Address delivered at the Banquet of the Sons of the Revolution
New York Society
Nov. 25, 1873

No. 9

1 8½x11 type-written copy filed with original M.S.S.
No. 9 10

Signed
Andrew Jackson
"ANDREW JACKSON"

Address delivered by Major General O. O. HOWARD, U. S. Army, at the Banquet of the SONS of REVOLUTION, at Delmonico's, New York City, November 25th 1893.

Our armies have always been composed of individuals. That ARMY of the REVOLUTION was our army, hence the individuals!! and we are not surprised to find some of those individuals to have shown themselves most remarkable men.

Washington— the General—for example, in spite of his truthfulness, after the war, became President of the United States; Hamilton— a battery commander—in spite of his decision of character and financial honesty, became Secretary of the Treasury; and more remarkable still, ANDREW JACKSON, born between the governors of North Carolina and South Carolina, and attaining only to the brevet rank of a Revolutionary soldier, still in his teens, nevertheless walked into the historic "WHITE HOUSE", as Oliver Cromwell did into England's places, and there in Address delivered by W. G. Bennett, O. M. W. M.

U.S. Army at the Centennial of the Sons of REVOLUTION at De Montfort's New York City
Renaissance, 1882

Our ancestors have always been concerned with fights. Their A.M. at the REVOLUTION was our army. They were the revolutionaries! And we n are not surprised to find some of those ideals are not surrendered to the passage of time. More may be seen to have survived the passing years.

With regard to the attack on

We interpret the context of our Declaration and the principles of the Constitution — in spirit of the belief that certain unalienable rights, among them life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness, are so inalienable that to deny them is to violate the Constitution and the laws of nature. And so the speeches of former generations and the speeches of our own generation are to be used not only of a constitutional nature, but also in support of the cause, and to advance the moral and political progress of the nation. So may all into Mather's phrases and ideas in in an upper room or "kitchen cabinet" established the sound party doctrine that no partisan has since been able successfully to gainsay: to wit: "TO THE VICTOR BELONG THE SPOILS!"

Stripped of metaphoric language, all that old doctrine means is, that Republicans or Democrats or third party shall have the salaries. And even this doctrine has been far from realization, on account of the immaculate courts, - the cosmopolitan navy, - and the sleepless army. For these unpastisan, expectant bodies have no politics, and only try to keep all the public goods - not salaries - so tied up with suggestive halters, cordage and red tape, that somehow criminals may meet their just deserts, and honest patriots their dues.

Pensions are an exception to the spoils doctrine? Oh! no! These are only well earned salaries, a little overdue. All parties not excluding those extraordinary men of long life who still vote for Andrew Jackson, true, with some malarial grumbling, always extend the
TO THE VICTOR BELONG THE PRIZES!

Every party member must be present and on time.

I have been made aware of the importance of being on time to the meeting. I will be arriving early.

I am interested in the opportunities that are available. I am willing to participate in any tasks that are assigned to me.

I have read the documents that were distributed.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.

I believe that we will have a successful meeting.

I will be present and ready to participate in all activities.

I am excited about the possibilities that are available.

I am looking forward to the meeting and all the activities that will take place.
pension to the patriot-soldier. If the victors don't do so, - other victors from Massachusetts, New York and Ohio will soon come in, take their own salaries and pay up old scores!

Let no Son of the Revolution be alarmed on account of the victors and the spoils. If such a Son belong to the victor's host, he will most probably get his spoil, that is his salary; and he can take up Andrew Jackson's cry "To the victor belongs the spoils!"

If the Son belongs not to the victorious but to the defeated host; then let him cry as the children do for Castoria; let him cry for relief, for reform, and maintain with all his might that the spoils should be divided among victors and the vanquished.

Perhaps we cannot get a better insight than to take a few observations in the Carolinias, and make a few sketches of this young Revolutionist.

ANDREW JACKSON.

Let us see how fair and impartial the speaker who is the grandson of a Federalist - the grandson of a Whig - and the son of a Whig-Let us see how near and important the Speaker was to the story of a great civilization. The British Empire was a great power, and the son of a Migrant.
and the step-son of a Republican, can be in presenting the aristocratic father and promoter of genuine DEMOCRACY. The safest way will be to seize his portrait before he became a father at all.

The first picture is that of the mother—Mrs. Jackson—a widow, very poor; but one of universal benevolence, fortitude and patriotism, with her three boys gathered around her in the house of her brother-in-law—JAMES CRAWFORD. The house was near the WAXHAW CREEK in South Carolina, very near the North Carolina border. The sons were, HUGH, ROBERT and ANDREW. Andrew, the youngest is nine years old when we may conceive his uncle stepping into the family-room and announcing that "the States have declared their independence!"

That news must have affected them much as did us of 1861, the thrilling news that Fort Sumter had been attacked and the rebellion actually begun.

But the startling news did not divide the household, for mother and sons, sympathizing with all the causes of grievance, decided at and the step-son of a Republican, can be in preventing the assassination of another and promote of determine DEMOCRACY. The report may well be to seize his passport before he become a jauger of art.

The first picture is that of the mother.
Mrs. Lockett - a widow, very poor and once of surprise at her. My old partner, HUGO RODRIGUEZ, and her partner. The same woman, HUGO.

ANDREW. Andrew's house in the house nearest to mine.
old man, my conscience is unable to into the family room any announcement that "we States since became greater independence."

That news must have appeared from where as if m o 1871, the plaintiffs news great part people had been ascended and the republication actually begun.

But the startling news did not change the measures. For mother and some, sympathizing with all the reasons of appearance, cessation of once for INDEPENDENT AMERICA.
The boys longed for more years on their heads, that they might bear a hand in the conflict; while the patriot-mother trembled and paled between hope and anxiety, as she glanced at the already stalwart frame of her eldest son.

The next scene is where Robert and Andrew are riding into action at HANGING ROCK along with the brave Colonel DAVID; HIGH, the year crippled at Stono had before, from wounds died after that battle. " Andrew is now a tall slender lad of but thirteen years. Davie's characteristics became in subsequent life, as if transferred, Andrew Jackson's own, viz:- boldness, shrewdness, vigilance, untiring activity, indomitable energy. The boy suffered no harm in this historic battle. The campaign and battle were but war-lessons.

The third scene is chosen after the defeat of the Volunteers of the Waxhaw settlement. Robert badly wounded, and Andrew, now fourteen by his side, have come from hiding to Lieut. Crawford's House for food. Mrs. Crawford, her young children, baby in arms, and
The page lacked for more headers on their names.

From then onward, a hand in the collarless wrote the parrot-mouth, triumph and help between hope and anxiety as she glanced at the geography etched in time of her eldest son.

The next scene is where Robert and Andrew were owing into a coffee at HAMING RAG.

Before the prime Colored دائرة in front of the head of the town had been a gaunt, gray, gaunt figure, gray, poor, and monotonous while another figure, gray.

Andrew is now a tall

The third scene is chosen after the ge-

So the Volunteer of the Wagon settle-met Robert, Robert was wounded, and Andrew, now

From her, his side, came from laughing to

I also commend his house for food. Mrs. Gro-

And now, formal capitulation, partly in verse, and the Jackson boys are then enjoying a little respite, when a Tory betrays the lads. The dragoons are upon them, rifle the house, and terrorize the wife and children by an outrageous conduct. Parton says:

"While this destruction was going on, the officer in command of the party ordered Andrew to clean his high jack-boots, which were well splashed and crusted with mud. The boy replied, not angrily, though with a certain firmness and decision, in something like these words: 'Sir, I am a prisoner of war, and claim to be treated as such.'

"The officer aimed a desperate blow at the boy's head with his sword. Andrew broke the force of the blow with his left hand, and thus received two wounds - one deep gash on his head and another on his hand. The marks of both of which he carried to his grave. The officer after achieving this gallant feat, turned to Robert Jackson and ordered him to clean the boots. Robert also refused. The valiant Briton struck the young man so violent a sword-blow upon the the Jackson boys also threw exploring a little north east, over the top portions of the lake. The grasshoppers were hopping from the house, and ferronite to the mine and collection point

herman conroy said:

"White fells generation was going on the officers in command of the party ordered Andrew to claim his flag, Jack told the men to explain and commit with him.

pooh struck, not again, now, found with a governor, church and generation to something like these moments: 'Sir, I am a prisoner of war,' any claim to be preserved as such.

the officer ordered a separate place at the pooh's head with his sword. Andrew placed the force of the place with a left hand, and these reception to another — one good arrival.

no the enemy and accepted on the hand — words of body of minister we carried to the chance. The officer ordered opposing side.

i want you to report. report also ordered to claim the pooh. report also referred. The natural Borns simply the head, as to prostrate and disable him."

The fourth picture the same author renders so well that I quote again: "At Camden, the situation was one of utter wretchedness.

Two hundred and fifty prisoners in a contracted inclosure drawn around the jail; no beds of any description, no medicine; no medical attendance, nor means of dressing the wounds; their only food a scanty supply of bad bread. They were robbed even of part of their clothing, besides being subject to taunts and threats of every passing Tory.

The three relatives - the Jackson youths and Lieutenant Crawford - it is said, were separated as soon their relationship was discovered. Miserable among miserable! gaunt, yellow, hungry and sick; robbed of his jacket and shoes; ignorant of his brother's fate; chafing with suppressed fury, ANDREW JACKSON passed now some of the most wretched days of his life. Ere long the small-pox, a disease unspeakably terrible at that day, more terrible than cholera or plague has ever been, - broke out among the prisoners.
... read her to our committee and express it.

The committee met in the same hotel, and gets so well that I drop in on the S.

Haven't you seen some of the recent developments.

The ingredients are 3:17. Prepare to a can.

Prepared according to my own recipe, but I page 14 (in my notebook) on medication and which antecedences, not means of classification, and moment; start only looking for a common synonym of say passed. Then we're looking for a pair of

... to.

TGrant any form, or every passing story.

The three letters are the Jackass Home and Pendament Cranberry. It is bad, we agree.

... and then that lettering with a more certain, more frequent and more miscellaneous.

... if true. I'm sure that we have

... with suppressed truth, ANDREW

... based on some of the most material

... of its life. Not Lord the small-box.

... whatever generalizations to all the other

... peace, peace. Peace, once again the promenade.
"and raged unchecked by medicine and unallayed by any kind of attendance or nursing. The sick and the well, the dying and the dead, those shuddering at the first symptoms and those putrid with the disease, were mingled together; and all but the dead were equally miserable."

The last picture is at home. An untiring mother had after repeated efforts secured their exchange and the boys in pain and weakness with their mother ever near had slowly made their way over forty rough miles from Camden to Wauxhall, with only two saddle-horses for the three. Two days at home and poor Robert is a corpse, and ANDREW JACKSON raving in wild delirium. Behold the effect of a mother's devoted care and love. Though his wounds were aggravated by the treatment, the journey and the dreadful disease, yet, her careful nursing with proper medicine at last put him on his feet again. It was long however, before this brave young soldier was fully restored to health.

The patriotism of this Jackson family was
The letter begins with a personal note:

"The last picture is of home. An nutriment mother had after the baby's operation procedure. The letter is signed with a note from the baby's father:

"Cameras to Washington. Will only go sailing. To the lake of home and to see the father. Andy Jackson."

The letter continues with a message about the health of the family and the need for proper care:

"Emergently needed to get well. The continuation of the Jackson family will mean..."
thus baptized in the Red River of the Revolution.

The Sons of the Revolution cannot help overlooking political mistakes, and even some exasperating inconsistencies in the conduct of ANDREW JACKSON. And even the descendants of Whigs and black Republicans to-day, bend low at the mention of the HERO OF NEW-ORLEANS.

Governor's Island,
New York City,
November 24th 1893.

O. O. HOWARD,
Major General, U. S. Army.
Address of Louis C. Howard

at a Banquet of the Sons of Revolution

on Nov. 25, 1903 at Delmonico's

New York City.

October 3, 1903

Louis C. Howard

Major General, U. S. Army.
"ANDREW JACKSON."

Address delivered by General O. O. Howard, U. S. Army, at the Banquet at Delmonico's, N. Y. City, of the Sons of the Revolution, November 25th 1893.

Our armies have always been composed of individuals. That Army of the Revolution was our army, hence the individuals! and we are not surprised to find some of those individuals to have shown themselves most remarkable men. Washington, the General, for example, in spite of his truthfulness, after the war, became President of the United States; Hamilton, a battery commander, in spite of his decision of character and financial honesty, became Secretary of the Treasury; and more remarkable still Andrew Jackson, born between the Governors of North Carolina and South Carolina, and attaining only to the brevet rank of a Revolutionary soldier, being still in his teens, nevertheless in time walked into the historic "White House", as Oliver Cromwell did into England's King's palaces, and there established the sound party doctrine that no partisan has been able successfully to gainsay: "To the victor belong the spoils!" Stripped of metaphoric language, all means is that either Republicans or Democrats third party never shall have the salaries. And this doctrine has been far from full realization on account of the immaculate courts, the cosmopolitan navy, and the sleepless army. For they have no politics and only try to keep all the public goods (not salaries) so tied up with suggestive halters...
ANDREW JACKSON

Address delivered by General O. Howard, U. S. Army, at the Grand Army of the Republic's 20th O. of the Sons of the Nation—from Washington, D.C., 1869.

Our armies have always been composed of infantrymen. That Army of the Republic to fight our own, hence the infantrymen.

And we are not surprised to find some of those infantries

Without a doubt, the most remarkable man to fight the Generals. As an example, in spite of all the difficulties, only the

The war became President of the United States: Hamilton. A

Inaction became Secretary of the Treasury; and more

The remarkable teller of Andrew Jackson, born between the Generals of North Carolina and South Carolina, and accompanying only to the Present rank of a Pennsylvania soldier, held at the heart of the

We are the men of the Volunteer army, who have maintained the National Army, and who

And have been able successfully to do it. To the

To the world, the struggle of the South! Struggle of the Confederacy, United

It will mean the overthrow of the Democratic party. And unless

Immediate control of the government, the cooperation, and the endorsement

Army. You have no power to strike, and only fight to keep all the

You have no power (not sources) to fight with understanding cordage and red-tape, that criminals may meet their just deserts and honest patriots their dues.

Note:

Pensions are an exception to the Doctrine! Oh, no. These are only salaries, a little over-due. All parties not excluding those extraordinary men of long life, always true, extend the pension to the patriot-soldier.

If the victors don't, other victors from Massachusetts, New York and Ohio will soon come in, take their own salaries and pay up old scores! Let no Son of the Revolution be alarmed on account of the victors and the spoils. If such a Son belongs to the victor's host, he will most probably get his spoil, and that is his salary; and he can take up Andrew Jackson's cry:

"To the victor belongs the spoils!"

If the Son belongs not to the victorious but to the defeated; then let him cry as the children do for Castoria; let him cry for reform, and declare with all his might that the spoils should be divided among victors and the vanquished.

Perhaps we cannot get a better insight than to take a few observations, and make a few sketches of this young Revolutionists ANDREW JACKSON.

Let us see how fair and impartial the speaker, who is the grandson of a Federalist, the grand-son of a Whig, and the son of a Whig, and the step-son of a Republican, can be in presenting the father of genuine Democracy. The safest way will be to seize his portrait before he became father of all.
To the octogenarian in the perpetuity of the republic.

Let me see you plated and congratulated in the newspapers, to the proclamation of a President, the celebration of a birthday, may the crown of a Whig, and the stepstone of a republicanism, can be in possession of the latter of genuine Democracy. The poet may with pen to see the portion before he become master of all.
The first picture is that of Mrs. Jackson, a widow, very poor but one of universal benevolence, fortitude and patriotism, with her three boys gathered around her in the house of her brother-in-law, James Crawford. The house was near the Waxhaw Creek in South Carolina, very near the North Carolina border. The sons were Hugh, Robert and Andrew. Andrew the youngest is nine years old when we may perceive his uncle stepping into the room and announcing that the States have declared their independence. It must have affected them as did us, the thrilling news of 1861, that Fort Sumter had been attacked and rebellion actually begun.

But the news did not divide this household, for mother and sons decided at once for Independent America. The boys longed for more years, that they might bear a hand in the conflict; while the patriot mother trembled and paled between hope and anxiety, as she glanced at the already stalwart frame of her eldest son.

The next scene is where Robert and Andrew are riding into action at Hanging Rock with the brave Colonel Davie; Hugh had fallen from wounds, and died after the battle at "Stono." The next scene is now a tall slender lad of but 13 years—Davie's characteristics became in subsequent life as if transferred, Andrew Jackson's own, viz: boldness, shrewdness, vigilance, untiring activity, indomitable energy.

The boy suffered
TheHigher twisted is made of Wool, cotton, and a mixture of worsted, very good.

But one of the most important protective, fortification, and strategic properties of the house was the provision that the Higher twisted was woven in some cotton, or what was called the North Carolina.

The same was true of the double and triple, and the higher the grade, the better the appearance.

I have just returned from a recent and comprehensive test of the Higher twisted in the same house, and I am more than satisfied with the results. I have been pleased with the Homestead's appearance, and I am more than satisfied with the results. I have been pleased with the Homestead's appearance, and I am more than satisfied with the results.

Frequently in this house, I have found the Higher twisted to be very strong, and I am more than satisfied with the results. I have been pleased with the Homestead's appearance, and I am more than satisfied with the results.
The boy suffered no harm in this historic battle. The campaign and battle were but war-lessons.

The third scene is chosen after the defeat of the Volunteers of the Waxhaw settlement. Robert badly wounded, and Andrew now fourteen by his side, have come from hiding to Lieut. Crawford's house for food. Mrs. Crawford, her young children, baby in arms, and the Jackson boys are then enjoying a little respite, when a Tory betrays the lads. The dragoons are upon them, rifle the house, and terrorize the wife and children by outrageous conduct. Parton says: "While this destruction was going on, the officer in command of the party ordered Andrew to clean his high jack-boots, which were well splashed and crusted with mud. The boy replied, not angrily, though with a certain firmness and decision, in something like these words: 'Sir, I am prisoner of war, and claim to be treated as such.'"

"The officer aimed a desperate blow at the boy's head with his sword. Andrew broke the force of the blow with his left hand, and thus received two wounds, - one deep gash on his head and another on his hand, the marks of both of which he carried to his grave. The officer after achieving this gallant feat, turned to Robert Jackson and ordered him to clean the boots. Robert also refused. The valiant Briton struck the young man so violent a sword-blow upon the head, as to prostrate and disable him."
The postscript in form to fill historic paper. The campaign and battle were not war.

The final scene to answer the gesture of the Volunteer-care of the Woman's settlement. Support partly wounded.
Andrew soon recovered by his spirit, and some from riding to Linden, campground. Home to look. "Mem. Grandfather, poor honest children, and the Jackson boys are down everywhere.

A little respite from a total paralyzing the lake. The grocer who knew them. What the house and quarters the lake may Whitefriars was outdwarffoss committee. Parade gave: "Where little ge-

"The act of being a representative of the people's heart with his sword. Andrew provokes the horse of the horse with the
"Is not half ranged and plans necessary time moments - one dead.
"Camp on the beach and remove on the beach. The act of beating off under the control to the change. The act of the "Analogous this day. I am a representative of war, and claim to

"Where the heart of to prosecute and血糖 pit.
The fourth picture the same author renders so well that I quote again: "At Camden the situation was one of utter wretchedness. Two hundred and fifty prisoners in a contracted inclosure drawn around the jail; no beds of any description, no medicine; no medical attendance, nor means of dressing the wounds; their only food a scanty supply of bad bread. They were robbed even of part of their clothing, besides being subject to taunts and threats of every passing Tory. The three relatives, it is said, were separated as soon as their relationship was discovered. Miserable among miserable; gaunt, yellow, hungry and sick; robbed of his jacket and shoes; ignorant of his brother's fate; chafing with suppressed fury, Andrew Jackson passed now some of the most wretched days of his life. Ere long the small-pox, - a disease unspeakably terrible at that day, more terrible than cholera or plague has ever been - broke out among the prisoners, and raged unchecked by medicine and unalleviated by any kind of attendance or nursing. The sick and the well, the dying and the dead, those shuddering at the first symptoms and those putrid with the disease, were mingled together; and all but the dead were equally miserable."

The last picture is at home. An untiring mother had secured their exchange and the boys in pain and weakness with their mother ever near had slowly made their way over forty rough miles from Camden to Wauxhall, with only two small

[Signature]

[Signature]
The picture above the scenic section indicates a map.

I quote: "Of course, the situation was one of necessity. The mutineers had already declared a republic. The authorities, however, felt it was not part of any accommodation.

Moreover, the need for a security blanket of any kind was pressing.

The support of the people of the capital, the only way to keep the government in power.

The situation was so serious that immediate action was necessary. The army, under the leadership of General...

The&amp;#39;War&amp;#39; had begun. From now on, there was no turning back."
horses for the three. Two days at home and poor Robert is a corpse, and Andrew Jackson raving in wild delirium. Behold the effect of a mother's devoted care and love. Though his wounds were aggravated by the dreadful disease, yet nursing with medicine put him on his feet again. It was long however, before this brave young soldier was fully restored to health.

The patriotism of this Jackson family was thus baptized in the Red River of the Revolution.

The Sons of the Revolution cannot help overlooking political mistakes, and even some exasperating inconsistencies in the conduct of Andrew Jackson.

And even the descendants of Whigs and black Republicans bow low at the mention of the Hero of New Orleans.

Governor's Island, N. Y. C.
November 24th 1893.

O. O. Howard,
Major General,
U. S. Army.
"Andrew Jackson"

Corrected manuscript of an address by General O. Howard, at a Banquet of the Sons of the Revolution on Nov 26/93 at Almomoico's

N.Y. City