Bible Class of the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church to which you once kindly made an address and of which you were subsequently elected a member, has this Fall established a club for its members. A house has been taken in West 45th Street just back of our Church. In the three upper stories members of the club reside and the first floor and basement are devoted to reading, game and sitting rooms. The members of the Club and Class are giving a reception to the Honorary members of the Class on the evening of December 19th, and in addition to the formal invitation which has been sent you I take pleasure in sending this more personal one, very much hoping that you will find it possible to drop in at the Clubhouse, No. 11 West 45th Street, for a few minutes at least during the evening.

Very truly,

John D. Rockefeller Jr.

My Dear Sir:-

Knowing your great interest in all efforts looking toward civic improvement and the asthetic betterment of American life, I am taking the liberty of enclosing the proof of an editorial which appears in the January number of HOME AND FLOWERS, outlining the general plan upon which I will aim to conduct the magazine. The "world beautiful in nature and art" will be the field which it will cultivate. If you can spare the time to read this editorial and feel moved to express an opinion thereon. I would esteem it a very great favor indeed to hear from you, if only a few words. And if later on you are moved to set down any thoughts on any phase of this subject, which is becoming of such vast national import,

HOME AND FLOWERS would be greatly pleased to be considered among the first ~~to~~ as to the publication of such an article.

Thanking you in advance for any courtesy you may extend in this matter, and with hearty admiration for your service to the cause of civic and artistic improvement, I am, my dear sir,
